MACON, NEW NAVY AIRSHIP, MAKES FIRST TRIAL FLIGHT

Dirigible Soars Over Akron, O., and Cleveland With 105 Persons Aboard—Visibility Good, Says Radio Report to Base.

KIPPER PLANNING TRIP OF 11 HOURS

Five Other Preliminary Runs Scheduled So Officials Can Decide If Sister Ship of Akron Meets Contract Requirements.

y the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, April 21. — The avy dirigible Macon, making its aiden flight, arrived over Cleveand Airport at 7:30 a. m. today, n hour and a half after it went loft at Akron, about 30 miles way.

y the Associated Press.

AKRON, O., April 21.—The Navy irship Macon, sister ship of the ill-d Akron, took off here at 5:59 a. today on its maiden flight.

The giant dirigible—the world's rgest—carried 105 persons, includg 11 officers, with Capt. Alger H. resel in command, eight members f the Naval Board of Inspection nder Rear Admiral George C. Day, nd 31 engineers and inspectors of e Goodyear-Zeppelin Co., the uilders.

After the Macon had been aloft an our and a half, Capt. Dresel sent adio orders to dismiss the ground rew until 5 p. m., indicating the hip would remain up well over 11 ours.

For more than an hour Capt. resel kept the Macon in this viinity, then headed for Cleveland. radio message from the ship said he Macon would remain within 50 iles of Akron. The Macon was eiving weather reports from the nacostia Naval Station, near Washington. Visibility was good nd clouds were scattered.

One Minor Accident.

A minor accident was the only ntoward incident as the Macon osed off into a six-mile-an-hour ortheast breeze shortly after dayreak. J. E. Wilson, a member of he ground crew, slipped from a tform of the mobile mooring ast and suffered injury of the legs. He was taken to a hospital for an X-ray examination.

Capt. Dresel profited by the experience learned through operation f the tilting propellers of the Akron. Instead of a free balloon akeoff as was done when the Akron first went aloft a year and a alf ago, the propellers were tilted nd the engines turned on immediately.

Many of the Macon's crew and fficers were veterans of service board the Akron, and a few had een service on the ill-fated Shenandoah.

As the day broke, Capt. Dresel ave the signal to undock the ship. The 130-ton mooring mast was wheels on to the field and the ship as swung around to face the wind. Water ballast was dropped to level off.

Order for "Up Ship."

Capt. Dresel gave the order, "Up hip," and the Macon floated free. The eight powerful motors were urned on and the ship circled off o the southeast.

Today's flight was designed to nable Capt. Dresel and members f the Naval Board to watch the hip's performance and study its ropeller arrangement, speed posibilities and probable fuel conmption.

The complete schedule of tests hich will determine whether the avy shall pronounce the ship as ulfilling the contract requirements ill include six runs for a total of bout 84 hours. They will deterine the $2,450,000 craft's power, peed, climbing ability, endurance nd other factors.

The contract under which the Macon was built specified a maximum speed of at least 80 miles an our and a cruising radius of 10,000 iles without refueling. This speed s somewhat greater than that of he Akron.

Former Commander of Akron.

Capt. Dresel only recently was ssigned to the command of the Macon. He previously commanded he Akron, at which post he was elieved by Capt. F. C. McCord, ho died with Rear Admiral W. A. offett and 71 others when the kron crashed into the sea off

ROOSEVELT INFLATION BILL DENOUNCED IN SENATE AS 'PLAYING WITH DYNAMITE'

Reed of Pennsylvania Leads G. O. P. Attack—Committee Indorses Measure After Tie Vote on Dollar's Gold Content.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The battle over President Roosevelt's program for "controlled inflation" of the currency burst into the open on the Senate floor this afternoon and raged with dramatic intensity. Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, conservative Republican and former attorney for the Mellon interests, led the fight against the President's plan.

Offered as an amendment to the pending farm bill, this plan would authorize the President, in his discretion:

To expand the currency of the United States up to $3,000,000,000 through Federal Reserve banks, by "open market" operations.

To issue Treasury notes in that amount if the Federal Reserve Banks refuse to co-operate, these notes to replace Government bonds.

Or, if the Federal Reserve operations are successful, but inadequate, to issue $2,000,000,000 more in Treasury notes, thus bringing the total to $6,000,000,000.

To reduce the gold content of the dollar by as much as one-half if necessary.

To accept $100,000,000 in silver in payment of foreign debts and to issue a like amount of silver certificates, to be used in paying off Federal debts.

Tie Vote on Gold Content.

The program was approved early this afternoon by the Banking and Currency Committee after a hot and sometimes bitter discussion lasting two and a half hours. The provision authorizing the President to reduce the gold content of the dollar remained in the bill after the committee had deadlocked, by a vote of 10 to 10, on a motion to strike it out.

However, it did adopt an amendment proposed by Senator William G. McAdoo of California, war-time Secretary of the Treasury, designed to put a brake on inflation. Under the McAdoo amendment the Federal Reserve Board, by a vote of not less than five of its members, and with the approval of the President, would be authorized to require member banks of the Federal Reserve System to increase their reserves.

Soon after the committee reported the measure, Senate Democrats, in an informal caucus, voted to proceed with the plan of accepting it as a rider to the farm bill, and not as a separate measure. Some significance was given to the fact that two former Democratic Secretaries of the Treasury, McAdoo and Carter Glass, were opposed to the President's program.

"Playing With Dynamite."

Senator Reed, attacking it violently on the Senate floor, declared that Roosevelt was "playing with dynamite." He said the program would do one of two things—accomplish nothing, or result in national disaster.

"There may be a momentary exhiliration," he shouted, "but there will be a terrible headache the morning after."

At the peak of Reed's denunciation, Senator Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, arose and walked toward him, holding a German note in his outstretched hand.

"Just at this point," said Vandenberg, "I would like to present the Senator from Pennsylvania with a German 100 billion mark note which was worth, at the time it was issued, about 2½ cents."

Reaching into his pocket Reed replied: "I thank the Senator for his grit, and in return I desire to present him with a Russian 10,000 rouble note of approximately the same value."

It was a rather effective bit of theatricals, but a suspicion lingered that the two Senators had rehearsed it earlier.

"He May Destroy Country."

President Roosevelt's program reminds me of nothing so much as a child playing with dynamite," Reed declared. "He is trying to make prices go up. He may succeed temporarily, the trouble is that in doing so he may destroy the country and himself.

"To tamper with the currency is like lighting the fuse of a high explosive, and standing by to see what happens. If the fuse sputters and dies nothing happens, and in the case of the President's program, nothing would be accomplished. If it reaches the explosive things happen rapidly and with destructive effect.

"The whole history of inflationary experiments in other countries shows that it is almost as impossible to control inflation set in motion by printing-press money, following the abandonment of the gold standard, as it is to keep a charge of nitroglycerin in check when the burning fuse reaches it.

"England tried the experiment of abandoning the gold standard. She gained nothing, and lost much. British prestige was never lower than it is today. As long as we remained on the gold standard we

LINDBERGH AND WIFE ARRIVE IN ST. LOUIS

Pair, on Transcontinental Inspection Flight, to Stop Here for Night.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Lambert-St. Louis Airport at 1:22 o'clock this afternoon, after a flight of an hour and 27 minutes from Indianapolis.

They are making an inspection tour of the routes of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., for which Col. Lindbergh is technical adviser.

Col. Lindbergh's plans were not definite when he arrived, but after a telephone conversation with the headquarters of his company he announced he and Mrs. Lindbergh would remain in St. Louis over night. They were expected to stay at Hotel Chase.

About 50 persons were on hand to welcome the Lindberghs on their first visit to St. Louis in more than three years. Those present were chiefly employes at the airport, newspaper men and photographers.

The newsmen and photographers went forward on the taxi strip as Col. Lindbergh's red monoplane, after circling the field, landed in the southwest section and taxied to the terminal. Others waited behind the fence.

Col. Lindbergh, hatless and in a rumpled gray suit, stepped from the plane and shook hands with reporters who knew him when he was a mail pilot here before his trans-Atlantic flight to Paris in 1927. He assisted Mrs. Lindbergh to the ground and they posed for the photographers. Mrs. Lindbergh wore a tailored blue suit, a hat of the same color, with a red and blue feather. Over her arm she carried a lightweight blue coat.

The Colonel said he had not yet decided how long they would stay in St. Louis, or where they would go from here. "I'll have to do some telephoning first," he explained.

He went to the offices of the Robertson Airplane Service Corporation to put in his telephone call, pausing at the fence to greet old associates.

Leaving Mrs. Lindbergh in the Robertson office, the Colonel went back in the hangar for a cursory examination of the T-W-A equipment there. Returning, he went with Mrs. Lindbergh, Frank Robertson and Oscar Parks, the field manager, to inspect the recently completed administration building at the airport.

The Lindberghs left Newark, N. J., on the inspection trip Wednesday. The only untoward incident of the flight occurred at Pittsburgh yesterday when an airport attendant put five gallons of water in the plane's tank, mistaking it for gasoline.

Taking off before the blunder was detected, Col. Lindbergh had the plane 200 feet in the air when his motor went dead. He made a safe "dead stick" landing at the airport. They reached Columbus, O., last night and took off from there this morning at 10:52 a. m., Eastern time. A brief stop was made at Indianapolis, where they landed at 11:07, Central time, and they were again in the air at 11:55.

VERA CRUZ HONORS MEXICANS KILLED WHEN U. S. TOOK CITY

Twelve Bodies Re-interred in New Memorial; All Business Halted.

By the Associated Press.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, April 21.—All business was ordered halted for a period of mourning today as Mexicans honored 12 countrymen killed 19 years ago, when the United States navy occupied Vera Cruz. The 12 bodies, after lying in state overnight in the Municipal Palace, were re-interred with ceremony in the crypts of a new memorial. The memorial honors several hundred Mexicans who died in the fighting.

Some students passed a resolution declaring U. S. Ambassador Josephus Daniels is persona non grata because he was United States Secretary of the Navy at the time of the occupation.

WOMEN WATCH HEIDELBERG DUEL FOUGHT IN PUBLIC

Professors and Officials Attend Mensur, Legalized by Hitler; Beer Party Afterward.

By the Associated Press.

HEIDELBERG, Germany, April 21.—For the first time in the 550-year history of Heidelberg University, the president of t'e university, professors, the Chief of Police and the State's Attorney, attended a student duel yesterday.

The student duel (mensur) has been restored to favor by the Nationalist Government. It had been barred by law for eight years under the Republic.

The mensur took place on Germany's oldest fencing floor in the Hirschgasse. Alumni of the university from all parts of the country, representatives of the Steel Helmet and National Socialist storm troop organizations and even women attended.

The duel was followed by a festkommers, or beer party, in the course of which speakers praised Chancellor Hitler for recognizing the duel as an educational measure for inculcating bravery.

HUMANE SOCIETY TO DO DOG-CATCHING IN ST. LOUIS

Mayor Dickmann Removes This Work From Jurisdiction of City Marshal.

Dog-catching for the city will henceforth be done by the Humane Society, instead of by a crew of men under the direction of City Marshal Duffy, Mayor Dickmann announced today, after a conference with Health Commissioner Starkloff and Comptroller Nolte.

The Health Commissioner informed the Mayor and Comptroller that present arrangements were inadequate, with too many dogs running the streets unmuzzled. The Mayor and Comptroller represent a majority of the Board of Estimate and with their decision for the change, the Mayor announced he would authorize the Humane Society to use the city's equipment and would have the city pay the society for its work.

ROOSEVELT TO MAKE TRIP ON POTOMAC WITH MACDONALD

Recovered From Cold, President Completes Plans for Cruise. Sunday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Recovered from the slight cold which has kept him at the White House for a couple of days, President Roosevelt today had completed plans for a cruise down the Potomac Sunday to talk over mutual problems with Ramsay MacDonald, British Premier who arrives in Washington late this afternoon. The trip will be made on the Navy boat, Sequoia.

The Sequoia will leave Washington about 9:30 Sunday morning. The boat is not expected to dock at Washington again until about 9:30 p. m.

At the White House, it was said that only a small party would make the trip, including Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ishbel MacDonald.

The President returned to his executive offices today for the first time since Tuesday.

JAKE THE BARBER GETS HIS SON BACK FROM KIDNAPERS

He Denies Ransom Was Paid but Some Police Think Part of $50,000 Demand Was Met.

BOY RELEASED WITH AID OF GANGSTERS

Freed on Chicago Street, He Returns to Mother's Home — Doesn't Know Where He Was Held.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Jerome Factor, 19-year-old Northwestern University student and son of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, was released by kidnapers early today and returned to his mother's home in the Rogers Park district. He was seized a week ago last Wednesday night and held for $50,000 ransom.

Some of the police were inclined to believe that at least part of the $50,000 was paid, but the elder Factor denied this. "I never paid them a cent," he said, "and I'll see this thing through." Capt. Daniel Gilbert, head of the State's Attorney's police, also said no ransom was paid.

Factor said he brought about his son's release through gangsters who worked in collaboration with police. The key men in this organization, he said, were Murray Humphries, candidate for the Public Enemy No. 1, place left vacant by Al Capone, and Police Lieutenant Leo Carr.

Aid From Underworld.

"We enlisted every influential figure in the underworld," Factor said. "Those people may be bad, but they hold kidnapers in deep contempt. They were energetic, faithful workers for me.

"We decided Saturday that publicity would help, so we notified newspapers and police. (That was three days after the kidnaping.) I concocted a fake letter, mentioning $50,000 although $100,000 was demanded by the kidnapers. When that was printed the plotters suspected one of their own number was double-crossing them. Jerry himself told me the kidnapers discussed this letter. They were worried and finally they told him 'there is too much heat in this case.' I think that letter led to his release."

Throughout the long investigation Factor expressed a desire to deal with the kidnapers himself, rather than have the police attempt to solve the case. He left his suite in the Morrison Hotel early last night on a secret trip which gave rise to the opinion that he made arrangements for his son's release. It was not until about 2 a. m., however, that young Factor appeared at the apartment of his mother, Mrs. Leonard Marcus, John Factor's former wife.

As near as the boy could tell, Gilbert said, he was driven by the kidnapers to a point in the city unfamiliar to him and released. After walking several blocks, he said, he hailed a taxicab and told the driver to take him to his mother's home.

Boy's Story of Seizure.

Jerome said the room in which his abductors kept him "looked a lot like a coffin." Aside from that, he added, the experience "wasn't so bad."

"I got anything I asked for," he said. "They brought me magazines and newspapers, and I spent most of the time reading the stories about the kidnaping."

Young Factor said he was kidnaped about 10:45 o'clock a week ago Wednesday night when two men stepped out from behind two pillars as he approached the entrance of the apartment building in which he lived with his mother.

Taking him by each arm, he said, they walked him to the curb where they threw a coat over his head before shoving him into a big automobile. Once in the car, he said, one of the men said: "Well, kid, we're going to find out how much your dad thinks of you."

After being driven around, he said, he was carried into a building and up several flights of stairs and put into the "coffin" room, which for furnishings had a mattress and pillow and no windows.

"I never got a glimpse of the men who were holding me. They would just thrust the food into the room," he continued.

"I wrote three letters, the first two on Thursday. The second letter was dictated carefully by the men, instructing me to tell my father how to insert ads in the papers, using the names of 'Mary' and 'Joe' and how to park his automobile if he was ready to comply with their demands.

"Then they took me in an automobile to another house and I spent a day there under close guard. Last night they put me in a car again and one of the men remarked, 'Buddy, we're going to release you now. And we didn't get any money for all this trouble.'

MAYOR TO DISMISS FIRE CHIEF AND 5 COMMISSIONERS

Three Efficiency Board Members to Be Let Go and New Group Named by Dickmann.

Five commissioners at the heads of city divisions, the Fire Chief, the three members of the Efficiency Board and the City Marshal are to be dismissed and new appointments made, Mayor Dickmann announced today. He has not decided whom to appoint to these places.

Incumbents slated for retirement are:

Fred Pape, Commissioner of Parks and Recreation for 16 years; a member and former chairman of the Republican City Committee.

Joseph M. Slater, Street Commissioner for 16 years.

E. O. Aegerter, Building Commissioner for five years.

J. L. Rilliet Jr., Water Commissioner for a year; previously an engineer in the Department of Public Utilities for years and for a time head of the department.

William H. Hubele, Commissioner of Weights and Measures for five years and Seventh Ward Republican committeeman.

Frank A. De Voto, Fire Chief for about nine months and formerly a subordinate officer of the department.

William Duffy, City Marshal for eight years.

William T. Kirchels, chairman of the Efficiency Board.

William Tanner, member of this board.

Sidney S. May, also a member of this board.

All the foregoing officials are Republicans, except May. The Efficiency Board is bipartisan and if reorganized by Dickmann doubtless will consist of two Democrats and one Republican.

The Water Commissioner's annual salary is $7000. That of the Park, Street and Building Commissioners and the chairman of the Efficiency Board is $6000. The Fire Chief is paid $5600, the Marshal $4500, the Commissioner of Weights & Measures $4000 and the two Efficiency Board members, who are not required to give full time, $2000 each. The Charter fixes the Marshal's salary at $3000, but it was increased by ordinance.

It will be Mayor Dickmann's policy to change the entire personnel of the Efficiency Board, which conducts the city's civil service, as soon as possible. He arranged a conference today with Charles M. Hay the new City Counselor, to

NEW YORK STOCKS DECLINE $1 TO $5 ON PROFIT-TAKING

Early Advances on Exchange Wiped Out in 5,000,000-Share Day — Dollar Rallies Strongly.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Profit-taking turned stocks and commodities downward today while the dollar rallied strongly in terms of foreign currencies.

Markets were still very active, but new buying was insufficient to absorb selling. Shares dipped sharply in the late dealings after wheat had closed with losses of about 1½ cents a bushel. Utility issues turned heavy and rails, which had risen from $1 to $5 at the opening, saw those advances dwindle rapidly.

The pronounced strength of dollar exchange appeared to reflect hasty covering by speculators who had been selling short since the United States forsook the gold standard.

Sterling, which had been up 7 cents at the opening to $3.90, broke several cents below Thursday's closing rate, while French francs, Swiss francs and Dutch guilders dropped rapidly.

Some dealers also attributed the swift reversal partly to the transfer of funds to New York in payment for commodity and security purchases. The highest grade bonds rallied with the dollar.

Stocks closed with approximate losses of $1 to $5, but somewhat above their low marks for the day. The sales exceeded 5,000,000 shares.

United States Steel common closed at $40.87, off $1.37; American Telephone at $93, off $3; Standard Oil of New Jersey at $33.12, off 87 cents; Corn Products at $67, off $2.87; Bethlehem Steel at $21.12, off $1.62; Sears Roebuck at $21.75, off $1.75; Cerro de Pasco Copper $19.25, off $4.25; National Steel $29.50, off $2; Case $50.87, off $1.25; United States Smelting $35.50, off $5; Anaconda 10.75, off $1.50.

Union Pacific, which had rallied $3.37, closed at $71.50, off 12 cents; Delaware & Hudson at $24, was up $1.25 net. New York Central, opening $4 higher at $25 on a block of 25,000 shares, finished at $22.75, up $1.75. Northern Pacific's net gain was 62 cents, the final price being $16.50, while Santa Fe at $46.62, was off 12 cents, and Louisville & Nashville was $1.50 higher at $36.

North American reacted $3.37 to $20.50, General Motors $1.12 to $16.37 and Consolidated Gas of New York $5.50 to $44.50.

Cotton, after a rally of about $1 a bale, also met heavy profit-taking and closed unchanged to 25 cents higher.

PREMIER ARRIVES FOR CONFERENCES WITH ROOSEVELT

PAVING WAY FOR LONDON PARLEY

Lands at Jersey City and Takes Train for Washington Where He Will Remain Till Next Wednesday.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Arriving in the United States to help map the campaign for "a war against unmerited poverty," Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said today that America's abandonment of the gold standard affected England "not at all so far as I am concerned."

MacDonald left the Berengaria at quarantine and was taken ashore on the city tug Macom. He landed at Jersey City, N. J., and left for Washington at 12:58 p. m. on a special train. He will sail from New York for England next Wednesday night.

In a brief interview on the liner Berengaria before he was taken ashore, MacDonald was asked if he was disappointed in President Roosevelt's action in taking the United States off the gold standard.

"Oh gracious no," he replied, adding that he really was without information concerning this development aside from the bare fact that this country had for the time being abandoned the gold standard.

"It only brings out in higher light," he said, "the distress of the world and that is what your President and I are trying to face, and I hope to face it successfully."

MacDonald's Statement.

MacDonald handed the following written statement to the press:

"I hope to have with the President a frank exchange of views over a wide range of isues, both economic and political. In the short time at our disposal, definite arrangements of course are not to be looked for; they concern other countries as well as ourselves. But the way must be paved for concerted action and I believe our meeting is necessary to that end.

"I wish to take the opportunity as I land in the United States of greeting my American friends. I well remember the warm welcome and the generous hospitality which you gave me in 1929. The friendship between our two countries then augmented has continued, I am happy to feel, to this day.

"Particularly am I pleased to meet your President and to discuss with him our common responsibilities. On the 4th of March I listened to his inaugural address, and since that day have followed with increasing interest the courageous efforts he has been making to fulfill the expectation which sprang from that remarkable speech.

"Your President has been good enough to invite me both as Prime Minister of my country and as chairman of the World Economic Conference, to come over to explore the problems which have to be dealt with at that gathering. I have accepted because I believe that we two are in harmony of spirit regarding all world causes, and agree that the most pressing of these at the moment is the removal of the economic distress that has befallen us. We must strive to clear the obstacles which block the highways of trade, both within our own countries and between the nations, and so restore the hope of employment to the workless millions who look to earn their living in factory and field."

"On a Mission of Peace."

Aside from the brief interview on the Berengaria and the formal statement to the press, the British Prime Minister also read the following formal greeting to America:

"Last time I was with you, I came

FRANCE TO STAY ON GOLD BASE AND INCREASE TARIFFS

Official Spokesman Says Government and Bank of France Are 'Undisturbed and Franc Is Sound.'

NEW ORDERS TO BE SENT TO HERRIOT

Nothing to Be Done Meantime—London Discounts Talk of U. S. Attempt to Put on Pressure.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 21.—A Government spokesman said today France was determined to maintain the gold standard and fight American dollars by raising tariffs. Both the Government and Bank of France, he said, were "undisturbed" and consider the franc absolutely solid.

The whole problem, including the changed aspect of the Washington conversations between President Roosevelt and former Premier Herriot,, will be considered at a Cabinet meeting tomorrow.

Although Government sources asserted the gold standard would be maintained, Leon Chavenon, director of the leading afternoon financial paper, L'Information, declared that the French might become involved. If France's determination to maintain gold "does not bring good results it will be necessary, according to the circumstances, for France to maneuver in her turn," he wrote.

Meantime, Georges Bonnet, Minister of Finance, talked with Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, then consulted with Premier Daladier. It was agreed that it was unlikely that anything would be done, particularly about tariff increases, until after the conversations in Washington.

The French resolve to remain on the gold standard is based on tremendous reserves and the belief that gold will continue to flow to France. Exchange experts, however, comment that the Bank of England has taken 4,000,000,000 francs from France since Jan. 1 and is continuing to buy.

Bank of France officials said today that the French franc was not in any danger and that there is no necessity for any protective monetary measures.

A recent declaration by the Government was that it was inevitable that France would drop the gold standard if the United States should do so.

American business men here feared that the French Government, rather than abandon the gold basis, will seek to compensate for the dollar's decline by applying an exchange surtax. This action was taken by France against British and Japanese imports when those exchanges dropped. The Finance Ministry has refused to discuss this possibility.

London Optimistic; General Reaction to U. S. Move Is Favorable.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 21.—A belief that President Roosevelt, in abandoning the gold standard, sought to put pressure on Prime Minister MacDonald was disparaged today in informed quarters. The Daily Telegraph said it was unlikely that Roosevelt was launching a monetary war to gain a bargaining position in the world economic conference.

The Daily Mail declared the President "was attempting a world cure for a world problem." It visualized a return to a new gold standard by all nations at a much lower level than present.

The Herald said the "President's move was a wise one" and "the need for inflation is urgent, but it must be a world inflation."

The Times said "the divorce of the dollar from the gold standard may yet prove a blessing."

Although the Government was being importuned today to maintain the ratio between the pound and the dollar which existed before the United States abandoned gold, there was no indication of any official move to meet this demand.

A highly articulate section of the press held it was necessary that Britain retain the advantages that have accrued to her through the depreciated pound.

"The British Government must see that the pound moves correspondingly away from the dollar," an editorial in the Daily Express said.

MacDONALD ARRIVES; UNWORRIED OVER U. S. OFF GOLD STANDARD

on a mission of peace, so that together we might create a public psychology in which we could pursue the fruitful avenues of peaceful co-operation as to our respective armaments. I am on the same mission still.

"Since those days we have all encountered the storm and stress of bad times and many have suffered great losses. All over the world we are at war with depression. Today I have come to America for the purpose of discussing with your President how we can conduct that war against unmerited poverty. I come at the invitation of President Roosevelt to discuss particularly with him the tasks that lie before the World Economic Conference, and I come in the same spirit of neighborly co-operation as brought me here last time.

"The well-being of all who buy and sell and labor with body and mind, of all who seek to give the State service and rightly claim a reward for that service—those people are our concern. Their problems are our problems. It is, believe me, a great privilege, a great pleasure, to join with friends in this work."

Greeted at Quarantine.

Greeting the Prime Minister at Quarantine were Grover Whalen, representing the Mayor of New York, Warren Delano Robbins, chief of protocol for the State Department, James C. Dunn, from the State Department division of the international conferences, and Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to the United States, with Lady Lindsay.

With the Prime Minister were his daughter, Ishbel, Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent Under-Secretary of the Foreign Office, Lady Vansittart, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, economic adviser to the British Government, Charles Howard Smith, chief of the League of Nations and Western sections of the Foreign Office, and Michael Wright of the British diplomatic service.

Miss Ishbel sat by her father's side during the press interview in the smoking room on the Berengaria. She wore a blue and white gown, a blue coat trimmed with gray fur, and a black straw hat with narrow brim.

MacDonald declined to discuss war debts, saying "at the moment it is inadvisable to go into that."

Harbor boats shrieked a loud welcome as the Macom steamed toward the Battery. A military salute from Governor's Island failed to materialize. The Macom stopped at the Battery long enough for cameramen to debark and then turned to Jersey City to put MacDonald ashore.

Miss Ishbel, interviewed on the Macom, said the women of her country "are aching for international understanding and peace."

"We can't get through all this trouble," she said, "without all working together. I am anxious to meet Mrs. Roosevelt, because it is likely that we have much in common."

Following the interview she roamed over the decks of the city tug pointing a small red pocket camera at New York's skyline.

Speaking for sound motion pictures, MacDonald said on the Macom: "The world has suffered a great deal since I was here four years ago. The President asked me to come here, and I shall be pleased to discuss with him the problems of agriculture and industry.

"It is the supreme duty of all governments to see that economic justice is done to all their peoples. The only way to bring this about is by agreement and conciliation."

When MacDonald was asked by one reporter if he approved of the National Socialist government in Germany, he replied impatiently: "I am here for another matter."

On State Optometry Board.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 21.—F. C. Gilbault of Webster Groves was appointed yesterday as a member of the State Board of Optometry to fill the place of Walter F. Kimball of St. Joseph, whose term had expired. Louis Megede of Richmond was reappointed to the board.

DEPORTED BRITONS CROSS RUSSIAN BORDER

One Taking Wife, Native of Country She Is Leaving, Back to England.

By the Associated Press.

STOLPCE, Poland, April 21.—Smiling happily at the realization that they no longer were in Russia, the British engineers expelled by the Soviet Government after they had been convicted of sabotage and espionage arrived here today from Moscow. They refused to talk about their experiences in Russia. The party left for Warsaw.

Five Men and Woman in Party Leaving Russia.

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., April 21.—A party of five British men, three of them banished from this country, and the Russian wife of one, crossed the border into Poland today by train.

The woman in the party, Mrs. C. H. Nordwall, presumably will never see her native land again.

Nordwall, Allan Monkhouse and John Cushny are the trio of British engineers ordered to stay out of Russia as a result of their conviction on charges of espionage, sabotage and bribery by a Soviet Supreme Court.

The others are Albert W. Gregory, who was acquitted in the same trial, and Robert Turner, a British lawyer, who was not allowed to represent them in court but observed the proceedings. Appointed Russian lawyers represented them.

When the men boarded the express train last night they were so wary after being tried for bribery that they gave porters tips of only 50 kopecks, which is the legal limit for porters. The latter usually consider this inadequate, however.

"I can't risk more than that," said Monkhouse, who was director in Russia of the Metropolitan-Vickers engineering staff to which the men belonged.

They left behind them two associates, L. C. Thornton and William MacDonald, who were convicted and sentenced to three and two-year prison terms, respectively. The departing engineers saw the pair for the last time when they were taken off to prison at the conclusion of the trial early Wednesday morning. An appeal for commutation of their sentences to deportation is before Soviet authorities.

LONDON, April 21.—The National Council representing the principal labor organizations of Great Britain has appealed directly to Soviet Russia to release the two Britons imprisoned in Moscow for sabotage and espionage.

The council simultaneously protested against the projected embargo on Soviet imports which the British Government proclaimed because the British Government is convinced the trial and conviction of the Britons was "a frame-up."

C. E. MITCHELL REINDICTED

Action Will Delay Trial of New York Banker.

NEW YORK, April 21.—A superseding indictment, combining charges contained in two indictments handed up previously, was returned by the Federal grand jury today against Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, charged with income tax evasion for 1929 and 1930.

This indictment, according to the Federal Attorney's office, means that Mitchell's trial, which was to have begun next Monday, will be postponed until May 1 or 2.

14 Convicted in Foreclosure Fight.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 21.—M. P. Bales, Communist candidate for Governor of Utah in the last election, and 13 others charged with participating in a mortgage anti-foreclosure demonstration at the city and county building last Feb. 23, were convicted of unlawful assembly yesterday. The charge is punishable by a sentence of six months in the county jail, a fine of $299 or both.

CHARGES LOBBYING BY MILLS AGAINST ROOSEVELT PROGRAM

Representative Dies Offers Resolution for Inquiry Into Alleged Activity of Ex-Secretary.

WASHINGTON, April 21. — Representative Dies (Dem.), Texas, today introduced a resolution for Congressional investigation into "the lobbying activities of Ogden Mills (former Secretary of the Treasury) and other lobbyists" seeking to defeat the program of President Roosevelt.

The resolution calls for appointment by the Speaker of a committee of five to make the investigation. In the preamble it is declared that "Ogden Mills, who, as former Secretary of the Treasury is in possession of valuable secrets and information of the Government, is here busily engaged in a highly directed attempt to thwart the noble purposes of the President."

The resolution also declared: "It is reliably reported that foreign Governments and international bankers are preparing to conduct an intense and insidious propaganda campaign through agencies unknown for the purpose of canceling the war debts and maintaining the value of the American dollar at a higher level than other foreign currencies to deflate American property and commodity values and give foreign competitors advantage in the domestic and foreign markets."

RAINEY SAYS WAR DEBT PLAN WILL PUT SILVER ON 16-1 BASIS

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Speaker Rainey today said at his press conference that the administration's proposal to accept $100,000,000 in silver on the war debts from foreign nations would result in the "placing of silver on the 16 to 1 basis."

The Speaker also disclosed that a bill would be introduced next week to authorize gasoline and alcohol blending, as a revenue and agriculture relief measure.

Asked whether the administration inflation plan would comprise all the silver legislation enacted at this session, the Illinois Democrat said not.

"The move by the administration is the opening gun for the fight to place silver on the 16 to 1 basis. I think it will come to that," he added.

The gasoline-alcohol blending plan will permit the blending of alcohol made from farm products, including corn and potatoes.

AID TO INTERIOR SECRETARY

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Roosevelt today nominated T. A. Waters of Caldwell, Idaho Democratic State chairman, to be First Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

From 1917 to 1919 Walters was Attorney-General in Idaho. He was recommended for the new post by Senators and Representatives from many Western states.

Francis W. Peck of Minnesota was named by the President to be a member of the Farm Board and Raymond Patton of Ohio to be director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Roosevelt Inflation Bill Denounced in Senate

were in a position to dictate to the nations of the world. Now it is proposed to throw that advantage away."

Reed said he had no criticism of the President's action in suspending gold payments in this country, or in his embargo on gold exports from the United States, but he was opposed to the latest proposals.

Fight Over Gold Content.

Chairman Fletcher (Dem.), Florida, of the Banking and Currency Committee, said the only fight in the committee was over the proposal to authorize the President to reduce the gold content of the dollar. He revealed that he was one of the 10 voting against it.

"We felt that was too much power to give any man," he said. "We favored giving him the right to negotiate agreements with other nations for a general reduction of the gold content, but not an arbitrary reduction in the dollar alone."

Replying to Reed's criticisms, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, said President Roosevelt desired the power to be conferred by the measure as a weapon to be used in the forthcoming world economic conference.

"Fair Consideration" Only.

Charging Reed with planning to conduct a filibuster against the bill, Robinson said that "fair consideration will be permitted," but that, if steps are taken "to hamper and impede the President in important negotiations with foreign nations, the Senate will end such tactics under its rules."

"I say this not as a threat," he said, "but because I want Senators to know what will happen, and I think the country should understand the situation."

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, appealed to Robinson to permit the inflation measure to come before the Senate as a separate bill, and not as an amendment to the farm bill. He said it was alien to the remainder of the farm bill, and should be considered separately. Many Senators, he said, who were favorably disposed toward some provisions of the bill, would be opposed to the currency amendment.

Robinson replied that haste was essential, pointing out that preliminary conversations were about to begin between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Robinson said it was imperative "to strengthen the President's hand at once."

"Eve of a Heroic Task."

"He is on the eve of a heroic task, in which he has the support of 95 per cent of the American people," he declared. "In view of the threat of the Senator from Pennsylvania (Reed) to indulge in obstructive tactics here, I am willing to respond to any suggestion which might further such a purpose."

Without saying so directly, McNary intimated that he would refuse to take part in the threatened filibuster.

Shipstead, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite, disputed Reed's declaration that England "gained nothing" by deserting the gold standard. England, he asserted, stepped the decline in commodity prices, and they are now about 2 per cent higher than when the gold standard was abandoned.

Hopes for Sensible View.

"We have allowed deflation to continue at an insane rate," he said. "We have allowed millions to be dispossessed, we have allowed the assets behind life insurance policies to become worthless, and we have allowed deflation to destroy the assets of the banks. A man in public life who proposes to continued this deflation is as dangerous as one who advocates unbridled inflation. I hope we may arrive at a sensible point between the two extremes."

Bank credit, he said, was infinitely more important than currency, and pointed out that in 1929 the total check clearings of all the clearing houses were $715,000,000,000, whereas not more than $6,000,000,000 of currency existed.

Vandenberg Breaks In.

Vandenberg returned to the fray with the assertion that "entirely too much emphasis is being laid here on currency in its physical form, and not enough on the problem of reopening closed banks." He argued strenuously that the Government should guarantee the deposits of closed banks, thus enabling them to reopen in safety.

"When we deal with currency inflation and ignore the $5,000,000,000 of deposits locked up in closed banks, we are not putting first things first," he said.

He attacked the Federal Reserve Board bitterly for denying more than 200 Michigan banks permission to reopen under a plan devised by State authorities, and quoted the Democratic Governor Comstock as declaring: "They have no plan of their own, and they won't let us put ours into effect."

Senator Pittman, Nevada Democrat, defending the President's program, declared that "we have virtually agreed that there can be no restoration in this country until we start an increase in commodity prices." That, he said, must be the foundation of prosperity.

He Cites Rise in Prices.

"And today," he continued, "we are able to observe that the very rumor that this legislation may be passed has started such an increase in prices. Wheat, cotton, stocks and everything else has been enhanced in value. Is that such a terrible calamity? Is that what the Senator from Pennsylvania (Reed) fears so much?

"No intelligent persons desired uncontrolled inflation, of the kind which destroyed the German mark. Nothing of the sort is proposed here, or will be proposed here."

Reed left the chamber early after attacking the plan, and was subsequently learned to be in a conference with former Republican Secretaries of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Ogden L. Mills. Indications were that they were planning a further attack on the Roosevelt program. Mellon and Mills have always insisted that the United States must not go off the gold standard.

Wholehearted Support of Reserve System Expected.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 21. — A high Federal Reserve official in an interview today disclosed agreement had been reached for the Federal Reserve System wholeheartedly to support the administration inflation program—to enlarge the open-market operations of the system and purchase up to three billion of Government securities.

The purpose would be to release the funds now tied up in those securities for other investment, meaning what the White House calls "credit inflation."

Meanwhile, the House Republican Steering Committee—meeting with Ogden Mills, Hoover Secretary of the Treasury, who has been busy knitting Republican opposition to the bill—decided it would be futile to oppose the legislation in the House if it passes the Senate.

Mills expressed to the Steering Committee a fear that the expansion would not be limited to $3,000,000,000, but that future authorizations would increase that amount.

The Thomas amendment embodying the currency expansion program was introduced in the House today as a separate bill by Representative Rankin (Dem.), Mississippi.

Those voting in the Senate Committee to strike out the gold-content reduction clause in the Senate committee were Chairman Fletcher, Florida; Glass, Virginia; Gore, Oklahoma; McAdoo, California, all Democrats, and the following Republicans: Goldsborough, Maryland; Townsend, Delaware; Walcott, Connecticut; Carey, Wyoming; Steiwer, Oregon, and Kean, New Jersey.

Voting against elimination were Wagner, New York; Barkley, Kentucky; Bulkley, Ohio; Costigan, Colorado; Bankhead, Alabama, and Adams, Colorado, Democrats, and Norbeck, South Dakota, and Couzens, Michigan, Republicans.

"With this bill," Thomas quoted Secretary of the Treasury Woodin as saying, "The depression is over. If administered in a business-like way, we can combat anything." Indicating that the credit expansion provision would be used at first, Thomas said "There never has been any idea of turning inflation loose."

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said he probably would call a party conference tomorrow to formulate its attitude toward the proposal, while Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, clung to his original plan to debate it at length to "point out its dangers" to the public.

An official explanation of the legislation, introduced late yesterday after a day of conferences, said the purpose was to restore commodity prices, hold them up and then create expansion, not of currency, but of credit, and to make it easier for Roosevelt to take international action for currency stabilization.

It was added that nothing of the printing press or unregulated inflation was contemplated.

Plan for Bond Purchases.

At the Treasury, meanwhile, administration efforts to have the Federal Reserve Board and governors of the 12 Reserve banks approve plans for the system at once to expand its open market operations in heavy purchase of Government securities was being pressed before a joint session of the governors and board.

Secretary Woodin, while declining to discuss how the board and governors had viewed the proposition, was said to have presented the plan at a conference of the governor and board yesterday.

The governors of the 12 banks form the "open policy" committee of the Reserve system, deciding what securities should be bought or sold to support and aid business of the country.

The Federal Reserve System now owns $1,837,000,000 of Government securities purchased largely to banks a year ago. When the poli was inaugurated, it was with t idea that the purchase of the s curities would build up the reser of member banks throughout t country and make possible fre extension of credit to business a industry.

Statement by Robinson.

Senator Robinson of Arkan the Democratic leader, in a f mal statement said of the inflati legislation:

"One of its main purposes is strengthen and support the Pre dent in negotiating agreements f the stabilization of exchan through the readjustments by ternational agreements pertaini to the content of the gold dollar the use of an increased amount silver by the principal commer nations, or by both such method

At t same time it is hoped it will n delay the disposition of the pendi bill for any very great length time."

While the President favored t purposes of the proposal, Robi son said, he recognized that on Congress had the power to co money and regulate its value a therefore was "desirous that t provision relating to the content the gold dollar shall be made conform to the fundamental law such limitations and definitio upon his authority as may be nec sary."

One of the increased assessments East Side industrial plants to investigated by the St. Clair nty grand jury is the valuation personal property and improve- nts on the Monsanto plant of the nsanto Chemical Co., which in was raised from $468,360 to 7,060, an increase of $188,700.

Inquiry by the Post-Dispatch re- led an officer of the company received an offer that the mpany could have the increase inated for four years by paying 00 for an "attorney's fees." The mpany declined the offer and d its taxes on the increased as- sment.

Notification of the increase was eived by the company a week fore the Board of Review closed books on Sept. 7, 1931. The com- y had made improvements on property but contended that the rease, about 26 per cent, was high.

he company officer, on the ad- of a St. Louis attorney employed by the company, went to see an East St. Louis oil dealer. The dealer intimated he could do something about it but failed to convince the officer, who next talked to an East St. Louis city official.

A meeting with two men in an East St. Louis hotel was arranged by the city official, who told the chemical company's representative that the oil dealer he had been to see could not help him, and that control of the Board of Tax Review was then in the hands of a Democratic leader.

$3000 Fee Requested.

When the chemical company's official went to the hotel room, he was addressed by name by the two men, who told him he had come to see about the increase in assessments.

One of the men pulled a little book from his pocket. Standing where the official could see his figures, he computed in detail the various assessments of the company to demonstrate his familiarity with the valuation and the increases.

The man told the official he was in a "political racket" and there was one way he could get the increase taken off. He figured what the taxes would amount to in the four years of the quadrennial period, for which taxes on assessments are fixed. He then told the official the increase would amount to about $16,000 in taxes and $3000 would be about right for an "attorney's fee to have the increase taken off.'

Business on Cash Basis.

The stranger told the official that business was being done on a cash basis, that the company was not taking any chances and would receive a receipted bill for its taxes when the "attorney's fee" was paid.

The representative of the chemical company told the men he did not have authority to make any agreement in money matters, but would refer the matter to the proper officials. They indignantly rejected the offer.

The official explained he knew it was against the policy of the company to engage in any such transaction but he had heard reports of tax-fixing and wanted to find out what it was all about.

"A Bunch of Robbers."

Later, the chemical company's representative related his experience with the two men to the city official who then denounced them as "a bunch of robbers."

The man who had made the computation of the tax at the hotel met the company's official by chance in front of the hotel a week later and asked him what he had decided to do about the tax proposition. The official told him the offer had been rejected.

An objection to the increased assessment was filed by the company's attorneys with the Board of Review and a hearing was held, but the board decided against the company.

The company official said he would be able to identify the two men who made the proposition.

LIBBY HOLMAN REYNOLDS' BABY TO GET $2,000,000 OF ESTATE

Under Court Agreement, It Shares Equally With Another Child of Tobacco Heir.

By the Associated Press.

CONCORD, N. C., April 21.—Libby Holman Reynolds' child, born after the death of the father, and Anne Cannon Reynolds, second, would share equally in the estate of their father, Smith Reynolds, under an agreement disclosed in a court action here today. Each would ultimately receive $2,000,000.

Anne Cannon Reynolds, second, if she should survive her mother, would receive $500,000 set up as a trust fund for the life of the mother. The remainder of Smith Reynolds' estate, estimated at $12,000,000 to $15,000,000, would be used to establish in North Carolina a foundation in memory of young Reynolds, youthful aviation enthusiast and tobacco heir, who was mysteriously shot to death at his Winston-Salem home last July 6.

AIRSHIP MACON ON FIRST FLIGHT WITH 105 ABOARD

Barnegat Lightship, New Jersey, on April 4.

He had been impatient to get at least the first test of the new ship out of the way before he goes to Washington to testify Monday at the hearing on the Akron disaster.

The Macon is the same size as the Akron—of 6,500,000 cubic feet helium capacity—and is nearly twice the size of the Graf Zeppelin and three times that of the Los Angeles. Present plans call for stationing of the Macon at the Navy's new air base at Sunnyvale, Cal.

Here are facts regarding the Macon:

Dimensions—785 feet long; 146.5 feet high over all; 132.9 feet maximum diameter.

Gas volume—6,500,000 cubic feet.

Dead weight — 221,000 pounds (estimated).

Useful lift—182,000 pounds.

Engines—Eight 12-cylinder gasoline motors with a total of 4480 horsepower.

Speed—84 miles an hour (estimated maximum).

Cruising range—13,000 nautical miles (estimated at 40 knots in still air).

Crew—50 officers and men, normal flying crew.

Fuel—124,000 pounds.

Equipment—Radio, five airplanes, seven gun emplacements, arrangements for cooking and heating, electric light, telephones.

Structure—Duralumin rings, in reality 36-sided polygons forming 12 main bays, connected by triple longitudinal keels, each triangular shaped and large enough for a man to walk inside.

Cover—Seven acres of cotton fabric, sprayed with acetate and aluminum powder to reflect the sun and water.

Gas cells—Twelve in number, made from 12 acres of special fabric coated gelatine-latex and filled with non-inflammable helium.

VICTIM OF ANESTHETIC DIES

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 21.—Arthur M. Jones, 28-year-old Phoenix broker, died yesterday without being aroused from unconsciousness into which he lapsed under an anesthetic in a dentist's chair 26 days ago.

Physicians said it was the fourth fatality of its kind on record in American medical history and that it was due to a peculiarity of the brain cells.

BASCOM AUCTION DRAWS BIG CROWD

Fashionable Bidders Buy Treasures of Widow at Westmoreland Place Home.

The auctioneer was back in Westmoreland place today and auction fever ran high at No. 45, the residence of the late Mrs. Mary F. Bascom, widow of a founder of the Broderick & Bascom Rope Co.

And there was no sign that the fever had abated since four years ago, when many St. Louis homes were "expanding" in the direction of Italian marbles, Dresden China and Louis XIV tables. Long and shiny automobiles lined Westmoreland from Lake avenue to Union boulevard a full hour before the auction began at 10:30 o'clock, and every room, upstairs and down, was jammed with prospective bidders, blue with cigarette smoke and buzzing with chatter.

Sales began with the articles of lesser value, in the upper rooms. But even there half a minute demonstrated that the fever was characterized by an urge to keep ahead of, rather than up with, the Joneses, and by recurrent impulses to lift fingers or eyebrows at Auctioneer Alex L. Selkirk, who spilled staccato figures, exhortations, gibes, with the sureness and rapidity of a machine gun.

Dozens wandered from room to room, seeking articles to their taste. Many had found what they wanted, and stayed with it in positions which announced they meant to wait out the auction on that spot, if it took all day. The wait might prove tiresome—since the auctioneer said the sale would take all day—for those whose choice was a picture, a lamp or a piece of statuary. But those who selected a chair or a table sat right down on it.

Among the articles with largest groups of admirers were French buhl and gold leaf tables, a figure in Carrara marble, fine China, Royal Vienna and Sevres vases, carved Italian desk and chest, Viennese music-room furniture, a Vernis-Martin cabinet and a grandfather clock.

Mrs. Bascom, who was 83 years old, died last July. Her life interest in the $1,000,000 estate of her husband, Joseph D. Bascom, passed to her son, Charles E. Bascom of 52 Portland place. It was announced that the Westmoreland place residence is for sale.

MRS. TILLIE BERTHOLDT FILES $20,000 SUIT FOR ALIENATION

Charges Miss Blanche Brown Caused Separation from Husband in 1931.

Suit for $20,000, alleging alienation of affections, was filed in Circuit Court today by Mrs. Tillie Bertholdt, 1304 Woodland drive, Richmond Heights, against Miss Blanche Brown, said to be an employe of a downtown department store.

Mrs. Bertholdt, who has obtained a decree of separate maintenance from her husband, Clarence, alleges that their separation in August, 1931, was "caused and influenced" by Miss Brown. Miss Brown could not be reached.

Bertholdt is a real estate dealer.

MRS. VAN VALKENBURGH DIES

Wife of Retired U. S. Judge Succumbs at 64.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 21.—Mrs. Arba S. Van Valkenburgh died today four days after her sixty-fourth birthday and eight days after official retirement of Judge Van Valkenburgh from the United States Circuit Court of appeals. Cerebral hemorrhage was the cause of death.

Judge Van Valkenburgh said, on his retirement, that his one hope for the future was that he and Mrs. Van Valkenburgh might be able to spend their declining years in the happiness which had marked their married life. They were married in 1887.

MRS. ROOSEVELT FLIES WITH AMELIA EARHART

Latter in Evening Gown and White Gloves Pilots Big Ship.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Amelia Earhart and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt went plane riding last night. Miss Earhart flew Mrs. Roosevelt almost all the way from Washington to Baltimore without even removing her white evening gloves.

"It's amusing to think of a girl in white evening dress and high-heeled shoes flying a plane," said Mrs. Roosevelt.

The President's wife got her first taste of high life from a control cabin by sitting up there with Pilot E. H. Parker almost all the way from Baltimore to Washington.

"It was like being on top of the world," she exclaimed.

The cloud ceiling which had been low during the early evening, even spluttering rain, and which had displayed just one star a few minutes before the White House party arrived at the airport, cleared in 20 minutes and gave the flyers an ideal view of what Mrs. Roosevelt called "Fairyland."

Mrs. Roosevelt, evening-cloaked in brocaded black and gold, was accompanied by her brother, Hall Roosevelt. Amelia Earhart, in long-lined gown of white with short black coat, was accompanied by her husband, George Palmer Putnam.

The field was just one gigantic mud-puddle, lavishly streaked with water that hadn't soaked in.

Miss Earhart turned out all the lights in the plane, explaining the lights below would look more beautiful that way.

Mrs. Roosevelt and a whole plane full of people sat with their eyes glued upon the Potomac River, a monument light-drenched, an opalescent conservatory top, and a glowing Capitol dome while Miss Earhart slipped unnoticed into the control cabin and took charge of the ship.

George Palmer Putnam got the idea of arranging for Mrs. Roosevelt to go to the pilot cabin, and right above Baltimore she made the shift, Miss Earhart returning to the passenger list.

Almost immediately, the plane made a peculiar serpentine side swing.

"Oh, Mrs. Roosevelt's flying the plane!" laughed Amelia.

But she guessed wrong. When Mrs. Roosevelt returned to her place, just before landing in Washington, she said she didn't have her hand on the controls once.

"The pilot was just showing me how he did it," was the way she explained the swerve.

And to show she'd learned something up there, she added:

"The board showed 130 miles an hour, but there was a tail wind and we were really going 160. Coming up from Miami the other day, they averaged 167 miles an hour the whole way."

VERDICT OF ACCIDENT IN STABBING OF BOY

Inquest Held in Death of W. F. Carl Killed in Quarrel With Sister.

A Coroner's jury this afternoon returned a verdict of accident in the death of Willis Francis Carl, 18-year-old East St. Louis High School football star, who was stabbed to death with a butcher knife in a quarrel with his sister, Miss Loretta Carl, 23, last Monday night.

The stabbing occurred in the kitchen of the family residence, 3029 North Park drive, East St. Louis, in the presence of the young people's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Frederick Carl. Miss Carl, winner of an East St. Louis retail merchants' beauty prize in 1926, testified at the inquest, repeating the story she told police.

Miss Carl related that her brother, whom she called "Buddy," refused to move some furniture for her because he was going to a dance. This caused a quarrel, and she said she started to burn some neckties she had given him.

"Buddy," she continued, "seized my hair and struck me six or seven times and kicked my legs." She showed the jury bruises. "I was backing away and dad stepped between us. Buddy struck him and knocked him away. Buddy came at me again.

'He grabbed for a butcher knife on the kitchen table. I beat him to the knife to keep him from cutting me. As I grabbed it I fell backward on the floor and Buddy fell on top of me. I didn't know I stabbed him and didn't know he was hurt. I don't know what happened to the knife after that.

Young Carl died on the operating table at St. Mary's Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Carl corroborated their daughter's testimony and said they did not see the knife enter their son's back. Dr. John Soucy, Deputy Coroner, who conducted the inquest at the Kurrus mortuary, 2525 State street, said that the knife entered the small of the boy's back, piercing a kidney. Assistant State's Attorney Wendell Phillips and Dan McGlynn, counsel for the Carl family, questioned the witnesses.

The elder Carl is a building contractor. Miss Carl is employed in a dentist's office in the Carleton Building here.

consider the legal situation involved.

Members of the Efficiency Board are appointed for three-year terms. Tanner's term expires next September, Kircheis' in 1934 and May's in 1935. Kircheis said recently none of the members had been asked to resign. Dickmann has declared his intention to revitalize the board. He said today he felt its members should be persons whom he knows and in whom he has confidence.

As to the change of Fire Chief, Dickmann said: "Nothing will be done about that right away but there will be a change." He plans to fill the place of City Marshal soon. Other appointments the Mayor has to make, which he did not comment on today, are a Police Judge to succeed George C. Foster and the City Register to succeed Jack Grosse. The Register's pay is $4000 a year. The salary of Police Judges will be reduced from $5000 to the charter level of $3000.

No change is to be made for the time being at least in positions held by technical men, Dickmann declared. Outstanding in this category are W. W. Horner, chief engineer of sewer and paving construction; L. R. Bowen, chief engineer of bridge and building construction, and Roy C. Gans, chief engineer of the Street Department. In general, Dickmann has said, shifting of city employes, as Democrats succeed Republicans, will be gradual, to avoid crippling the service.

About 4000 applications for appointment to major and minor positions have been received by Dickmann and his secretary, Paul H. Murphy. They are seeking to have applications made in writing, with statements of qualifications. Job-seekers have besieged the Mayor's office, the Democratic Aldermen and the members of the Democratic City Committee. Murphy said indorsements from Aldermen and committeemen would receive consideration.

Mayor Dickmann took the oath as a member of the Police Board in his office this morning. It was administered by Circuit Clerk Schmoll. The law makes the Mayor an ex-officio member of this board, but former Mayors have seldom exercised the privilege. Dickmann intends to be as active as possible on the Police Board.

POLICE JUDGE FINNEGAN ON THE BENCH FIRST TIME

Says He'll Continue Blaine's Policies; Will Drive Out So-Called Fixers.

James P. Finnegan, new Police Judge under appointment by Mayor Dickmann, took the bench in Police Court No. 1 today and went through the first day's docket, assisted by James G. Blaine, retiring Judge.

After he was introduced by Judge Joseph Dickmann of the Court of Criminal Correction, brother of the Mayor, Judge Finnegan said he would continue the traffic school and general policies of his predecessor.

"I intend to do all I can to clear away the crowd of so-called fixers that haunts Police Court," he said, "and hope to do something to reduce the fatalities and injuries in traffic accidents."

Paul W. Mellon to Take Job.

NEW YORK, April 21. — The Herald Tribune says Paul W. Mellon, son of the former Secretary of the Treasury, will start to work May 1 in the Bankers Trust Co. The job, it is said, will last for only two months. Mellon will work in the statistical department, ascertaining the value of securities.

MISUSE OF JURY LIST INQUIRY CONTINUED

Grand Jury Adjourns Till Tuesday After Hearing Nine Witnesses.

The grand jury investigating the improper use of jury lists adjourned yesterday until Tuesday after hearing nine witnesses. The inquiry, ordered by Circuit Judge Bader, is expected to continue for several weeks.

Witnesses yesterday were police officers who arrested a Negro court-house messenger after he had left a list of prospective petit jurors in a law office on the seventh floor of the Missouri Pacific Annex Building, and others who presumably testified concerning the routine the messenger was expected to follow in handling the lists.

The messenger, Henry West, discharged after his arrest, and Miss Odessa Simpkins, stenographer in the law office, are under $1000 bonds. The office is occupied by Verne R. C. Lacy, Louis White, Sam White, Irwin White and H. Gordon Cohen, all of whom have denied knowing anything about the jury list.

The list contained the names of 180 prospective jurors, summoned for April 3. West was arrested in the Municipal Courts Building March 20 by detectives who had followed him from the office of the attorneys. West and the stenographer, police reported, said he had left jury lists, which she had copied, on four previous occasions.

The witnesses yesterday included Amos L. Seaman, chief jury supervisor whose office prepares the lists of prospective jurors. Sheriff Thomas Madden, former Sheriff George Strodtman, and Deputy Sheriff Rudy Bloeser, also testified.

From Seaman's office, jury lists are sent to the office of the Sheriff in the Civil Courts Building, and from there to an office of the Sheriff in the Municipal Courts Building which is in charge of Bloeser. West, employed under Circuit Clerk Schmoll, who also testified, had for some time, as an accommodation, carried the lists from the Civil Courts Building to the Municipal Courts Building.

Other witnesses were Detective Sergt. Shelton, Detectives Detert and Keller, and Miss Eleanor Birnbrier, a policewoman. Shelton was in charge of the squad which followed and arrested West. Miss Birnbrier was in the outer office of the lawyer's suite, she reported, and saw West leave the list with Miss Simpkins.

BONDHOLDERS ACT IN RECEIVERSHIP OF TROLLEY LINES

Two Groups Under J. H. Grover and Arnold G. Stifel Are Forming Protective Committees.

As a result of the receivership of the St. Louis Public Service Co., two groups of bondholders today took steps to form protective committees and obtain the deposit of bonds for concerted action.

James H. Grover, president of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., was named chairman of a committee for holders of United Railways first mortgage bonds and Arnold G. Stifel was made chairman of a committee to represent holders of City & Suburban Public Service Co. first mortgag esinking fund bonds. Both bond issues are secured by first mortgages on certain properties of the street railway system, the City & Suburban mortgage covering the property of the old Suburban company and the United Railways mortgage all the physical properties, subject, however, to the City & Suburban mortgages as to properties covered by it.

Drafting Deposit Agreements.

Both committees stated that deposit agreements are being prepared and that shortly a request will be made for bondholders to turn in their bonds.

The United Railways first mortgage bonds are due July 1, 1934. The interest rate is 4 per cent. The total amount issued was $36,300,000, of which there was outstanding, as of last Dec. 31, $35,075,000. The Public Service Co. at that time owned $17,181,000 (face value) of the bonds, of which $16,625,000 was pledged as security for a $10,000,000 collateral 6 per cent bank loan. It was the company's inability to pay the bank loan, when demand for payment was made, that caused the receivership to be ordered last Saturday by Federal Judge Davis.

Of the remaining bonds owned by the Public Service Co. $437,000 was pledged as security for appeal bonds and $119,000 was in the treasury. These bonds had been purchased by the company in the last few years at large discounts from face value.

Members of Committee.

The St. Louis Union Trust Co. is trustee under the mortgage securing the bond issue.

Members of the Protective Committee, besides Grover, are: David R. Francis of Francis Bro. & Co.; Tom K. Smith, president of the Boatmen's National Bank; A. H. S. Post, president of the Mercantile Trust Co. of Baltimore; W. J. Rahill, president of the Louisville Trust Co., Louisville, Ky.; F. W. Ecker, treasurer of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of New York, and William R. Humphrey, 1963 Railway Exchange Building, St. Louis, secretary.

Interest on the first mortgage bonds has been paid regularly. The next interest date is July 1.

A. G. Stifl Group.

In addition to Stifel, members of the City & Suburban Protective Committee are: A. H. Reller, president of the Bremen Bank & Trust Co.; Craig MacQuaid, president of the United States Bank & Trust Co.; Henry L. Cornet of Cornet & Zeibig; Peter J. Pauly, president of the Pauly Jail Building Co., and Russell R. Casteel, 314 North Broadway, secretary.

The amount of City & Suburban bonds outstanding is $3,263,000. Other funded debts of the company are $2,448,875 Public Service Co. gold notes and $541,000 Florissant Construction, Real Estate & Investment Co. notes.

The City & Suburban bonds are due July 1, 1934. The gold notes were due last Jan. 1, but $2,413,125 of the issue was extended by agreement to July 1, 1934, with the provision that they "may be declared due and payable in the event the company fails to pay the $10,000,000 collateral loan or any renewal thereof." The Florissant company notes were extended to Jan. 1, 1934.

Henry W. Kiel, receiver for the Public Service Co., has announced he will conduct it with strict economy. He has already announced the discontinuance of corporate salaries effecting a saving of $80,000 a year.

ANOTHER FALSTAFF PLANT

Company to Build $100,000 Bottling Unit East of Brewery.

The Falstaff Corporation is beginning an expansion program involving erection of a $100,000 beer bottling plant east of the brewery at 3684 Forest Park boulevard, Alvin Griesedieck, vice-president, announced today.

When the new building is finished in about six weeks a bottling unit will be installed which will double the brewery's present capacity of 240 bottles a minute. The building will be of brick with two stories on Forest Park and three stories on Clark avenue. The company also is increasing its brewing and storage facilities.

Brother of Sir Harry Lauder Dies.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RICHMAN BROTHERS CLOTHES
$18.50

Our 1933 Quality Would Have Cost $50 in 1930

We've been making clothes since 1879, but neither we nor anyone else ever made clothes like these for $18.50. Prices are lower now than for many years, but they are not going to remain at this level . . . they can't.

These fabrics are the kind that fancy priced tailors sold for . . . Oh, what's the use! . . a whole lot of money a year or two ago.

We've a tremendous outlet with our 63 stores and 950 salesmen in every State, selling the clothes we make ourselves, direct to the men who wear them. The quantity that we buy and our cash get us the pick of the woolen crop at the lowest price.

Our designers, cutters and tailors then go to work on these fine fabrics with heart and soul and skill to satisfy you . . . because you are our bread and butter. Without you, Richman Brothers' 3000 clothes makers can't work. Most of these 3,000 people own stock in this company and get a dividend every three months . . . providing we please you.

We have an assortment to please every man. That may sound like a broad statement, but we have a right to make it, for we have every color you can possibly want. We make sizes for stout men, slim men, extra tall and very short men . . . models for those who want conservative clothes as well as for those who like the broad shoulder and flat hipped style.

There is nothing worth while that we don't have. That's where our 54 years' experience in clothes making and in finding out what people want, counts. It takes a maker who deals direct with the wearer to get that knowledge.

Come in and take your choice of any suit or topcoat in the store . . . they're all $18.50

$235,658 PLEDGED SO FAR IN DRIVE OF COMMUNITY FUND

$12,035 Additional Gifts Reported in Campaign for $600,000 for Character Building Agencies.

Contributions to the Community Fund's campaign for character-building agencies reached $235,658 yesterday when workers reported additional pledges of $12,035.

Samuel Plant, chairman of the special gifts division, announced the subscription of $2500 by Western Coal & Mining Co., and of $2000 by Union Electric Light & Power Co. Other large gifts:

$1500—Paris Medicine Co.

$300—Mrs. Marion Clifford Blossom, Alfred B. Elias, Albert Bond Lambert, Mrs. Michael Elias, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McK. Jones and R. E. Funston Co.

$200—Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Holmer, Hydraulic Press Brick Co., Mrs. Thomas S. Lytle, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Markham, Mrs. and Mrs. John Lawrence Mauran, Helen Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Petring, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Sauer.

$150—Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Faust, Mrs. John J. Fisher, Frank A. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Kauffman, Kline's, Inc., Estelle C. Leschen.

$100—Laclede Christy Clay Products Co., Lindell Trust Co., Mr. and Mrs. John C. Atwood, George A. Bass, Tom W. Bennett, Walter D. Coles, Mrs. Rose D. Curby, Mr. and Mrs. Claude R. Fooshe, Mr. and Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, William B. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Grey, Mr. and Mrs. Roy K. Lockhart, Walter W. Lorch, Eugene R. McCarthy, Mrs. Frank Mesker, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Mitchell and Mount Olive & Staunton Coal Co.

David D. Metcalfe, campaign chairman, told solicitors the money sought for character building agencies was but a small amount compared with other expenditures of St. Louisans. Quoting a survey made recently by J. Clark Waldrou of Washington University, Metcalfe said in nine months St. Louisans spend $600,000 for chewing gum, as much as is sought to maintain the character building agencies for a year.

For movie admissions, he said, St. Louisans spend more in a month than the campaign goal. Smokers spend $600,000 every 15 days, he said, and the cost of toiletries and cosmetics sold every three weeks exceeds that total.

Dr. George J. Fisher of New York, deputy chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, spoke of the need for proper use of leisure. Modern conditions, he said, make youth a dependent member of the family over a longer period of time.

Text of Monetary Inflation Amendment to the Farm Bill

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 20.

THE text of the administration's inflation amendment follows:

Introduced as an amendment to the farm bill it is entitled "Part 6" with the following heading:

"Financing—and exercising power conferred by section 8 of article 1 of the Constitution: To coin money and to regulate the value thereof. The amendment continues:

"Section 34—Whenever the President finds, upon investigation, that (1) the foreign commerce of the United States is adversely affected by reason of the depreciation in the value of the currency of any other Government or Governments in relation to the present standard value of gold, or (2) action under this section is necessary in order to regulate and maintain the parity of currency issues of the United States or (3) that an economic emergency requires an expansion of credit, or (4) that an expansion of credit is necessary to secure by international agreement a stabilization at proper levels of the currencies of various Governments; the President is authorized in his discretion—

(A) To direct the Secretary of the Treasury to enter into agreements with the several Federal Reserve banks and with the Federal Reserve Board whereby the Federal Reserve Board will, and it is hereby authorized to, notwithstanding any provisions of law or rules and regulations to the contrary, permit such reserve banks to agree that they will (1) conduct, pursuant to existing law, throughout specified periods open market operations in obligations of the Federal Government or corporations in which the United States is the principal stockholder, and (2) purchase directly and hold in portfolio for an agreed period or periods of time, Treasury bills or other obligations of the United States Government in an aggregate sum of three billion dollars in addition to those they then may hold unless prior to the termination of such period or periods the Secretary shall consent to their sale. The provisions of existing law requiring an automatic increase in the discount rate shall not result in an increase in such rate by reason of operations under this section.

(b) If the Secretary, when directed by the President, is unable to secure the assent of the several Federal Reserve Banks and the Federal Reserve Board to the agreements authorized in this section or if operations under the above provisions prove to be inadequate to meet the purposes of this section of this act, or if for any other reason additional measures are required in the judgment of the President to meet such purposes, then he is authorized—

(1) To direct the Secretary of the Treasury to cause to be issued in such amount or amounts as he may from time to time order, U. S. notes, as provided in the act entitled "An act to authorize the issue of U. S. notes and for the redemption of funding thereof and for funding the floating debt of the U. S." approved Feb. 25, 1862, and acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof, in the same size, and of similar color to the Federal Reserve notes heretofore issued, and in denominations of $1, $5, $10, $20, $50, $100, $500, $1000 and $10,000; but notes issued under this subsection shall be issued only for the purpose of meeting maturing Federal obligations to repay sums borrowed by the U. S. and for purchasing U. S. bonds and other interest bearing obligations of the U. S.

Provided, that when any such notes are used for such purpose, the bond or other obligation so acquired or taken up shall be retired and canceled. Such notes shall be issued at such times and in such amounts as the President may approve, but the aggregate amount of such notes outstanding at any time shall not exceed three billion dollars. There is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, an amount sufficient to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to retire and cancel 4 per centum annually of such outstanding notes and the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby directed to retire and cancel annually 4 per centum of such outstanding notes. Such notes and all other coins and currencies heretofore or hereafter issued by or under the authority of the United States shall be legal tender for all debts, public and private.

(2) By proclamation to fix the weight of the gold dollar in grains nine-tenths fine at an amount that he finds is necessary from his investigation to protect the foreign commerce of the United States against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, or in case the Government of the United States enters into an agreement with any Government or Governments under the terms of which the ratio between the value of gold and other currency issued by the United States and by any such government or governments is established, the President may fix the weight of the gold dollar in accordance with the ratio so agreed upon, and such gold dollar, the weight of which is so fixed, shall be the standard unit of value, and all forms of money issued or coined by the United States shall be maintained at a parity with this standard and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to maintain such parity, but in no event shall the weight of the gold dollar be fixed so as to reduce its present weight by more than 50 per centum.

Sec. 35. The Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, is hereby authorized to make and promulgate rules and regulations covering any action taken or to be taken by the President under subsection (A), or (B) of Section 34.

Sec. 36 (A) The President of the United States is authorized to accept silver, in amounts not to exceed in the aggregate in value, in the U. S. currency $100,000,000, in payment of the whole or any part of any amount of principal or interest due from any foreign Government or Governments on account of any indebtedness to our Government, such silver to be accepted at not to exceed the price of 50 cents an ounce. The authority of the President to accept silver as herein authorized shall be limited to a period of not to exceed one year from the passage of this act.

(B) The silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this section shall be subject to the requirements of existing law and the regulations of the mint service governing the methods of determining the amount of pure silver contained, and the amount of the charges or deductions, if any, to be made; but such silver bullion shall not be counted as part of the silver bullion authorized or required to be purchased and coined under the provisions of existing law.

(C) The silver accepted and received under the provisions of this section shall be deposited in the treasury of the United States to be held, used, and disposed of as in this section provided.

(D) The President shall cause silver certificates to be issued in denominations of $1, to the total number of dollars for which such silver was accepted in payment of debts. Such silver certificates shall be used by the treasurer of the United States in payment of any obligations of the United States.

(E) The silver so accepted under this section shall be coined into standard silver dollars and subsidiary coins sufficient, in the Treasury, to meet any demands for redemption of such silver certificates issued under the provisions of this section, and such coins shall be retained in the treasury for the payment of such certificates on demand. The silver so obtained and deposited under this section, except so much thereof as is coined under the provisions of this section, shall be held in the treasury for the sole purpose of aiding in maintaining the parity of such certificates as provided in existing law. Any such certificates or reissued certificates, when presented at the treasury, shall be redeemed in standard silver dollars or in subsidiary silver coin, at the option of the holder of the certificates: provided, that in the redemption of such silver certificates issued under this section, not to exceed one-third of the coin required for such redemption may in the judgment of the secretary of the treasury be made in subsidiary coins, the balance to be made in standard silver dollars.

(F) When any silver certificates issued under the provisions of this section are redeemed or received into the Treasury from any source whatsoever, and belong to the United States, they shall not be retired, cancelled, or destroyed, but shall be reissued and paid out again and kept in circulation; but nothing herein shall prevent cancellation and destruction of tilated certificates and the is other certificates of like deno tion in their stead, as provided law.

DR. EMMETT P. NORTH NAMED TO THE STATE HEALTH BOARD

Others Include Dr. E. T. McCaugh of Richmond, Likely to Be New Commissioner.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 21. — Dr. E. T. McGaugh of Richmond yesterday was appointed a member of the State Board of Health by Gov. Park to succeed Dr. James Stewart of St. Louis. Selection of McGaugh to succeed Stewart as a member of the board is regarded as indicating that he will be the new State Health Commissioner.

Three other members of the board were appointed by the Governor. The yare: Dr. Emmett P. North of St. Louis to succeed Dr. H. L. Kerr of Crane; Dr. P. T. Boban of Kansas City to succeed Dr. Frances McAllum of Kansas City and Dr. W. T. Elam of St. Joseph to succeed Dr. Horace W. Carle, also of St. Joseph. The appointments are for four-year terms. All are Democrats.

The present Board of Health will be abolished under a bill passed by the Legislature and its duties transferred to a Department of Health headed by a Commissioner of Health. U. S. TRADE IN NATIONS IN ROOSEVELT PARLEY

Still Leads in Exports Though Volume Is Cut Nearly Half —Some Figures.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain, will discuss world trade recovery measures with President Roosevelt as the representative of the Nation which is the largest customer of the United States.

The United Kingdom was the leading purchaser of American exports in 1932, followed by Canada, Japan and Germany in order. These four markets took nearly one-half of the exports from the United States, which totaled in value $1,612,000,000.

Canada, which formerly led all countries in the purchase of our goods, is ahead in imports to the United States followed in order by Japan, Brazil, the United Kingdom and Germany.

The conspicuous positions occupied by the United Kingdom and Canada in the foreign trade of this country emphasizes to observers the importance of the Ottawa agreements for empire trade preferences as factors in the preliminary discussions here, and at the London World Economic Conference.

The value of exports from the United States to the United Kingdom and Canada during 1932 dropped 37 and 39 per cent, respectively, from the 1931 figures. Exports to Japan and Germany declined 14 and 20 per cent, while the value of shipments to France and Italy dropped only 8 and 10 per cent.

Among the South American countries, the value of exports to Brazil was slightly larger than in 1931, while for the other leading countries the decreases ranged from 35 per cent for Venezuela to 83 per cent for Chile. Shipments to Argentina, the leading South American market, fell off 40 per cent. Exports to Cuba and Mexico decreased 39 and 38 per cent.

Almost complete discontinuance of shipments of machinery and agricultural implements to Russia resulted in a decline of 88 per cent in the value of the total exports from the United States to that country.

The value of United States imports from the United Kingdom fell off 45 per cent, while those from Canada declined 35 per cent in dollar value. The value of imports from Germany was down 42 per cent; from France, 43 per cent; from Japan, 35 per cent, and from Italy, 32 per cent.

While the excess of exports over imports in United States trade with Canada, the United Kingdom and Russia was considerably less than in 1931, the favorable balance with France and Germany showed an increase. The usual unfavorable balance of trade with Japan was eliminated, exports slightly exceeding imports in value.

The United States continues to be the leading exporting nation of the world, despite a 48 per cent decrease in volume since 1929. Over the same period the exports of the United Kingdom and Germany, America's closest trade rivals in normal times, decreased 40 per cent.

Compared with 1931, the decline in the volume of exports from the United States was 23 per cent, and from Germany 31 per cent. The volume of exports from the United Kingdom was about the same last year as in 1931.

ht to Pay?" Survey Made b oort's, Assisted by a Group of Students of Washington University.

GOLD DOLLAR CONTENT WAS ADOPTED IN 1900

Act of Congress Followed Bryan's Free Silver Campaigns; History of Policy.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 21. — The content of the present gold dollar is fixed by an act of Congress adopted March 14, 1900, that establishes the dollar as containing 25.8 grains of gold 0.900 fine. This makes the dollar contain 900 parts of gold and 100 parts of alloy.

In 1792, following inauguration of the Federal Government, Congress established the first monetary system of the United States, with two units. The gold dollar contained 24.75 grains of pure gold and the silver 371.25 grains of pure silver. The ratio of gold to silver was 1 to 15, and both were legal tenders, thus giving the nation a double standard.

Various changes were made until 1873, when the unit of value of the gold dollar was set at the standard weight of 25.8 grains, 0.900 fine. In 1878 coinage of silver dollars was authorized, and it was provided they should be legal tender at their nominal value for all debts except where otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract.

In the years immediately following, politics centered about the gold and silver question until, in the late '90s, the 16-to-1 silver campaigns of William J. Bryan were fought out and ended in defeat for silver.

When the act of 1900 established the gold dollar as "the standard unit of value" and made it the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to maintain all forms of money issued or coined by the United States at a parity of value with this standard it also was provided that the change would not affect the legal tender quality of the silver dollar or other money coined or issued by the United States.

The Federal Reserve Act passed in December, 1913, reaffirmed the parity provisions of the Act of 1900, and the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to borrow or buy gold in order to maintain the parity.

The present silver dollar, which is legal tender except where otherwise expressly stipulated, contains 412.5 grains of silver, 0.900 fine. The price of silver has fluctuated in the last few years, but when the silver content was determined on the coining value in standard silver dollars of a troy ounce of pure silver was $1.2929. The coining value of the troy ounce of pure gold is $20.67183 and the coining value of a troy ounce of standard (0.900 fine) gold is $18.60465.

SUBMITS BUDGET CUTTING VETERANS ALMOST 50 PCT.

President Recommends $506,838,000 for 1934, Compared With $948-799,000 This Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 21. — Extraordinary new powers for slashing Government costs were asked of Congress yesterday by President Roosevelt in a budget message nearly halving current Veterans' Administration appropriations.

He recommended appropriating $506,838,000 for the Veterans' Administration in the 1934 fiscal year, as compared with this year's allowance of $948,799,000. For all independent executive agencies the President asked $615,159,000, as against the present allotment of $1,105,356,000.

Then Roosevelt sought new legislation that would empower him:

To modify or cancel existing Government contracts.

To increase for a two-year period payments charged by the Government for any services rendered or articles sold.

To furlough any army officers on half pay.

To suspend or reduce the extra flying pay in the military services.

Transmits Douglas' Message.

In addition, the President asked Congress to eliminate from existing law the requirement for one year's sea pay to Naval Academy graduates not commissioned, to provide for the automatic discharge of civil service employes who have served at least 30 years and to transfer the botanic gardens to the Agriculture Department.

The request for the sweeping new authority was made in the budget message written by Director Lewis Douglas. The President's letter said simply he was transmitting the estimates "with whose comments I concur."

Douglas' message, addressed to the President, said of the proposed grants of power:

"There are also here suggested for inclusion in the bill certain matters for general legislation which will enable you more fully to comply with the expressed intent of Congress that the affairs of the executive branch be conducted with the utmost economy."

Hoover Vetoed Big Bill.

The independent offices appropriations bill vetoed last March by President Hoover would have appropriated $1,083,567,000, of which $80,252,000 were permanent annual expenditures fixed by law. President Roosevelt's message called for $615,159,000, of which $79,591,000 were permanent appropriations.

With only two exceptions—the Farm Board and the Supreme Court Building Commission—the slashes hit every agency for which the independent offices bill appropriates.

They began with the Veterans' Administration, cutting the $945,988,000 provided in the vetoed bill for military compensations and pensions down to $485,988,000. The remainder of the administration's allowance—$20,850,000 for the Civil Service retirement and disability fund—remained unchanged.

The White House was cut from $427,000 to $363,000, including a reduction from $75,000 to $68,750 for the President's salary.

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS VERDICT IN AUTO KILLING

Machine Driven by Wesley Thurman Struck Mrs. Blanche Gratten Who Later Died.

A Coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness was returned today against Wesley Thurman, Negro mechanic, in the death of Mrs. Blanche Gratten, 28 years old, a Negro, at City Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered while riding in Thurman's automobile on the night of April 13.

Witnesses testified that Thurman was driving east in front of 3416 Laclede avenue and swerved into the front end of a westbound one-man street car. Mrs. Gratten, who lived at 3328 Laclede avenue, suffered a fractured skull. Thurman and four other Negroes in the car were not hurt.

HOUSE VOTES FOR INQUIRY INTO CRASH OF THE AKRON

Congressional Group to Determine Whether U. S. Should Continue Building Airships.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The House yesterday unanimously completed action on a resolution directing selection of five members from each branch of Congress to investigate crashes of the Akron and other airships, to determine whether they are so undependable the United States should cease to build them.

Speaker Rainey said he will name the House members of the committee today. Indications were that Vice-President Garner will act soon, too, so the investigation can begin shortly.

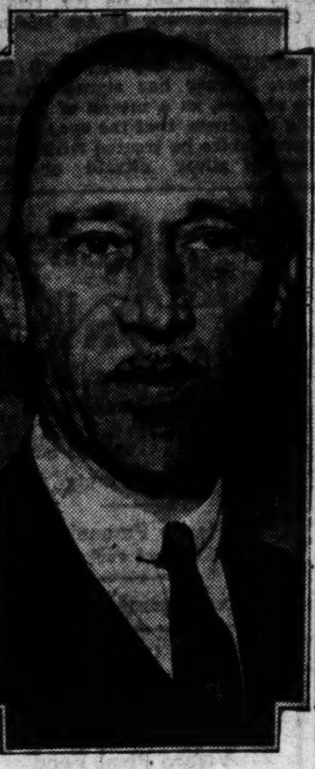
BACK ON THE JOB



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
RALF TOENSFELDT.

3 MEN WHO HELPED OUST WALL DROPPED

New Director of Public Utilities Names Ralf Toensfeldt to Old Position.

Three officials of the Department of Public Utilities, who figured in the discharge of Edward E. Wall as head of the department by former Mayor Miller in 1926 and in attendant circumstances, have been dropped, with the return of Wall as director under Mayor Dickmann. Ralf Toensfeldt, who had been forced out of the department with Wall, is about to return to his old position of chief electrical engineer.

Leonard A. Day was dismissed yesterday afternoon as mechanical engineer of the Water Division by Water Commissioner Rilliet. George B. Heath resigned as chief electrical engineer earlier yesterday. John C. Pritchard was succeeded by Wall as Director of Public Utilities on Wednesday. Day, Heath and Pritchard had been principal figures in the Miller-Wall controversy.

Rilliet, who is being retained as Water Commissioner at least temporarily, sent notice to Day yesterday that his services would not be required after May 4.

Day and Wall had been associated in the city's service since 1923 and formerly were friendly. Day, however, made a statement to Miller which played a leading part in the dismissal of Wall by the former Mayor.

Miller promoted Wall from Water Commissioner to Director of Public Utilities in 1925. Late that year a contract for installing electric street lights was awarded to late A. M. Ryckoff of Chicago. In connection with the contract, Wall was annoyed by inquiries from politicians, surety bond writers and others. Day told Miller that Wall asserted, "This is the crookedest administration we ever had," but Wall denied saying this.

After the Ryckoff contract was under way, Miller told Wall to fire Toensfeldt and give the place to Heath. Wall refused. Heath and Day testified for the Mayor in Miller's trial of Wall. Miller discharged Wall for "insubordination" and Toensfeldt resigned as the messenger approached Wall's office with this notice.

In 1929 the Post-Dispatch disclosed Ryckoff had made overcharges, later fixed by an engineering firm employed by the city at $157,064, for replacing paving after installing lights and wires. Pritchard, Heath and Ryckoff were indicted on charges of obtaining this amount by false pretenses. Pritchard and Heath were suspended. Ryckoff died. The charges against Pritchard and Heath were dismissed and Mayor Miller let them return to work.

Toensfeldt assisted the Post-Dispatch in discovering where the overcharges were made and in the effort to obtain information from Rychoff. Toensfeldt, of Danish descent, was born here in 1888 and graduated from Washington University engineering school in 1909. He was a city electrical engineer from 1911 to 1926 except for a year as a Navy Lieutenant during the World War. Since he left City Hall he has been a consulting engineer. He has advised the Plaza Commission on wiring, heating, ventilation and refrigeration for the Municipal Auditorium. He is married, has a daughter and resides at 5423 Cabanne avenue.

QUASHES 28 COUNTS AGAINST FOUR IN AYERS BANK CRASH

Court Sustains Eight Others Against M. F. Dunlap and Three Associates at Jacksonville, Ill.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., April 21.—Circuit Judge L. E. Stone yesterday dismissed 28 counts, sustaining eight others, in the indictments against M. F. Dunlap and three associates in connection with the failure of the Ayers National Bank here.

Charges remain against all the defendants.

Succeeds Young Buford.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 21.—Covell R. Hewitt, Prosecuting Attorney of De Kalb County, yesterday was named as an assistant on Attorney General Roy McKittrick's staff. He replaces Wilbur Buford, appointed Game and Fish Commissioner Wednesday by Gov. Park. Hewitt's appointment is effective May 1.

ROCKFORD SLAYER SAVED FROM CHAIR

RUSSELL McWILLIAMS.

SENTENCED to death three times in 20 months, McWilliams, 18 years old, has been granted a commutation to 99 years in prison by Gov. Horner. The youth was convicted of killing a Rockford (Ill.) street car motorman during a hold-up. Through the efforts of Clarence Darrow, he was twice granted a new trial and finally saved from death. His execution had been set for today. He is shown here after receiving news of the commutation.

ASSEMBLY UP TO NECK IN WORK; DAY TO GO

Appropriation Bills Likely to Prolong Legislative Session Till Next Week.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 21.—The Missouri Legislature dragged along today with its task of attempting to balance the State's budget for 1933 and 1934, with leaders in both houses uncertain whether the session will be extended into next week.

Leaders in the Senate and House are endeavoring to wind up work by tomorrow night, but most of the principal appropriation bills still must finally be disposed of, and the delays which have characterized handling of these bills so far are likely to prolong the session several days.

Virtually all the major appropriation bills have been thrown into joint conference committees, through House action in rejecting Senate amendments making drastic reductions in many items. These amendments were necessary to bring the total of the general revenue bills within the estimated revenues for 1933 and 1934. The bills sent to the Senate by the House exceeded the estimated revenue by nearly $4,000,000.

The House held a 15-minute session this morning to approve a joint conference committee report on one minor appropriation bill, then recessed until this afternoon. Nine other conference committees are working. The Senate had under consideration nearly 100 amendments to the general relief and deficiency appropriation bill.

Today is the 108th day of the session, and the thirty-eighth day the members of the Legislature have been receiving $1 a day. Their compensation was $5 a day for the first 70 days of the session.

Delay in getting the appropriation bills out of the House, where they originate, largely has caused the extended session. Each house blames the other. House leaders say the delay was due to the Senate's failure to take early action on several administration bills consolidating departments, and Senate leaders declare the House held the bills several weeks beyond the usual time for passing them, and then over-appropriated the revenues, necessitating general revision.

While waiting for more economy amendments to come over from the Senate, the House yesterday voted $500 from its contingent fund to pay Jerome F. Duggan, St. Louis attorney, a legal fee for defending four Democratic Representatives from St. Louis in a contest of their nominations in the primary election last August.

WILLIAM COURTENAY, VETERAN ACTOR, DIES AT THE AGE OF 67

He Played Opposite Doris Keane in "Romance" and Was With Mansfield.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21.—William Courtenay, who played opposite Doris Keane in the long run of "Romance" here 20 years ago and is well known for many other leading roles, died yesterday at his suburban home at the age of 67. His widow, whom he married in 1913, is Virginia Harned, the actress.

Courtenay was born in Worcester, Mass., attended Holy Cross College and made his debut at Portland, Me., in a barnstorming tour of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" in 1892.

He played with Richard Mansfield's company for three years and later was under Daniel Frohman's management. His first chief role was in Eugene Walter's melodrama, "The Wolf," and then for two seasons he was Doris Keane's leading man in "Arsene Lupin."

He also appeared in a few motion pictures.

HORNER SIGNS BILL REQUIRING TREATMENT FOR BABIES' EYES

Says There Can Be No Test of Constitutionality If Act Doesn't Become Law.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 21.—Gov. Horner has signed the bill to require, as a means of preventing blindness, that the eyes of newborn babies be treated with a solution of silver nitrate or some equally effective prophylactic.

"There can be no test of its constitutionality by the courts if this is not permitted to become a law," the Governor said after quoting Attorney General Otto Kerner's opinion that "its constitutionality is a matter of grave doubt."

Horner said the cost of blindness to Illinois taxpayers is $273,880.50 a year and that "strong and widespread sentiment" for the bill was indicated by the overwhelming vote it received in two successive legislatures. Gov. Emmerson vetoed a similar bill two years ago.

High School Teachers' Pay Cut.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARTIN MULLALLY DISCHARGED ON APPEAL IN AUTO CASE

Court Finds Evidence of Intoxication Insufficient; Reverses Workhouse Sentence.

Martin Mullally, 63 years old, 6158 Westminster place, who was sentenced to five days in the Workhouse recently on a charge of driving when intoxicated, was discharged on his appeal in Court of Criminal Correction today.

The Court found that evidence of intoxication was insufficient. Police testified that City Hospital physicians had said Mullally had been drinking, but was not intoxicated.

INVENTOR HOWE GAINS POINT IN ACCOUNTING

Commonwealth Steel's Profit on His Devices Is Ordered to Be Shown.

An accounting on behalf of Andrew F. Howe, University City inventor, from the Commonwealth Steel Co., is under way, less than a month after the United States Supreme Court terminated two years of litigation by deciding the inventor was entitled to an accounting for his steel mold and sand mill devices.

Counsel for the 58-year-old inventor won an initial advantage in the accounting by obtaining an order requiring representatives of the steel company, which was sold for $35,000,000 in 1929 to the General Steel Castings Co. of Philadelphia, to submit to Master in Chancery Edward P. Allen a detailed analysis of the company's business bearing on its ownership of Howe's devices.

The data, which must be ready Aug. 1, must include "all savings, gains, profits and advantages," which the company has made through the patents. The accounting covering the Howe molding form embraces the period from June 20, 1911, to June 19, 1928.

The required data includes also quantities, kinds and weights of all castings made with the aid of the mold, together with prices at which the castings were sold and the names and addresses of their purchasers. Expenses and profits also must be set forth together with a comparative statement of the cost of making castings before and after the introduction of Howe's mold.

An account is required of all royalties and bonuses paid in regard to castings manufactured under the process.

The detailed accounting, which is regarded as a major element when additional hearings take place after its introduction next summer, was ordered at a hearing at Springfield, Ill., last Wednesday over the protest of counsel for the company who desired to prepare a briefer report. The argument consumed three hours.

The hearing was marked also by the addition of Russel Wiles of Chicago to the staff of attorneys for the company, which has been increased at each hearing since the original trial in 1930 before Federal Judge FitzHenry. At that time the company was represented by Daniel N. Kirby and Delos G. Haynes of St. Louis and L. G. George and the firm of Warnock, Williamson & Burroughs of Edwardsville.

When the case was appealed to the United Circuit Court of Appears, two additional attorneys were added to the company's counsel, Horace K. Tenney and Cornelius Lynde, both of Chicago. The company employed John W. Davis of New York, 1924 Democratic presidential nominee, to ask for the writ of certiorari, which the United States Supreme Court denied.

The inventor, whose award is guaranteed by more than $1,700,000 in cash held by a trustee, has been represented since the beginning by Joseph T. Davis and Lawrence C. Kingsland of St. Louis and Bruce A. Campbell of East St. Louis.

MRS. EMMA MURRELL DIES

Mrs. Emma Murrell, wife of John K. Murrell, funeral director, died today at her home, 4929 Lansdowne avenue, of a complication of diseases. She was 74 years old. On March 13, Mr. and Mrs. Murrell celebrated their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Marie Hubbard, and a grandson, Jack Murrell.

LENIENT FORECLOSURE POLICY ADOPTED BY LAND BANKS

Action Taken in Only 1.8 Per Cent of Cases Where Payments Are in Default.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—A policy of leniency under which foreclosure proceedings will be instituted only when every other means of preventing loss has been exhausted, has been adopted by the Federal Land Banks.

The Farm Loan Board announced today that foreclosure proceedings as of March 31 were begun in only 1.8 per cent of cases where farmer-borrowers had failed to meet their obligations.

"Where the farmer plays square, the banks are showing all possible patience," a representative of the board said. "If the farmer, after meeting his living expenses, applies everything he can under present-day limited farm incomes to his taxes and in the form of a part payment of his loan, foreclosure is not considered.

"Practically every case where foreclosure proceedings are begun represents instances where the farm has been abandoned or the farmer-borrower has decided he will make no further attempt to pay taxes or his indebtedness. Foreclosure in cases of that type are necessary to clear the title to the land preliminary to its resale."

Triple-Twist Worsteds
including two trousers

Treat 'em rough! They can take it!!

They arrived Wednesday—a week too late for Easter. We want 'em on our customers' backs, where they'll make a lot more friends than on our clothing racks. That's why we've closed our eyes and marked them $20 (with two trousers). When you can carry away a Triple-Twist Worsted at a price like this, "that's sumthin'"!

Of course you know that Triple-Twist Worsteds are just about the longest wearing fabrics money can buy. Triple-twisting, in the yarn, does it! Punish them as much as you like—you can't wrinkle them or destroy their easy, trim drape.

There are just 260 of these blue-bloods going at $20 (with 2 trousers)—so get here today or tomorrow if you want a really good suit at a sizeable saving.

Our thrifty Ten Payment Plan is an optional service, for which there is NO EXTRA charge. Simply pay $5 at purchase, and budget the balance over ten weeks.

OIL STATION MAN HELD UP, LOSES $15 IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Furniture Company Cash Register Robbed by Ruse of Supposed Customer.

Lawrence Barman, attendant at a filling station at Ninth street and Baugh avenue, East St. Louis was robbed of $15 last night by an armed man who entered the station and then walked calmly away after taking his loot.

The Thayer Furniture Co., 437 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, was robbed of $32 yesterday by a ruse. A man had selected a lamp and smoking stand for purchase. Apparently seeing the cash register drawer open, he nonchalantly dropped a quarter on the floor. While the clerk, Miss Dorothy Shrock, stooped to pick up the quarter the man rifled the cash register and left hurriedly without asking for his quarter, the lamp, or the smoking stand.

BROWNS 4, WHITE SOX 0 (8 Innings); CARDINALS 4, CUBS 0 (6½ Innings)

GREGORY IS DRIVEN FROM THE MOUND IN 4-RUN RALLY

By James M. Gould.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

CHICAGO, April 21.—With a chilling wind blowing in dead against the batsman the Browns and White Sox met this afternoon in the third and final game of the series. The Sox, thus far this season, have won four in succession from the Browns and, in an attempt to slay the jinx, manager Bill Killefer chose Irving Hadley as his pitcher. Paul Gregory, likewise a right-hander, was Manager Fonseca's selection.

It was the first ladies' day of the Sox season and some 10,000 of them watched the game. Th total attendance was about 12,500.

Vangraflan and Owens were the umpires.

Tonight the Browns depart for Detroit, where open a three-game set with the Tigers tomorrow.

The game:

FIRST INNING—BROWNS—Scharein lined to Simmons. West bunted and was thrown out by Dykes. Reynolds grounded to Appling.

WHITE SOX—Hayes flied to campbell. Haas singled to left. Fonseca hit into a double play, Levey to Melillo to Burns.

SECOND — BROWNS — Appling threw out Campbell. Hayes threw out Burns. Melillo was out, Fonseca to Gregory on first.

WHITE SOX—Levey threw out Simmons. Appling flied to West. Kress was called out on strikes.

THIRD — BROWNS—Levey grounded to Fonseca. Kress misjudged Ferrell's fly and it went for a double. Hadley flied to Simmons. Scharein grounded to Appling.

WHITE SOX—Levey threw out Dykes. Grube was called out on strikes. Gregory flied to West.

FOURTH—BROWNS—West tapped to Gregory and was out at first. Reynolds grounded to Hayes. Campbell struck out, but had to be thrown out, Grube to Fonseca.

WHITE SOX—Hayes singled to right and took an extra base when Campbell fumbled. Haas popped to Melillo. Fonseca struck out. Simmons walked Hadley threw out Appling.

FIFTH — BROWNS — Burns grounded to Hayes. Gregory threw out Melillo. Levey singled past second for the second St. Louis hit. Levey stole second. Dykes threw out Ferrell.

WHITE SOX—Kress popped to Levey. Dykes flied to Campbell. Grube fouled to Ferrell.

SIXTH—BROWNS—Hadley singled to right. Scharein flied to Kress. West walked. Kress made a nice running catch of Reynolds' line drive. Campbell popped to Appling.

WHITE SOX—Melillo threw out Gregory. Hayes grounded to Scharein. Haas flied to Reynolds.

SEVENTH — BROWNS—Appling threw out Burns. Melillo fouled to Grube. Levey lined to Gregory.

WHITE SOX—Fonseca was called out on strikes. Simmons fouled to Ferrell. Appling grounded to Burns.

EIGHTH — BROWNS—Ferrell singled to center. Trying to sacrifice Hadley fouled to Fonseca. Scharein walked. West singled to center, scoring Ferrell and putting Scharein on third. When Haas fumbled West went to second. Fonseca hurt his leg making the catch of Hadley's bunt and retired from the game. Kress relacing him at first and Swanson going to right field. Reynolds singled past second scoring Scharein and West. Gregory was taken out and Kimsey went in to pitch for Chicago. Campbell doubled to left center scoring Reynolds. Kimsey threw out Burns, Campbell holding second. Dykes threw oqt Melillo. FOUR RUNS.

SHIELDS DEFEATS SUTTER, NEW CUP TEAM MEMBER

By the Associated Press.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 21.—Frank X. Shields, former Davis Cup player, today defeated Clifford B. Sutter, recently named to his place on the United States team, in the semifinals of the Mason and Dixon tennis tournament. The scores were 6—2, 2—6, 6—4, 6—2.

Sutter recently won the North-South title at Pinehurst in which Shields was upset in an early round by Bryan Grant and on the basis of his play there, was picked for the team which will oppose Mexico at Mexico City, May 5, 6 and 7.

Orginally the Davis Cup Committee had announced it would select the players for the tie against Mexico on the basis of their play at both Pinehurst and here, but in a surprise meeting Tuesday the committee named Sutter, Wilmer Allison, George Lott and John Var. Ryn.

Four of the committee members —Bernon S. Prentice, chairman; Dwight Davis, Fitz Eugene Dixon and Lawrence Baker—were in the gallery which saw Shields overwhelm the Southerner.

Gregory S. Mangin, national indoor champion, will be Shields' opponent in the title final tomorrow. Mangin won his semifinal match from J. Gilbert Hall, 6—0, 6—4, 6—4.

BABE RUTH HITS SECOND HOMER

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 21.—Babe Ruth made his second home run of the season as the Yankees defeated the Red Sox, 7 to 5, in the opening game of the American League in Boston today.

Charlie Ruffing pitched for the Yankees and Bob Weiland, Johnny Welch and Justin McLaughlin for the Red Sox. The Yankees made 18 hits. Earl Combs made three, Ruffing made one and each of the seven other men in the lineup made two each.

The game drew a crowd of 18,000, the largest opening day attendance in Boston in several years.

Mr. Curley's Foot Slipped.

MONSIEUR ARMAND SCHUL, mahout of a troupe of elephantine heavyweight wrestlers under the name of Jack Curley sinks the ankus into Londos in a scathing rejoinder to Jimmy's alleged statement that Savoldi was an "ordinary wrestler" whom he could throw "once a day and twice on Sunday."

CURLEY.

"The fact remains," writes Curley, or his mouth piece, to the Post-Dispatch, "that less than six weeks ago Savoldi won a clean fall over Londos in a three-fall match at Los Angeles. If Savoldi can win a fall in Los Angeles why should he not be able to win one in Chicago?"

The reasoning seemed good. But the premise was wrong. To check up on Jack — the Post-Dispatch records showed no such fall for Savoldi, in Los Angeles as Curley referred to—this writer had the Associated Press of Los Angeles check back. The reply was:

"No record of Savoldi having won a fall from Londos in this or any other city, prior to the Chicago incident."

Which pulls the cork out of Jack's argument.

Romancing.

JACK dreams on through a couple of pages and concludes his communication with these words:

"Give me authority for a couple of weeks and I will straighten out wrestling, remove all suspicion therefrom."

Curley may be another Hercules at that. Well, the Augean stables are just around the corner from Jack, and he has our permission to sweep up.

But, as Jack probably knows, housecleaning, like charity, should begin at home.

JEBY AND JONES SUSPENDED FOR YEAR BY N. B. A.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, April 21.—Peter A. Horbach, secretary of the Ohio Boxing Commission, today declared a year's suspension effective immediately on Ben Jeby of New York and Gorilla Jones of Akron as a result of charges of "fake" in their fight in Cleveland Tuesday night.

The suspension is automatically effective in the 32 states allied with the National Boxing Association.

The suspension was asked by the Cleveland Boxing Commission. Placed under the ban also was Suey Welch, Jones' manager, and Hymie Caplin, manager of Jeby.

Horbach said he was told that the bout in Cleveland was "the rawest deal ever pulled." It led to a motion of the Cleveland City Council recommending that the purses of the two fighters be withheld and either returned to patrons of the bout or distributed to charities, and to suits by spectators for return of their admissions.

The fight was a non-title affair, though Jones is the N. B. A. middelweight champion and Jeby the New York State Boxing Commission's nomination for world titleholder.

BUSH BATTED OUT IN FOURTH: ADAMS MAKES FOUR HITS

By J. Roy Stockton.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, April 21.—Bill Hallahan seeking his and the Cardinal's second victory of the season, pitched against the Cubs this afternoon in the second game of the series. Guy Bush, the swarthy son of Mississippi, was the Chicago hurler.

It was ladies' day, but the skies were overcast and not more than 3000 women attended. There were about 1000 cash customers.

Reardon, McGrew and Moran were the umpires.

The game:

FIRST INNING—CUBS—W. Herman grounded to Collins, Hallahan covering first. English singled over second. F. Herman forced English, Adams to Frisch. Herman trapped between first and second and returned to first safely when Hallahan dropped Adams' throw. Stephensn struck out.

CARDINALS—Adams doubled to right center. Watkins singled to center on the next pitch, scoring Adams. Frisch flied to Stephenson. Collins flied to F. Herman who throw to Grimm doubled Watkins off first. ONE RUN.

SECOND — CUBS — Adams threw out Demaree. Grimm lined to Medwick. Jurges flied to Orsatti.

CARDINALS—English threw out Medwick. Orsatti flied to Stephenson. Martin walked. Wilson singled to center and on Demaree's fumble Martin went to third. Pepper slowed up rounding third and was out at the plate, Demaree to W. Herman to Hartnett.

THIRD — CUBS — Adams' long throw retired Hartnett. Bush grounded to Collins. W. Herman singled to center. English doubled to right, W Herman stopping at third. F. Herman fouled to Martin.

CARDINALS—W. Herman threw out Hallahan. Adams singled to center. Watkins singled to center, Adams stopping at second. Frisch flied to Demaree. Jurges threw out Collins.

CARDINALS—Medwick singled to left and took second on apassed ball. Orsatti sacrificed, English to Grimm. Martin flied to F. Herman, Medwick scoring. J. Wilson doubled to center. Hallahan singled to right, J. Wilson stopping at third. Adams singled to left for his third straight hit, scoring J. Wilson, Hallahan stopping at second. Bush was taken out and Richmond, a lefthander, went in to pitch for the Cubs. Watkins singled to right for his third straight hit, but Hallahan was out at the plate, F. Herman to Hartnett. TWO RUNS.

FIFTH—CUBS—Jurges drew the first pass off Hallahan. Hartnett singled to left, Jurges stopping at second. Richmond bunted but forced Jurges, Hallahan to Martin. W. Herman lined to Orsatti. Collins made a good stop of English's smash and threw him out, Hallahan covering first.

CARDINALS—Frisch fouled to Grimm. Collins singled to center. Medwick singled to right and when F. Herman missed connections with the ball, Collins scored and Medwick reached third. W. Herman threw out Orsatti, Medwick holding third. Martin grounded to Jurges. ONE RUN.

SIXTH—CUBS—F. Herman fouled to Medwick. Stephenson drove deep to Orsatti. Demaree fouled to Collins.

Art Shires Here To Confer About Future Status

Arthur "The Great" Shires, who was purchased by the Cardinals from the Boston Braves, just when it seemed he was about to pass out of the major league baseball picture, arrived in St. Louis last night and was scheduled to confer with Cardinal officials today on his future status.

In announcing the purchase of Shires' services, the Cardinals have declined to comment on their plans. Inasmuch as they have two first basemen in Collins and Crawford, it is not considered likely that the Cardinals plan to keep him. It is presumed that he was bought with the idea of using him to bolster one of the minor league farms.

GASTANAGA OUTWEIGHS LOUGHRAN FOUR POUNDS

CHICAGO, April 21. — Isidoro "Izzy" Gastanaga of Spain, outweighed Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, 189 pounds to 185, as they weighed in for their 10-round heavyweight engagement at the Chicago Stadium tonight. Otto Von Porat, Norway, outweighed Hans Birke, San Francisco, 200½ to 197½. They meet in the 10-round semiwindup.

Chocolate and Watson Sign for Title Go May 12

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Kid Chocolate, recognized in this State as world's featherweight champion and Seaman Tom Watson of England, signed yesterday for their 15-round title match at Madison Square Garden May 12.

Louis Guttierez, Chocolate's manager, said the Cuban flash was tentatively booked for two more matches with the Garden. One would send him against Tony Canzoneri in a lightweight title bout late in July or early in August, and the other would pit him against Freddie Miller of Cincinnati, recognized as featherweight champion by the National Boxing Association.

TIPPETT ABANDONS FINAL BOXING PROGRAM AT THE ARENA

OVERHEAD TOO BIG; PROMOTER LOST MONEY ON RECENT SHOWS

Two 20-Round Title Bouts a Year Now Legal in Delaware

By the Associated Press.

DOVER, Del., April 21.

A BILL permitting boxing bouts of 10 rounds each and two 20-round championship matches in one year in Delaware was signed yesterday by Gov. C. Douglass Buck. Under the former law, bouts were limited to eight rounds, and championship matches were not permitted.

By W. J. McGoogan.

Jack Tippett, veteran boxing promoter, has decided that the expense of holding boxing in the Arena at this time is too great, and he has decided to forego his May 3 date and hold no more boxing indoors this season. He plans his first outdoor program for May 15.

Just where he will be able to present boxing this summer, Tippett does not know. Battery A drill yard, scene of summer boxing here for many years, likely will be unavailable because of the recently completed Firmin Desloge Hospital, across the street. As Battery A is in a quiet zone, it is considered quite likely that boxing will not be permitted there, although Tippett has received no official notification of this fact as yet and will make no effort to secure other quarters until he does.

Seven programs at the Arena since Jan. 1 attracted a total of 43,696 persons, with receipts amounting to $22,739.30. Of this amount, $1549.78 went to Uncle Sam, $1029.05 to the State and an equal amount to the city, leaving a net of $19,131.42, or less than $3000 per show for the promoter to pay all expenses.

Promoter "In the Red."

The boxers generally have worked on a percentage basis, but other expenses incidental to boxing promotion have eaten up what was left, so that Tippett figures he has lost a net of about $400 on the seven programs.

Prior to his last two cards, the promoter had a slight profit, but the failure of Martin Levandowski and Jim Braddock and Levandowski and Maxie Rosenbloom to draw, hurt Tippett's finances greatly.

Tippett introduced the 40 cent ticket this year and has attracted a goodly number of patrons, averaging more than 6000 to each boxing show despite inclement weather for three out of the seven, the bank holiday in another. But the receipts were not great enough.

Joe Ghnouly and Benny Bass drew the best house, a total of 8899 persons attending with receipts of $4702 while the lowest was Braddock and Levandowski when only 4366 turned out. The receipts amounted to $2206.20.

Lack of capable St. Louis boxers to pit against topnotchers has been a big drawback and there is no immediate relief in sight for this condition. Al Stillman showed well against Rosenbloom but was defeated twice. Then he was knocked out by Braddock which for the time at least drops him out of the main event class.

Ghnouly Lacks a Punch.

Ghnouly has showed to advantage on numerous occasions. He is a good boxer but possesses no punch and that is what the fans want. A puncher. A local boy who can knock 'em over.

Joe Huff and Eddie Edson at present seem to be the best local prospects but they are each at least a year or two away from top rank possibilities. They must be brought along slowly, meeting boys in their own class until they have gained sufficient experience to box the top rank fighters.

Braddock appeared set to become a favorite here until he injured his hand in the Levandowski battle. Had he knocked out Martin as he appeared set to do when the injury occurred, Tippett's results might have been different. Braddock would certainly have had more appeal as an opponent for Rosenbloom than Levandowski.

The financial statement of Tippett's seven shows:

Date—Main Event.	Attendance	Receipts.
Jan. 24—Rosenbloom-Stillman	7058	$3,893.25
Feb. 7—Ghnouly-Shaw	4704	2,275.04
Feb. 22—Rosenbloom-Stillman	7824	4,067.17
March 8—Ghnouly-Bass	8899	4,702.00
March 21—Stillman-Braddock	5797	2,908.04
April 5—Braddock-Levandowski	4366	2,206.20
April 19—Levandowski-Rosenbloom	5048	2,687.60
	43,696	$22,739.30

Total taxes paid, $3607.88.

tance runner, and Lady Belle, a sprinter, may not go the Derby route. They concede that Ladysman is great at the sprint distances, but urge that he was beaten last year, when he attempted to run over a mile.

However, it isn't well to dwell too earnestly on what the offspring of any given pair may do. In fact, the argument against Ladysman can be turned inside out by noting the case of his sire, Pompey.

This horse, who was the leading money winner in 1925, as a two-year-old, could not succeed at over a mile in the best company. And yet he was bred to go a route on both sides, being by the famous Sun Briar and that magnificent mare Cleopatra, which won the Latonia championship at one and three-quarter miles, and other long races. Thus the offspring of two distance horses, turned out to be little more than a sprinter.

Which leads one to look askance at the theory that breeding carries a guarantee that the virtues or defects of the sire and dam will be necessarily transmitted to their progeny.

What Price Pompey?

INCIDENTALLY Pompey is likely to prove the big shot of the Derby, although he was a failure himself in the classic of 1926.

No fewer than six of his offspring are entered in the race and some of them are very highly thought of. Besides Ladysman there are Caesar's Ghost, Interpreter, Pompoleon, Pomponius and Pomposity, all winners.

The Derby hero could easily come from one of this bunch, especially if Ladysman, now four to one in the future betting, runs to expectations.

Last year Pompey was the second high money-winning sire, 22 of his progeny having won $199,705. Ladysman, Osculator, Pomponius and Caesar's Ghost were the leading gold diggers.

Pompey Quit.

POMPEY'S bid for fame in the Derby of 1926 was a great disappointment to thousands of backers, inasmuch as he was the winter book favorite for the event until near the starting date. The Bradley pair, Bubbling Over and Baggenbaggage, ruled favorite the day of the race with Pompey slightly over two to one.

They ran in that order—to the head of the stretch where Bubbling Over went on to win in record time—2:03 2-5. Pompey folded up and finished fifth, 12 lengths behind.

On the basis of this his time for the race figured only 2:06 1-5—not so hot.

Roller Started It.

COLLEGIANS who have "gone wrestling" are numerous, today. But the pioneer in the field was Dr. Benjamin Franklin Roller, whose death at the age of 57 was in yesterday's news.

Roller was famous 30 years ago. A graduate of De Pauw and Pennsylvania Universities and later a member of the faculty of the University of Washington, his entry into the professional mat game caused something of a sensation in his day.

That was due not only to the fact that his university standing made his participation in the somewhat odoriferous sport of wrestling astonishing to many, but to the circumstance that he actually could wrestle with the best of them.

While still at the University of Washington his fame grew to the point where he was matched with Frank Gotch, who agreed to throw Roller twice in an hour. The champion failed. In their second meeting Gotch tossed his foe twice within the time limit.

Roller was handicapped by his lack of weight, being about 25 pounds lighter than Gotch at that time.

Once Exposed Wrestling.

ROLLER continued in the professional game for several years and was in Georges Hackenschmidt's camp at Chicago during his preparation for the second bout between Hack and Gotch.

A few years later he retired to practice medicine and electrified the world by publishing, in a physical culture magazine conducted by his friend, Bernarr McFadden, his "confessions," in which he undertook to expose the wrestling game as it was in his day.

Roller differed from most of the collegians in the mat game today in that he gained a real knowledge of the art before he attempted to exploit himself.

Miss Rawls Gains Second Title in National Swim

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 21.—The third night of the women's senior national A. A. U. swimming championships tonight will find two world's marks fallen and five new national champions. Tonight the world's 220-yard free style and 300-yard medley relay titles will be under fire.

Miss Katherine Rawls, 15-year-old Fort Lauderdale (Fla.) star, who has won the major honors of the meet thus far by smashing the 300-yard individual medley record and ousting Miss Dorothy Poynton of Los Angeles, Cal., from her low board diving championship, will attempt to add to her laurels in the 220-yard free style.

Leonore Kight of Homestead, Pa., smashed Helene Madison's 300-yard free style record last night in a special race.

The other championship event of the evening will see the Women's Swimming Association of New York defending the championship they hold in the medley relay.

CHARLEY O IN GOOD WORKOUT ON HEAVY TRACK

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 21.—The stock of the R. M. Eastman estate's Charley O., prevailing third choice in the Kentucky Derby future books, advanced yesterday following an impressive mile and one-eighth trial over the Churchill Downs oval.

It was not so much the time registered by the full brother of the famous Mike Hall, but the easy manner in which he accomplished the task that attracted attention.

It was the first time since his victory in the Florida Derby that Charley O. had been asked to go more than a mile, and under a snug hold the rangy black colt breezed the distance in 1:57 3-5. Clockers caught the quarter in :26, three-eighths in :38 3-5, half in :51 4-5, five-eighths in 1:05 1-5, three-quarters in 1:18 2-5, seven-eighths in 1:30 3-5 and mile in 1:44 4-5.

The track, although drier, was still a bit dead.

From a standpoint of time, the mile trial of Lon Jones & Son's Fair Rochester was more impressive. The son of Fair ran a quarter in :23 3-5, three-eighths in :36, half in :48, five-eighths in 1:03 1-5, three-quarters in 1:16 2-5 and mile in 1:43 4-5. At the end of the trip, Fair Rochester was going handily.

Speculation of a possible change in ownership of Head Play, a well-liked Derby eligible, was rife during the workouts. Reports were that Silas Mason and Arnold Hanger, who race under the name of the Warm Stable, were dickering with Bill Crump for the purchase of Head Play.

Derby Eligibles Win.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The Wheatley Stable's Utopian, lightly regarded Derby and Preakness eligible, scored an upset victory in the Combat Purse at Havre de Grace yesterday.

The St. Germans colt ran the mile and 70 yards over a heavy track in 1:50 1-5 to win by a length from the Brookmeade Stable's Inlander and pay $52 for $2 in the mutuels. F. A. Griffith's Sarada, like Utopian and Inlander, a Derby eligible, was third, another length and a half back. Inlander probably was much the best of the field, but went into the air at the start and ruined his chances.

Sarada, winner of the Spalding Lowe Jenkins Handicap at Laurel last fall and recently quoted at 20 to 1 for the Derby, ran a disappointing race.

W. R. Coe's Pomposo, a Pompey colt eligible for the Preakness, easily trounced six other three-year-olds in the second race, also a mile and 70 yards. Pomposo won by six lengths in 1:50 2-5.

What the Derby candidates did yesterday:

Utopian (Wheatley Stable)—Won Combat Purse, mile and 70 yards, at Havre de Grace, in 1:50 1-5, over heavy track.

Inlander (Brookmeade Stable)—Finished second to Utopian, beaten a length.

Sarada (F. A. Griffiths)—Finished third in Combat Purse.

War Stripes (Glen Riddle Farms)—An also ran in Combat Purse.

Swinhaven (P. A. Markey)—An also ran in second race at Havre de Grace, mile and 70 yards, won by Pomposo.

Dark Conquest (W. S. Kilmer)—An also ran in second race at Havre de Grace.

Title Shoot Arranged.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 21.—The sixth annual Missouri State shoot will be held at the Jefferson City Gun Club under the auspices of the Federation of Missouri Trapshooters May 5, 6 and 7. More than $800 in cash and many trophies will be awarded as prizes.

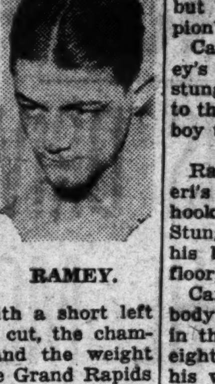
Ramey, Victor Over Canzoneri In Ten-Round Non-Title Fight, To Get Chance at Championship

By the Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 21.—Wesley Ramey has won his chance at the lightweight boxing title—his goal in the 74 fights of his professional career, of which he has won 70.

Tony Canzoneri, the title holder, promised him that chance last night after taking a decisive lacing at the hands of the 23-year-old Grand Rapids contender, in a 10-round non-title bout.

At the end of the fight, Canzoneri took a bow and announced that he considered Ramey ready for a shot at the title.



RAMEY.

Ramey weighed in at 136, one pound over the limit. Canzoneri scaled 133.

The Associated Press score card gave Ramey all but the first and third rounds, due to a fast left-hand sniping attack that reddened the champion's face from cuts over both eyes.

In the sixth, after Ramey had stung Canzoneri with a short left that opened an old cut, the champion rushed him, and the weight of his body bore the Grand Rapids lad to the floor. That was the closest to a knock-down, but Ramey bounced up without a count.

Champion Staggers Rival.

The champion came out fast in the first round and staggered Ramey with a hard right to the jaw, but the Grand Rapids boy rallied and worked his way out of danger. Twice more the champion scored rights to the head, and forced Ramey to hold on.

Ramey got his right in action in the second round and speared the champion three times to the face before Canzoneri could retaliate. Ramey's left piled up an overwhelming margin on points as he smacked a half dozen straight lefts into Canzoneri's nose, and belted him with rights to the body. Canzoneri rallied with a hard right, but Ramey kept out of the champion's range.

Canzoneri's Eye Is Cut.

Canzoneri grew red from Ramey's blows in the third round and stung Ramey four times with rights to the head when the Grand Rapids boy tried to stand and fight it out.

Ramey opened a cut over Canzoneri's left eye with a short right hook as they clinched in the fifth. Stung, the champion rushed him, his body bearing Ramey to the floor, for no count.

Canzoneri pummeled Ramey's body with both fists as they stood in the center of the ring in the eighth round, but Wesley fought his way out of the close quarters with a dozen hard lefts that gave him the round.

In the ninth round Ramey pummeled Canzoneri with a couple of left hooks to the head, opening a cut on the right side of Canzoneri's forehead. The champion rained blows on Wesley's body in the tenth, but Ramey kept at long range.

CASEY USED AT CENTER POSITION BY COACH WALSH

Tuning up his spring football squad for the first scrimmage in two weeks, Coach Chile Walsh is more than satisfied with the changes made in the St. Louis University roster and plans more changes in his forward lines and among the backfields before tomorrow afternoon, when the week-end game will be held.

When it appeared almost certain that next fall's machine would suffer from the loss of a dozen senior players, who comprised most of the 1932 eleven, eight holdovers from the freshmen and varsity squads of the previous season joined the spring training squad. After effecting a few changes to make good material for each position plentiful, Coach Walsh now sizes up his prospects for next fall as "very good, providing my players do as well scholastically this semester as they have here on the field."

The Billiken mentor, regarding the changes he made, declared that Jim Rollen, shifted from tackle to end, has shown great possibilities at his new post. Coach Walsh expects to keep the Springfield, Mo., boy at end, and likewise Red Kerens, a tackle from 1931, has been given a steady assignment at right guard. Paul Casey at last has found his niche in the Billiken lineup, according to Walsh, after shifting the St. Paul athlete from end, to tackle, to guard, to fullback. Casey's new job is center and he will be kept there to assist Mossey Nisbet and Joe Mosar, sophomores.

"Joe O'Connor, one of my players who missed last season through scholastic troubles, has added a lot of weight since his freshman year at end," said Walsh, "and I look for a big year from him at his new guard job. By shifting Kersens and O'Connor to guard, my team is now well protected in each position."

One of the most interesting bits of competition on the spring squad is the fight for high honors at left end between George Meinhardt, senior; Jim Rollen, a junior, and Tom McDermott, one of the few star freshmen from last season.

Getting into the more serious phases of the spring drills, the Billiken candidates will work six days a week until the season ends around the middle of May. Coach Walsh announced yesterday that he would pick two squads during today's workout for the scrimmage tomorrow afternoon.

THREE TRACK MEETS ARE SCHEDULED ON EAST SIDE TOMORROW

Seven Southwestern Illinois Conference high school track teams will be busy this week-end in four scheduled dual track meets.

Three of the meets will be held on the East Side of the river, and in the feature Granite City, which looms as the next possible Southwestern Conference leader, will be the guests of the Edwardsville team tomorrow afternoon, while Collinsville will be host to Belleville and Wood River will entertain Madison in the other two meets.

Granite City surprised followers on the East Side two weeks ago when they defeated Collinsville and East St. Louis in a triangular meet at Granite City, and their victory makes them favorites in the regular Southwestern Conference meet, which will be held the latter part of May. In the numerous meets thus far on the East Side, some very outstanding performances have been made and a great number of the conference records are expected to fall this year.

Soldan High will entertain East St. Louis High in a dual meet at Soldan, tomorrow afternoon.

Ladysman, Derby Favorite, Won Five Races as Juvenile

No. 15—Derby Candidates.

Ladysman, 1932 juvenile champion, heads the four Pompey colts nominated for the Kentucky Derby by W. R. Coe, New York breeder. Ladysman won his first start as a three-year-old last Saturday at Havre de Grace, easily. This race cut the odds of the Derby favorite in Tom Kearney's winter book to 4 to 1.

Ladysman was ridden by "Sonny" Workman, in his first 1933 victory, and Coe has engaged the same jockey to pilot the big chestnut colt in the $50,000 classic at Churchill Downs. As Workman is the ace rider for the C. V. Whitney stable, the purchase of his services by Coe to ride in the Derby indicates that Whitney probably will not be represented in the Derby.

Ladysman had to be retired early last fall because of an injured knee. In his Havre de Grace race he showed no trace of that injury.

The leading two-year-old money winner of last year is a picture horse of enormous size. His sire was a topnotch middle distance runner, while his dam was only a sprinter. Ladysman in his juvenile race ran like a stayer and showed good mud-running ability.

Won With 130 Pounds Up.

Ladysman's best 1932 race was in the Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga, in which he carried 130 pounds, four more than he will be required to carry in the Derby. In that race coming from far behind the leaders, he closed with a dazzling burst of speed and won by two lengths over Sun Archer.

Besides the Hopeful, Ladysman won the Arlington Futurity, the United States Hotel Stakes and Grand Union Hotel Stakes.

Ladysman was beaten by three-fourths of a length by Kerry Patch in the Belmont Futurity, but he was blocked when he tried to get through in the early running, and was in close quarters in the final two furlongs. Swivel defeated him by eight lengths in the Pimlico Futurity, Ladysman finishing eighth. It was in this race that he was injured.

Pomponius, No. 2 horse in the Coe stable, was sent to the post 23 times as a juvenile and won four races, was second once, and ran third four times. He made his first start April 23, but did not win until July 9 at Arlington. He won his first three-year-old start at Havre de Grace, beating Character, Wednesday, at six furlongs.

Pompoleon, another Coe entry, started 17 times as a two-year-old and won one race. Pomposity, the other entry, ran three races last year, and was never in the money.

Grounds on which Municipal League teams will play this season were assigned at a meeting of the Municipal Baseball Association last night at Sherman Park Community Center. The association will start play April 29 and 30.

Twenty-four leagues, comprising about 90 teams, will form the Municipal Association this year. Seventeen leagues will play Sunday baseball and the remaining seven will play on Saturdays.

C. A. Neavles, president and vice-president, respectively, were re-elected to their present posts, and Miss Beatrice Widdicombe was again named secretary and treasurer.

Members of the Executive Committee were reappointed. They are: James M. Rice, John H. Finnegan, M. F. Parker and Theodore Umbright.

The leagues and grounds to which they have been assigned follow:

Saturday.

Bowling Notes

The roll-off for the championship in the doubles event of the recent women's handicap tournament will take place at Heidel's alleys tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., the contestants being Mrs. O. C. Berghaus and Mrs. W. R. Smith and Mrs. H. M. Ehrich and Mrs. Louise Wiehe. Both teams compiled a total of 1220 pins.

Entries can still be made in the three-game handicap mixed doubles contest to be held at Rogers Recreation tomorrow and Sunday. Two squads will bowl each night, one at 7 p. m. and the other at 9 p. m. Entry fee is $1.60 per bowler, and reservations can be made by calling GArfield 8647.

For the past two weeks in the Century House League, the Bavarian Malts showed rare form in topping the pins for scores of 3273 and 3217. The former score is the highest three-game total ever rolled on the Century drives. They also set a new mark by knocking over 148 pins out of a possible 150 in the roll-off of the final game Monday night.

Set New Swim Record.

CHICAGO, April 21.—A quartet of Illinois Athletic Club swimmers today held a new world record for the 500-yard relay, having covered the distance in 4:28.4 last night in an A. A. U. meet here. The former record was 4:28.2.

HOW WAS YOUR SHAVE THIS MORNING?
Please, if you have a moment, run a hand across your face. Ask yourself this question, "Was my morning shave as clean and comfortable as I have a right to expect?" If you answer, "No", then this message is for you. We're looking for men who have trouble shaving. We want to tell our story to you people whose beards are tough and stubborn.
The double-edge Probak blade has brought a new realization of shaving ease and comfort to thousands and thousands of men who previously suffered from razor smart and burn. Especially made to shave difficult stubble smoothly—its edges are distinctly different from those on any other razor blade. This can be proved under the microscope or on your face when you shave. We urge an immediate trial. Buy Probak on our money-back guarantee. End your shaving troubles tomorrow morning.

ROBBED OF $900 ON WAY TO BANK TO MAKE DEPOSIT

Manuel Margulis Held Up as He Gets Out of Auto in Alley Behind Easton-Taylor Trust Co.

Manuel Margulis, secretary-manager of the Wardrobe Cleaning & Dyeing Co., 4803 Leduc street, was robbed of $900 as he was about to deposit it at the Easton-Taylor Trust Co., 4474 Easton avenue, at 9 a. m. today.

Margulis told police he had withdrawn the money from a downtown bank yesterday. He said he drove to the neighborhod bank shortly before 9 o'clock, but finding no parking space on the street, went into the alley back of the depository. As he got out of his car, a shabbily dressed man with a revolver demanded his money and Margulis handed him nine $100 bills. He said the robber fled down the alley on foot. Margulis and his father are partners in the business.

Burglars Get $400 in Loot From Grand and Olive Drug Store.

About $400 worth of merchandise, largely cigarettes, was stolen by burglars who broke into the Wolf-Wilson drug store at the southwest corner of Grand boulevard and Olive street early today.

The burglars climbed onto the roof of a one-story section of the building to the west, crossed over to a one-story section of the building housing the drug store and entered the vacant second floor through a window. Going part way down a back starway, they cut a hole through a partition to the balcony of the store.

Five shevles of bottled supplies in the prescription department were knocked down and bottles broken as the burglars crawled in through the hole. The burglary was discovered at 6.30 a. m. when W. L. Redfield, manager, arrived at the store.

Two employes of the Maplewood branch of the Public Loan Corporation, 7160 Manchester avenue, and two customers were forced to lie on the floor when two robbers took $100 yesterday afternoon.

NEW YORK SALES TAX LAW

Bill Signed by Gov. Lehman Hits Nearly Everything.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 21.—Gov. Lehman signed the Buckley sales tax bill last night, permitting New York State to levy a retail sales tax of 1 per cent on everything sold within its borders beginning May 1, with the exception of food and gasoline. The State already taxes gasoline at 3 cents a gallon.

The retail sales tax covers nearly everything, from penny pencils to automobiles. It will be collected quarterly on the gross receipts of every store or salesroom selling at retail and taking in more than $1250 a quarter.

ROBBERY VICTIM

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

MISS ADELE MIZES,

CASHIER for the M. Krost Produce Co., 1141 North Third street, who was robbed of $151 in company receipts while on the way to a bank yesterday. She resides at 1315 Montclair avenue. She is 17 years old.

CONVICTED OF BEATING GIRL, 8, TO DEATH

Mother of Child and Man Face Life Sentences at Kalamazoo, Mich.

By the Associated Press.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 21.—Cody Calloway, 38 years old, and Mrs. Margaret Britton, 33, yesterday were convicted of the murder of the woman's eight-year-old daughter, Kathleen. Life sentences are mandatory under the jury's verdict.

Kathleen died three weeks ago, from a skull fracture and abdominal injuries alleged to have been inflicted by Calloway as the child's mother looked on without interfering. The girl lay unconscious in a Kalamazoo hospital for seven weeks after being severely beaten.

Mrs. Britton and Calloway previously had been found guilty of assault on Sylvester, 11-year-old son of Mrs. Britton, and Calloway was serving a term at Jackson State prison for that offense when he was returned here to face the more serious charge.

Sylvester and his brother, Robert, 6, told of beatings inflicted on Kathleen, so severe that she fainted. The boys said their mother was nearby when Calloway beat the child, and that she did not interfere or protest.

TESTIFIES MRS. JUDD IS FEIGNING INSANITY

State Psychiatrist Declares, However, She Is "Scared to Death Almost."

By the Associated Press.

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 21.—The State of Arizona yesterday contested Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd's effort to escape the gallows with testimony of psychiatrists who declared her not insane in the legal sense.

Dr. Paul Bowers of Los Angeles declared the young woman, who is under sentence to be hanged for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Anne LeRoi, is neurotic, depressed, "scared to death almost," but is "malingering—feigning the aspects of insanity."

Dr. Joseph Catton of San Francisco testified she is suffering from "neurosis of the condemned," consisting in part of "consciously simulated symptoms" and in part of "mechanics beyond the control of Mrs. Judd" which "relatively promptly would be ameliorated" should the death penalty be commuted.

Both Bowers and Catton said she was not suffering from dementia praecox, the insanity type ascribed to her by defense alienists.

Dr. Bowers, in analyzing his opinion of Mrs. Judd's condition, said he found "no evidence of any insanity, or any delusions—no hallucinations, no illusions—no evidence of any behaviors belonging to the category of insanity."

"I considered her family history," he said, "and I felt it possibly is a bit tainted—but knowing many sane individuals have insane relatives, and knowing I had examined such patients of tainted heredity, it did not count for much."

Dr. Catton also discounted the taint of insanity in Mrs. Judd's ancestry, to which her aged parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell of Darlington, Ind., had testified.

"Family history helps explain insanity in an individual," he said, "but it does not help you to say an individual is insane."

L. H. LITTLEFIELD SUES WIFE

Charges Desertion and Indignities in Divorce Action.

Leland H. Littlefield, 637 South Rock Hill road, Webster Groves, filed suit at Clayton today to divorce Mrs. Henrietta G. Littlefield, alleging desertion and indignities.

Littlefield, formerly a Lieutenant in the aviation section of the National Guard, asks for custody of their two sons, Howard, 13 years old, and Robert, 11. He alleges his wife left him in May, 1930. They were married in 1917.

MONSANTO ACQUIRES $5,000,000 COMPANY

Chemical Concern Gains Control of Swann Corporation of Birmingham, Ala.

Monsanto Chemical Works has acquired a controlling interest in the voting stock of the Swann Corporation of Birmingham, Ala., it was announced last night by Edgar M. Queeny, president of the Monsanto company. The consideration was not made public.

Gross assets of the Swann company, Queeny said, total about $5,000,000. Assets of the Monsanto company were put at $20,000,000 in its 1932 report.

The Swann company has a subsidiary in St. Louis, Provident Chemical Co., 8011 Idaho avenue. Other plants operated by subsidiaries are those of the Swann Chemical Co. of Birmingham and of the Wilckes, Martin, Wilckes Co. of Camden, N. J.

Its business is based largely on the electro-chemical production of phosphoric acid and derivatives of that product. It also manufactures lamp black, calcium carbide, ferro manganese and abrasives. Its products are used in flour milling, baking powder, tooth pastes and in other industries.

Theodore Swann, who founded the Swann company in 1917, will remain with the company as president. The company's capitalization consists of 508,000 shares of no par value common stock, of which 300,000 shares are voting stock. Its subsidiaries have $755,000 outstanding in preferred stock.

The company owns two water power sites in the Tennessee Valley, within the territory included in President Roosevelt's reclamation and power development program.

1000 THREATENING LETTERS RECEIVED BY JUDGE THAYER

Friend of Late Sacco-Vanzetti Jurist Tells Legislators of "Living Death."

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 21.—The late Judge Webster Thayer of the Massachusetts Superior Court, who presided at the Sacco-Vanzetti trial received more than 1000 threatening letters during the last year, the Ways and Means Committee of the State House of Representatives was told yesterday.

The committee held a public hearing on a bill to reimburse the jurist's family for the destruction of his home in Worcester by a bomb several months ago.

Frank B. Hall, Worcester lawyer and intimate friend of Judge Thayer, who died Tuesday night, told the committee of the threats received by the judge.

"Judge Thayer," he said, "lived a living death. One member of his family received 100 threatening letters in one month. "After the bombing, I rushed to his home and walked with him a short distance up the street from his home. He told me that during the past year he had received 1000 threatening letters and that during the month just previous to the explosion, he received 250.

PROSECUTING WITNESS DIES; COMMUNISTS ARE SET FREE

Peace Disturbance Charges Against Three Men, Convicted in Lower Court, Dismissed.

Peace disturbance charges against three Communists arrested last December in the office of the restaurant of the Bureau for Homeless Men were dismissed in Court of Criminal Correction today after the death of the prosecuting witness, former doorman at the restaurant, was reported.

The three defendants were Orville Smith, 1505 North Tenth street, who was fined $300 in Police Court; Frank Bittner, 1508 North Tenth, fined $300, and Mike Pachacz, 1306 Cass avenue, fined $150. The dismissal was on their appeal.

PARADE OF HORSES TOMORROW

Will be a Feature of "Be Kind to Animals Week."

A horse parade, sponsored by the Humane Society, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the West End to call attention to "Be Kind to Animals Week," which ends Sunday.

Headed by a band from Jefferson Barracks and nine mounted police, more than 40 draft horses harnessed to milk wagons, coal wagons and other vehicles, will go from Grand and West Pine boulevards to Spring avenue, Lindell boulevard, Kingshighway and Clayton avenue. At Kingshighway and Clayton trophies will be awarded in the lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight classes and a grand champion will be selected.

VERDICT IN DEATH OF WOMAN

Coroner Finds Mrs. Mary Hale Committed Suicide.

A Coroner's verdict of suicide was returned today in the death of Mrs. Mary Hale who was found Wednesday evening in her home at 3849 Delmar boulevard, a bullet wound in her head and a revolver by her side.

Her husband, John Hale, testified he found his wife's body after noticing his revolver was missing and going in search of her. She had observed recently that "life was not worth living," he said.

UNION LEADER ESCAPES FROM FOUR KIDNAPERS

Seized With Brother and Stepfather on Way to Meeting of Local.

James S. Burke, president of the Steam and Gas Fitters' Association Local No. 562, his brother, John, and their stepfather, Thomas J. Daly, were kidnaped last night by four men while on their way to a union meeting. They were driven to a farm on the Columbia Bottoms road, in the northern section of St. Louis County, where they broke away from their captors, James Burke remaining all night in a field.

James Burke, who resides at 5019 Durant avenue, told police that he called for his brother and stepfather at the Daly home, 5022 Aubert avenue, about 7:15 o'clock, intending to drive to Musicians' Hall, 3535 Pine boulevard, for a meeting of the Local 562, to which Daly and John Burke also belong. At Palm street and Cora avenue Burke's car was crowded to the curb by a large sedan occupied by four men.

Two of the men, holding their hands in topcoat pockets, as if concealing weapons, got into the Burke car, one taking the steering wheel. The sedan followed on the drive, which lasted about an hour. Burke said he asked the captors what their purpose was, and was told "you will find out." One captor added, "we are taking you up here to see if a farmer, who was nearly beaten to death the other night, can identify you."

On reaching the Columbia Bottoms road both machines turned into a lane leading to a farm house and halted. One of the men in the second car, wearing a mask and carrying a baseball bat, came up and, with the two men who had entered the Burke machine, ordered the prisoners to walk toward the farm house.

James Burke broke away and ran through a woods to a field. John Burke and Daly turned on their captors and, following a brief exchange of blows, also got away. The captors drove away in both machines, the Burke car being found later on Destrehan road with the ignition system damaged. The baseball bat mentioned in Burke's account of the kidnaping was beside the car.

Daly and John Burke hailed a passing motorist and were taken to Ruskin Avenue Police Station. Police and deputies searched the neighborhood described by Daly and John Burke, and early today found James Burke walking along Riverview drive. He and his companions declared they were at a loss to account for the kidnaping, expressing the opinion that it was a case of mistaken identity.

James Burke was elected head of the union nine months ago and is said to be popular with the 380 members of the organization. The meeting last night was for the transaction of routine business only, other officers of the union said.

KANSAN HURT IN AUTO CRASH DIES IN ST. CHARLES HOSPITAL

Bernie Stepp, 30 years old, manager of a Wichita, Kan., hauling firm, died in St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Charles of a fractured skull suffered yesterday when a truck on which he was riding struck the trailer of another six miles west of Warrenton on Highway No. 40.

The driver, Homer Robinson of Wichita, testified at the inquest that he had just passed a truck and was pulling back into the eastbound lane when another truck, without trailer lights, stalled ahead of him. The collision threw Stepp, sleeping on the seat beside him, against the instrument board. A verdict of accident was returned.

H. F. Charles of Houstonia, Mo., drove the truck which had stalled. Stepp and Robinson were on the way to Marion, Ind.

Mark Walsh, 77-year-old road worker, 1205 Annie avenue, Wellston, died at St. Louis County Hospital yesterday of internal injuries and a fractured leg suffered April 12, when he was hit by a truck, at Dorsett road, in Maryland Heights. The driver was Arthur Mertz, employe of a paving company, who resides at Conway and Ballas roads, St. Louis County.

PINEAPPLE FRITTERS

Drain a can of large pineapple slices, saving the juice for sauce. Mix and sift one and a quarter cups flour, one-quarter teaspoon of salt and one-half teaspoon baking powder. Beat one egg yolk until light and mix with one-quarter cup pineapple syrup and one-half cup milk. Add to flour, beating mixture to a smooth batter.

Next add one teaspoon salad oil, and then fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Let batter stand for 20 minutes, mix again and dip the pineapple slices, one at a time, in the batter. Fry in deep hot fat. When golden brown, drain on soft paper and serve hot with powdered sugar or fruit sauce. Serves six to eight.

RICE CREAM

One-half cup uncooked rice, one pint boiling water, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half pint whipping cream, one cup orange juice, three-fourths cup sugar, one tablespoon grated orange rind.

Cook rice in boiling salted water until tender. Pour into a strainer and wash several times in cold water. Spread out on a cloth to drain. Sprinkle one teaspoon of the grated rind over the rice. When cold fold the rice into the whipped cream and serve with sauce made by combining the orange juice, sugar and rind, which has been stirred until sugar is dissolved.

REFRIGERATOR MEALS FOR BASEBALL FANS

Mother Gets a Chance to See Browns and Cardinals Play.

Mother has gone on a strike as far as hot suppers are concerned for one night a week at least.

She is going to a ball game now and then in peace without worrying whether she'll get home in time to get a big hot meal.

She will prepare her meal in the morning and go off care-free in the afternoon. And if the family has a refrigerator meal now and then, they won't mind, particularly as there are so many delicious recipes which can be concocted, popped in the refrigerator and left there to chill and grow firm.

There are meat and fish recipes which provide substantial fare in gelatin molds. The fruit and vegetable list of molded salads is also extensive.

Pineapple Refrigerator Cake.

If she wants to give the family a special treat for dessert on her baseball day, let her prepare the following recipe in the morning:

Soak together about five minutes:

Two level tablespoonfuls gelatin and one-half cup cold water.

Mix together: Two and one-half cups canned crushed pineapple, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, one-half cup sugar and one tablespoonful lemon juice.

Dissolve gelatin over boiling water and add to the above mixture. Cool and when mixture begins to thicken fold in: One and one-half cups cream, whipped.

Line pan with sponge cake and cover with cream mixture. Alternate cake and cream mixture until pan is filled.

YEAST DOUGHNUTS

One yeast cake.
One-half cup sugar.
One and one-fourth cups milk.
About four and one-half cups flour.
One-fourth cup shortening.
One-fourth teaspoon ground mace or grated nutmeg.
One egg.
One teaspoon salt.

Cream yeast with one teaspoon of sugar. Add milk (scalded and cooled), also one and one-half cups flour. Beat well, cover and set aside in warm place to rise for about one hour. Cream shortening and remaining sugar together, add mace or nutmeg and beaten egg. Combine with first mixture, adding remaining flour sifted with salt.

Knead for three minutes, cover and again allow dough to rise until doubled in bulk—about one and one-half hours. Turn onto floured board, roll about one-third inch thick, cut with doughnut cutter, cover and let rise again until light—about three-quarters of an hour, then cook in hot fat, drain and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

BAKED ALASKA

Firm ice cream must be used; the layer of cake under the cream and the thick meringue covering it act as insulators and make it possible to brown the meringue in a warm oven without melting the cream. Make or buy a sponge cake about wo inches thick. Place the cake on a bread board. Beat the whites of four eggs stiff enough to hold their shape and fold in gradually two-thirds cup powdered sugar. Beat again for a minute or two.

Place a quart brick of any preferred ice cream on the cake which should be large enough to extend at least half an inch on all sides around the cream. Cover the cream thickly and completely with the meringue. Bake in a moderate oven for 10 to 12 minutes until the meringue is faintly brown and is firm to the touch. Serve at once.

ALMOND WAFERS

One-half cup butter.
One-half cup sugar.
One egg.
One-half cup almonds, finely ground.
Grated peel of one-half lemon.
One-fourth teaspoon each cloves, nutmeg, cinnamon.
Two cups flour.
One-half teaspoon almond extract.

Work the butter until soft and add sugar a little at a time, mixing well. Add egg and beat until frothy. Stir in ground nuts. Grind fine enough to resemble coarse meal. Add spices to sifted flour and add to egg mixture. When well mixed, work in flavoring. Form into a roll, wrap in waxed paper or put in covered dish and chill in refrigerator for at least 12 hours. Cut off in thin slices and bake in rather slow oven for about 20 minutes, or until faintly brown.

Carrot and Cheese Salad.

Grated raw carrot mixed with twice as much cottage cheese and an equal amount of chopped salted peanuts make a healthful and satisfying luncheon salad. Shape into small balls and serve with lettuce and watercress. Mayonnaise, boiled dressing or French dressing may be used.

CHILD HEALTH DAY OF NATIONAL INTEREST

Ten Commandments for Improving Welfare of Youngsters Given.

May 1 will be National Child Health day and the attention of the country will be focused on the welfare of millions of youngsters.

It's well for mothers to review at this time what have been called the "Child Health Ten Commandments" to see how many are faithfully kept by her own children through her efforts.

Health Commandments.

1. Sleep 10 hours each night with windows open.
2. Play outdoors part of each day.
3. Wash hands and face before meals; have a full bath every day if possible, at least more than once a week.
4. Brush teeth well at least once a day.
5. Have a bowel movement every day.
6. Drink at least six glasses of liquid every day, including milk.
7. Drink as much milk as possible (one quart is best).
8. Eat one serving of whole grain cereal daily, preferably a cooked one.
9. Eat leafy vegetables every day.
10. Eat one or more servings of fruit every day.

Mothers can often get their children to follow the health rules by making a game of it. One mother weighs and measures her children's heights every month. The children have become interested in growing tall and strong and mother knows that they are well if they make a regular gain in weight and height.

Particularly important are the rules for diet. Certain foods are needed to build the growing body of the child. Milk is the corner stone of this diet. Oranges are mentioned specifically because they furnish the important vitamin C, too often lacking in child diets and this year particularly likely to be lacking in low-cost diets.

Lemon Mayonnaise.

Stir two egg yolks, one teaspoon salt and one tablespoon lemon juice until well mixed. Beat in one pint salad oil very slowly. When dressing becomes thick add two tablespoons more of lemon juice and another pint of oil.

CAULIFLOWER AND NOODLES

Put one cup cooked egg noodles in the bottom of a buttered ring mold. Heat one and one-half cups milk and add one-half cup grated cheese, stirring over hot water until cheese is melted. Then add one cup bread crumbs, one chopped pimiento, one tablespoon each of chopped onion and chopped parsley, salt and paprika. Mix well and add three beaten eggs.

Pour half this sauce over the egg noodles in the ring, and make another layer of cup of cooked noodles, covering with remainder of sauce. Bake in medorate oven until firm. Turn out on platter, and place a whole cooked cauliflower in center of ring.

CROQUETTE SAUCE

Two cups canned vegetable soup.
One-half teaspoon chili powder.
One teaspoon seasoning sauce.
One and one-half teaspoons cornstarch.

Add chili powder and kitchen bouquet to vegetable soup; bring to a boil. Mix cornstarch with a tablespoon of cold water, add to first mixture, while stirring constantly. Cook two minutes. Serve over meat loaf, macaroni or croquets. Makes one pint of sauce.

Individual Orange Nog.

Combine one-half up orange juice, one-third cup evaporated milk, one-third cup water. Beat well. Chill and sweeten to taste. Flavor with one teaspoon grated orange rind.

HOME VEGETABLES IN MARKETS NOW

First Missouri Asparagus on Sale; Spinach and Kale From Nearby Points.

Home-grown asparagus is in this week. It's of fine flavor and reasonable in price.

Home-grown spinach and kale are so abundant and cheap that they have pushed other greens to one side.

Rhubarb is another Missouri product which is quite plentiful.

So low is the scale of prices on some vegetables this week that experts state they are below production cost.

One of the cheapest is green peppers. Enormous shipments have come from Florida at the lowest price ever known for this time of the year.

Cucumber Sauce.

Add two tablespoons lemon juice, a little salt and cayenne, one finely chopped cucumber and a few drops on onion juice to one cup of whipped cream. Be sure to drain cucumber well before adding.

Butter Weights.

A half a pound of butter makes one cupful. One ounce of butter is two tablespoonsful.

Grandmothers TWIST BREAD

BIG TWIST BREAD

SLICED

HERE'S A&P's answer to a demand for a bigger and better loaf of bread—a Twist Loaf that is an accomplishment for any baker, let alone our Master Bakers. By simply twisting it, they've actually done things to this loaf. It's smoother, finer, more tender and stays fresh longer than ordinary bread. Try it today, tomorrow or the next time you buy bread, and be convinced of the real value in this new economy-sized loaf.

Try it toasted—try it for sandwiches—try it every way. You'll find it's hard to beat.

Brown Stews.

In making stews, brown meat in a little fat in the saucepan in which stew is to be cooked. First cut meat in pieces and sprinkle liberally with flour. When well browned, add water and go on with the cooking in usual manner.

Beef Heart.

Beef heart is good if cooked slowly and a long time, then served with savory gravy.

MACARONI AND TOMATOES

Two cupfuls cooked macaroni.
Three cupfuls canned tomatoes.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
Two tablespoonsfuls melted fat.
One-half cupful buttered crumbs.

Add fat and salt to the tomatoes, arrange in layers with macaroni in a greased baking dish. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven for 25 minutes.

WINDOW BOXES FOR CHILDREN'S FLOWERS

Modest Outlay Will Result in Beauty and Continued Interest.

There's no way a very small sum of money can be spent to better advantage than for plants for a window box.

Never have pots of many varieties of flowers been cheaper than they are now. Less than a dollar's expenditure will fill a box. A little rich earth, a box which can be made and painted by home talent, and the job's done!

Geraniums, petunias and other old-fashioned flowers go well in a window box and provide a riot of color.

For dwellers in flats and apartments the window box garden offers the opportunity to "putter around" with growing flowers, in which longing most of us share.

Youngsters usually like taking care of a window box and it may be turned over to them under occasional supervision.

In one block of this city, a group of mothers living in apartments have started children's competitive window box gardens. Each child has been given the same amount of money to buy flowers and uses his or her own taste in selections.

In mid-summer, modest prizes are to be awarded the children who have the most attractive and best cared for boxes.

CREAM PUFFS

One-half cup butter
One cup hot water
One cup flour
One-fourth teaspoon salt
Four eggs.

Add the buter to the hot water, bring to the boiling point, and add the flour and salt, all at one time. Stir rapidly and constantly until the paste leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from the fire and when cool beat in the eggs one at a time until thoroughly blended with the paste mixture.

Drop by spoonfuls about two inches apart on a greased inverted baking pan, and bake in a hot oven until puffed and golden brown. When cool cut and will the lower sections with seasoned whipped cream or custard, put the tops in place, and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

CARROTS AND APPLES

Six medium-sized carrots
Six tart apples
Two tablespoons fat
One tablespoon sugar
One-fourth teaspoon salt.

Scrape the carrots and cut them lengthwise into thin slices. Pare the apples or leave the skin on, as preferred, core, and cut into slices about a fourth of an inch thick. Place a single layer of the apples and carrots in a large skillet with the fat, cover tightly, and cook until well browned, turn, and brown the other side.

Just before the cooking is finished, sprinkle with the sugar and salt. Serve on a hot platter, first a layer of carrots, then a layer of apples, so the two can be lifted together.

CHOCOLATE LOAF CAKE

One and one-third cups sifted cake flour
One and three-fourths teaspoons baking powder*
One-fourth teaspoon salt
One cup sugar
*Two eggs, well beaten
Three tablespoons butter or other shortening, belted
Two squares unsweetened chocolate, melted,
One-half cup milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Beat sugar gradually into eggs; add butter and chocolate and mix well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat well after each addition. Bake in greased pan, 8x8x2 inches, in moderate oven 50 minutes. Spread top of cake with icing.

CANDIED GRAPEFRUIT

Peel two grapefruits (use pulp cut in small pieces for salad or breakfast fruit). Cut rind in thin long strips and cover with cold water. Bring slowly to boiling point, pour off water, add fresh, and repeat boiling process three times, after which simmer rind in water to cover until tender.

Measure, add equal amount of sugar and continue cooking until rind is cmlear and syrup almost evaporated. Drain well, and roll rind is clear and syrup almost apart to dry before putting in cans or dish.

FLOWER SALADS

On lettuce-covered salad plates, center a mound of cottage cheese, which has been mixed with an equal amount of ground raisins. Circle orange half slices around cheese to simulate flower petals. Top cheese with a teaspoon of red jelly.

Arrange six or seven orange segments in a circle in flower-petal pattern on dessert plate. In center place a tablespoon of shredded dates.

FREE COLD COOKING SCHOOL EVERY AFTERNOON NEXT WEEK

Miss Edna I. Sparkman, writer and lecturer on home economics, will conduct a free cooking school every afternoon at 2:30 o'clock next week at the Arthur R. Lindburg showrooms, 222 North Grand boulevard.

The school will feature "cold cooking" exclusively with salads desserts, meat and fish recipes prepared in mechanical refrigerators.

Baked Bean Soup.

Simmer two cups of baked beans with one quart water, one sliced onion, one sliced stalk of celery for half an hour. Press through sieve, add one cup canned tomatoes, salt and pepper and thicken with one and one-half tablespoons butter rubbed smooth with one and one-half tablespoons flour.

"My dainty things last lots longer since I changed to WHITE KING"

No wonder women say that White King Granulated prolongs the usefulness of their dainty silken fabrics and delicate colors.

First...it cleans thoroughly in lukewarm water—prevents the destructive 'tearing-down' of boiling water.

Second...it dissolves out harmful hidden dirt—rinses out completely.

Third...it requires no bleach or bluing and rubbing is unnecessary.

Fourth...it is all soap—no excess moisture or filler added to make bulk.

CABBAGE WITH SPICES

One small onion, sliced.
One and one-half tablespoons bacon fat.
One-half cup water or stock.
Two cups shredded red cabbage.
One sour apple, sliced.
One and one-half tablespoons vinegar.
One-half tablespoon brown sugar.
Few grains allspice.
One clove.
Salt and pepper.

Brown onion slightly in fat, add water or stock, cabbage and apple. Cover and cook slowly. When nearly done, add vinegar, sugar, spices and seasonings.

MOTHER NEVER MADE A BETTER ONE
AND SHE MADE THE FILLING IN FIVE MINUTES!

How My 15-Year-old Daughter Makes Perfect Chocolate Pies

So Quickly! . . . And Better Even Than Those I Used to Spend Hours Making

IT didn't seem possible that my little girl could already beat me at my own specialty, but I had to admit that her chocolate pie is every bit as good as the ones I have always made. And what's more, she makes it in half the time!

Instead of the old complicated way of mixing and measuring to make the filling, all she does is add milk to a 10c package of Kosto, chocolate flavor, bring to a boil, and allow to set in the baked pie-shell! It makes a perfect, rich filling every time—never fails!

At first I wouldn't believe it could be as good, even when my taste told me so. But now I see Prudence Penny says it's just as pure and wholesome as the "home-made" variety, and very much more uniform in smoothness and quality. Now I use Kosto too, and am so delighted to save all the old hard work!

In addition to perfect chocolate pie filling, Kosto also makes many other favorite desserts easier and better—lemon pie, chocolate pudding, many attractive combinations with fruits, etc. A 10c package makes 5 ample servings.

WEEK-END OUTINGS NEXT IN ORDER

Pantry Supplies Will Help Solve Impromtu Lunch Problems.

Happy days are here again for those who love to spend Saturday afternoons or Sundays outdoors.

Busy days, too, for mother, for she must always have enough on hand to prepare lunches for hastily arranged jaunts. Often it's a big lunch for guests have a habit of coming along when a picnic is in prospect.

Never is a well-stocked pantry more necessary than during the outing season.

Canned products assume a new importance when there are plenty on hand to prepare a tasty outdoor lunch.

Canned fish, meats and relishes for sandwiches are friends in need. Soda crackers and any of the numerous sweet crackers are aids, too.

An extra stick of butter and a package of cream cheese in the refrigerator should be a week-end rule, as should also an extra loaf of bread. No telling when they'll be quickly needed.

POTATO SOUP

Three medium-sized potatoes.
One small onion.
Boiling salted water.
Three tablespoons flour.
Three tablespoons butter.
One quart milk.
One-half teaspoon celery salt.
One-sixth teaspoon paprika.
One teaspoon minced parsley.

Pare and slice potatoes and cook with onion in water to cover. When tender, press through sieve. Blend butter and flour smoothly, add milk and bring slowly to boiling point, stirring continually. Add potatoes and seasonings and sprinkle in parsley just before serving.

VANILLA PARFAIT

One cupful sugar
One-half cupful water
Two cupfuls cream, whipped
One tablespoon vanilla
Six egg yolks

Boil the sugar and water to 238 degrees Fahrenheit. Pour slowly on beaten egg yolks. Cook in the top of a double boiler until the mixture thickens. Cool and then fold in the cream which has been beaten stiff. Add the vanilla and pour into a mold. Freeze in two parts ice to one part salt for four hours.

SALLY LUNN

Two cups flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
Two tablespoons sugar.
Two eggs.
One cup milk.
One-fourth cup melted shortening.

Sift together all dry ingredients. Beat and add eggs, then milk and shortening. Beat all thoroughly, turn into a shallow well-greased pan and bake about 20 minutes in moderate oven. Cut into squares.

CHEESE ENTREE.

One cup finely rolled soda crackers.
One-half cup grated cheese.
One tablespoon butter.
One cup boiling water.
Salt and pepper.
One egg, beaten.

Put crackers and cheese in top of double boiler, add butter and gradually stir in the hot water. Remove from fire, season and stir into well-beaten egg. Cook three minutes longer and serve hot on toasted flake soda crackers. Sprinkle with paprika.

CORN FLAKE PASTRY

One cup corn flake crumbs.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons sugar.

Put the corn flakes (four cups full) through a food grinder using the fine cutter, then sift the crumbs. Measure crumbs after sifting. This makes about one cup when ground.

Cream the butter with the sugar and add the crumbs, kneading thoroughly. Press into the buttom of spring form mold or a pie pan with slanting sides.

Cake Flours.

Cake flours are specially milled until they are many times finer than ordinary flour. They are made from selected wheat which contains only a small amount of delicate gluten and therefore are quickly responsive to cake leavens.

USE TOUGH ENDS OF ASPARAGUS FOR SOUP

Scrape the tough ends of asparagus, cut slantingly in slices, cover with cold water and heat slowly to boiling point. Add a small sliced onion and one teaspoon salt and simmer for 40 minutes. Rub through a coarse strainer and use pulp and juice as the base for a cream of asparagus soup.

A few of the tips may be saved out, or any leftovers used to garnish the soup before serving. The ends from a large bunch cooked in this way make about two cups asparagus stock. This, with the addition of an equal amount of milk, makes soup for four persons.

Celery Salt.

Use celery salt instead of plain salt in the dressing for cole slaw and you will have a delightful flavor.

CORN STICKS

One cup yellow cornmeal.
One-half cup cracker meal.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon sugar.
One egg.
One-quarter cup melted butter.
Two-thirds cup milk.

Mix dry ingredients, add lightly beaten egg, shortening and milk. Mix well, shape into stocks and bake on a greased baking sheet in hot oven 10-15 minutes. Makes 24 small sticks.

SAVORY TUNA FISH

Twelve toast points,
Three tablespoons butter,
Three tablespoons flour,
Two cups milk,
One cup tuna fish (½ lb).
One-half cup cooked peas,
Three tablespoons sliced stuffed olives,
One tablespoon chopped green peppers,
One teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
Paprika and salt to taste.

Melt butter and stir in flour. Add milk gradually, and stir over fire until thick. Boil one minute. Add remaining ingredients, season, and serve hot on toast points.

Cracker Crumbs.

A few cracker crumbs, when sauted lightly in butter and sprinkled over cauliflower, broccoli and other vegetable or creamed dishes—will add flavor, besides giving the dish a distinctive finishing touch.

YOUTH,.. by the bowlful!

Vitally different!

WHAT?...Can't buy youth? Well, you can buy the things youth is made of! Proteins, carbohydrates, minerals, vitamins—these are the vital elements that keep you feeling alive, on your toes, YOUNG.

Nature offers them to you—in rich measure, in perfect balance—in one cereal grain, WHOLE WHEAT! And Shredded Wheat brings them to you, ready cooked, ready to eat. For Shredded Wheat is whole wheat—nothing added, nothing taken away!

You'll like this crunchy, flavorful food with milk or cream, with fresh or cooked fruit. You'll like the way it gives you a feeling of YOUTH. Helps make red blood, sound teeth, sturdy bones, steady nerves!

These are some of the reasons why Shredded Wheat is so VITALLY DIFFERENT! Why it can bless you with energy, radiance, youthful charm.

YOUTH by the bowlful? Find out for yourself. Thousands have. Just make this simple and most pleasant test. Every day for at least ten days treat yourself to Shredded Wheat.

When you see Niagara Falls on the package, you KNOW you have Shredded Wheat.

RECIPES FOR NEXT WEEK.

Cutlets With Herbs.

One and one-half pounds veal cutlet, cut thick.
One and one-half cups bread crumbs.
One teaspoon finely minced onion.
Grated rind one-half lemon.
One teaspoon mixed herbs.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
Two beaten eggs.
Two tablespoons water.
Frying fat.

Blend thoroughly crumbs, lemon rind, onion, herbs and seasonings. Beat eggs with water. Trim cutlet with sharp knife cut it into thin slices—these cannot all be just the same size or shape because cutting must follow contour of meat. Dip slices first into crumbs, then into beaten egg, then again into crumbs and fry gently in a little hot fat, turning to brown both sides evenly. Serve rich brown gravy or tomato sauce separately.

Potato Balls.

Form mashed potato into balls the size of large walnuts, roll in slightly beaten egg, then in bread crumbs and brown in hot oven.

Rhubarb Charlotte.

Prepare stalks of rhubarb as for pie. Put four cups of the cut-up rhubarb in a saucepan with one and one-half cups cold water. Heat to the boiling point and boil for 10 minutes or until very soft. Remove from fire and add one and one-half cups sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved.

While the rhubarb is cooking, fill a pudding pan with slices of stale buttered bread or cake, lining the sides and bottom, and then fill in the center with small pieces packed together. Pour boiling rhubarb over the bread, place a plate on top of the pan and put a weight on the plate to hold it down firmly, when cold, put in the icebox to chill. Turn out and cover with a layer of whipped sweetened cream or evaporated milk.

Salmon Loaf.

One large can salmon.
One-half cup evaporated milk.
One-half cup boiling water.
One tablespoon butter.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One cup soft bread crumbs.
Two eggs.

Flake salmon, remove all skin and bone. Scald milk and water, add butter, seasonings and crumbs. Set aside for five minutes, then combine with fish and beaten egg yolks. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, turn into greased dish and bake about 40 minutes in moderate oven. Serve with tomato, parsley or egg sauce.

Peas in Nest.

With a pastry tube make nests of mashed potatoes. Place in oven on greased pan to brown for a few minutes. Fill with canned peas which have been seasoned with salt, butter and pepper. Place on meat platter around the roast or steak.

Savory Dressing.

Mix together one tablespoon dry mustard, one-half tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, one-third cup catsup, one-half cup vinegar, two teaspoons sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne and celery salt, and one cup any salad oil. Beat well with an egg beater until thoroughly blended. Serve on shredded cabbage or greens.

Creole Sauce.

One-half cup minced onion.
One cup minced green peppers.
One pint canned tomatoes.
Dash of salt, pepper and paprika.

Melt two tablespoons butter, add paprika, onions and peppers and simmer until tender. Then add tomatoes, salt and pepper. Boil five minutes and pour over fried or baked ham slices.

Spinach Mold.

One-half peck spinach.
One teaspoon mixed mustard.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoons melted butter.

Wash spinach thoroughly, cook, drain, reserving liquor for soup, and chop very fine. Add seasonings and butter, pack into well-greased mold and reheat by setting mold in pan of hot water for at least 20 minutes. Unmold and serve immediately.

Baked Spiced Halibut.

Two pounds halibut (one piece).
Two cups tomatoes.
One-half tablespoon sugar.
One cup water.
One onion, chopped.
Three cloves.

Mix all of the above ingredients except the halibut, together.

Make a sauce of:
Three tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
Three-quarters teaspoon salt.
One-third teaspoon pepper.

Add sauce to first mixture. Cook 10 minutes. Pour half of this over fish and bake for 35 minutes, basting frequently. Serve the other half of the sauce with the fish and garnish with parsley.

Strawberry Chiffon Pie.

One level tablespoon gelatine.
One-quarter cup cold water.
Four eggs.
Three-quarters cup sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One cup strawberry pulp and juice.
One tablespoonful lemon juice.
Red coloring.

Soak gelatine in cold water about five minutes. Beat egg yolks slightly and add one-half cup sugar, lemon juice and salt. Cook over boiling water until of custard consistency. Add the softened gelatine, stirring thoroughly; then add strawberries and coloring. Cool and when mixture begins to congeal fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which has been added the other one-quarter cup sugar. Fill baked pie shell and chill. Just before serving, spread over pie a thin layer of whipped cream and garnish with strawberries.

BROWN SUGAR COOKIES

One cup brown sugar.
One-half cup butter or margarine.
One egg, well beaten.
One teaspoonful vanilla.
Two and one-half cups pastry flour.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One egg white.
One tablespoon sugar mixed with one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon.

Cream together sugar and butter, add beaten egg, vanilla and flour which has been sifted with baking powder and salt. Shape into roll and chill in refrigerator one hour or more. Roll very thin and cut. Place on greased baking sheets, brush top of each with slightly beaten egg white, and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon mixture. Place in the center of each a blanched almond, pecan, a piece of candied cherry or a bit of candied pineapple. Bake in a hot oven for 10 minutes.

Gingerale Punch.

Mix half pint grape juice, one pint gingerale, one-half pint sugar syrup and one quart water. Pour over cracked ice in punch bowl.

VEGETABLE SALAD

One cupful finely chopped green pepper.
One cupful finely chopped raw carrots.
One cupful finely chopped cabbage.
One-fourth pound American cheese, grated.

Mix each chopped vegetable separately with enough mayonnaise to bind. On a leaf of lettuce place a layer of carrots. Place a layer of cabbage on top of the carrots and top with a layer of green pepper sprinkled with grated cheese. Serve with tart dressing.

SCALLOPED EGGS IN CREAM SAUCE

Melt two tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add two tablespoons flour; stir until well blended, add one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and one cup milk. Cook until thick.

Add two tablespoons ketchup and pour the sauce over four hard cooked eggs, sliced. Serve on slices of buttered toast. Reserve part of egg yolks and force through a sieve over top of the creamed eggs.

SPRING SANDWICHES

Cream one-fourth pound grated American cheese with mayonnaise and add one-fourth cup chopped chives, spread on brown broad.

Remove fat from cooked lamb, mince two cups of it. Combine with four tablespoons mint sauce and one-third teaspoon salt. Chill, then spread between slices of whole wheat bread.

Creamed Consomme.

Melt four tablespoons butter, add four tablespoons flour, and blend well. Then add three cups of canned consomme slowly, then one cup of milk. Bring to boil and season with salt and pepper.

MINORITY REPORT RAKES ROOSEVELT SHOALS PROPOSAL

Republicans Say Tennessee Valley Development Threatens to Impair Nation's Credit.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Roosevelt's Tennessee Valley program today was assailed by Republicans on the House Military Affairs Committee as "so vastly sweeping, yet so vague in its extent, that it threatens dangerously to increase the bonded indebtedness of the nation to a point of impairing its credit."

The criticism was made in a minority report to the House signed by Representatives Ransley and Cochran of Pennsylvania, Goss of Connecticut, Carter of Wyoming, Andrews of New York and McLean of New Jersey.

The committee's other two Republicans—James of Michigan and Christianson of Minnesota — did not sign the report.

The Republican minority said also the Hill bill was objectionable "because in our opinion, it fails adequately to carry out the purposes of Section 124 of the national defense act under whose provisions the Wilson Dam and the nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals were constructed, because it compels the Government to engage in the production and sale of power and fertilizer in competition with citizens."

A resolution granting the Tennessee Valley program a right of way in the House and blocking all but committee amendments was approved today by the Rules Committee.

Consideration of the new Muscle Shoals bill will begin immediately after the House acts on the $500,000,000 Senate relief bill. A final vote on the Tennessee basin development is expected Monday.

The rule allows six hours of debate but closes the measure to all amendments except those offered by the Military Affairs Committee. Chairman McSwain of the Military Affairs Committee, said both Democrats and Republicans on the Rules Committee had agreed to the rule.

"I believe if the bill was opened to all amendments it might take two weeks to finish it,' McSwain told the Rules Committee.

Ransley of Pennsylvania, a member of both the Rules and Military Committees said he would not oppose the rule, while Goss (Rep.) Connecticut, said he had made the suggestion for blocking amendments.

"The measure is broad and it is the President's desire to have it passed," Goss said. "While I am opposed to the bill, I would be willing to have it go through in the best form possible."

Goss and Ransley were among the six Republican signers of a minority report assailing the bill.

Depository Will Reopen Tomorrow After Reorganization to Meet Requirements.

Citizens' National Bank of Maplewood will reopen tomorrow for unrestricted business under license issued by the Treasury Department through the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

The bank, at 7305 Manchester avenue, reorganized to meet the requirements of the Treasury Department and to place it in a sound condition. It has not been open since the bank holiday.

Arthur V. Lashly, attorney for the bank, said stockholders and directors had subscribed for $120,000 in new capital. In addition, depositors took $100,000 of preferred stock for part of their deposits, which totaled about $400,000.

The new capital was required because of depreciation in the bank's assets, chiefly in the bond account.

In its statement for Dec. 31 the bank listed total assets of $843,000. Capital was $100,000 and surplus, $20,000. Jul R. Holekamp is president of the bank.

9800 SEE WHISTLER PORTRAIT

3900 in One Day View Special Exhibit at City Museum.

Whistler's portrait of his mother, now on temporary exhibition at City Art Museum in Forest Park, has been viewed by 9800 persons since it was hung a week ago. Of these 3900 visited the museum Sunday, and 1900 on Tuesday when Dean Edmund Wuerpel of St. Louis School of Fine Arts of Washington University, a friend of the artist, lectured.

Last week's attendance was nearly 4000 more than that of the week before. The picture will remain at the museum until May 14, Mother's day.

VEGETABLE DINNER HAS VARIED MENU

St. Louis Fruit and Produce Association Hosts at Annual Event.

The first vegetable dinner of the St. Louis Fruit and Produce Association Wednesday evening at the American Annex presented a menu rich in valuable suggestions which might well be followed by home cooks for an occasional change from ordinary meals.

A fruit cocktail was followed by celery, cited as a valuable enemy to calcium which stiffens the joints. Radishes, as slightly stimulative, and tomato juice as a tonic food were also on the menu.

A vegetable plate, the main course, included mushrooms rich in potassium, spinach with its iron content, asparagus and peas.

A health salad of lettuce, grated carrots, tomatoes and cucumbers was served with lemon honey dressing. Strawberries completed the menu.

FRESH PINEAPPLES COME FROM CUBA

Arrival of Carload of Fruit Is One of Week's Food Events.

A carload of fresh pineapples from Cuba came in this week to delight lovers of this fruit.

A fresh strawberry and pineapple cocktail is a delicious first course which can now be indulged in.

Slice, peel, core and remove eyes from pineapple. Cut it in wedge-shaped pieces and mixed with sweetened berries. Let stand one hour in refrigerator before serving.

Pineapple Salad.

Strawberries and pineapple may be combined also in an attractive salad as follows:

One large pineapple, two cups strawberries, two-thirds cup powdered sugar, two tablespoons lemon juice, one tablespoon finely minced mint or two tablespoons mint jelly.

Cut a slice from top of pineapple, lay it aside and with an orange spoon scoop out the pulp. Blend this with strawberries cut in halves, sugar and lemon juice. Chill and just before serving, stir in mint or mint jelly. Replace in pineapple shell and either put cover on or place it on side.

Baked Hash.

Mix three cups cooked meat (chopped veal, pork or combination of meats), two cups fresh bread crumbs, onecup cream of pea soup and a dash of pepper. Put in a buttered casserole, cover with buttered crumbs, and bake for 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

DELICIOUS CEREAL OVERCOMES COMMON CONSTIPATION

ALL-BRAN Provides "Bulk," Vitamin B and Iron

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN meets a basic need of the American dietary. It supplies "bulk"—so helpful in correcting common constipation. In eleven years, ALL-BRAN has won millions of satisfied users.

New tests show added reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN. Laboratory experiments prove that, in addition to "bulk," it provides vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from constipation can be overcome by this pleasant cereal. How much better than using pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN is mild. Its "bulk" is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Another benefit of ALL-BRAN is that it has twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. Tempting recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

---- AND THREE CANS OF COBCUT CORN - MY FAMILY IS CRAZY ABOUT IT
P-L-E-A-S-E MOTHER HAVE COBCUT CORN TONIGHT - IT'S SO GOOD

I'LL BE HOME RIGHT ON TIME IF YOU'LL HAVE THAT COBCUT CORN

A Treat for Every Member of the Family—

A tempting dish for dull appetites and a delight for eager ones—that's COBCUT CORN. Tender kernels, each firm and separate (not mushy—not milky) with all the appetizing goodness of sun ripened corn fresh from the field. And how good it is for everyone—especially the children. Healthful, easily digestible and rich in essential food elements.

COBCUT is packed the same day it is picked. And it is picked just when the corn is perfectly ripe—at its flavor peak. There is no chance for any of the freshness or flavor to escape because it is sealed in.

COBCUT CORN costs a few cents more than ordinary canned corn—and it is worth it! One serving will prove that. Surprise the family by having COBCUT CORN tonight.

OH MOM! HAVE COBCUT CORN TONIGHT WILL YA?

COBCUT CORN AU GRATIN

Into a casserole place ordinary layers of COBCUT CORN, grated cheese and cracker crumbs, with salt and pepper to taste. Pour over this ¾ cup milk, dot with butter and top with a generous sprinkling of cheese. Bake in hot oven for 20 minutes.

Add Variety to your Menu

by serving COBCUT in a number of ways—either heated up (COBCUT CORN comes ready cooked at exactly the right temperature) or chilled with salads. The firm tender grains are specially fine for corn fritters and give unequalled flavor to many dishes.

FIFTY NUT COOKIES IN ONE BAKING

Two Recipes for This Quantity Are Given by Request.

"I never seem to be able to make enough cookies in one baking. Can you give me recipes that will make about 50?" is one of the week's requests.

Here are two recipes, both with nuts, which make the desired quantities:

Chocolate Cookies.

Two cups sifted cake flour.
One-half teaspoon soda.
Dash of salt.
One-half cup butter or other shortening.
Two-third cup brown sugar, firmly packed.
One egg, well beaten.
Three squares unsweetened chocolate, melted.
One-half cup milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One-half cup walnut meats, broken.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift again. Cream butter thoroughly. Add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and nuts. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven about seven minutes.

Spice Cookies.

One and one-half cups sifted cake flour.
One and one-half teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two teaspoons cinnamon.
One teaspoon cloves.
One-half teaspoon ginger.
One-half cup butter or other shortening.
One-third cup milk.
Three-fourths cup brown sugar, firmly packed.
One egg, well beaten.
One-half cup nut meats, chopped.

Carving.

Carve meat with sweeping strokes by the knife—never saw it off.

Use Old Dutch and make things bright, clean and healthy

Save money, time and labor with this better, safer cleanser

Make this a real Clean-Up Week by enlisting the aid of Old Dutch Cleanser. You take care of the yard; Old Dutch will take care of the house and garage—including the cleaning of exterior walls, wood or stone steps, porches, window frames and doors. Old Dutch cleans more quickly, safely and economically because it is different from anything else. Its flaky, flat-shaped particles are natural cleansers that quickly remove both visible dirt and dangerous, invisible impurities. They cover more surface, go further and do more actual cleaning per penny of cost.

Old Dutch doesn't scratch because it contains no harsh, sandy grit. It's kind to the hands, doesn't clog drains, is odorless and removes odors. Try it. There's no substitute for the quality and economy of Old Dutch Cleanser.

AGAIN patience has been rewarded! Livingston's Rye Bread has its flavor-mate back again . . . and together they'll march right into your affections.

Livingston's Rye Bread . . . that's the kind the brewers used to send out for at lunch time. It was born for beer. It was created with thoughts of wursts, cheeses, onions, and pickles in the baker's mind. It's the one thing that beer can't get along without.

GET THIS "Slant" ON IT!

When a merchant needs money, he borrows on his store. When a corporation needs money, it borrows some of its assets. Borrowing is the extension of money credit and is the backbone of business. It's often wise economy to borrow for a need, and may be the solution to your problem. We lend money to the car-owner. You can borrow $10 to $1000 from us, and quickly! The cost is fair—the transaction private, business like. Repayments are easy. If you owe a balance on your car, we'll pay it and reduce your payments. We offer you many helpful services. You'll be glad to learn about these plans, and we're glad to tell you about them. Drive in! 1039 N. Grand is the address, and . . . the parking is free.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21. — Heavy profit taking swept through the stock market today, as the dollar rallied in foreign exchange dealings, and gilt edged bonds improved. Rails, oil and gold mining issues closed steady to firm, but the rest of the list was weak, with numerous losses of 1 to 5 points. Sales approximated 5,300,000 shares.

There was an inclination to stop and take bearings, in an effort to discover how far such inflation as seemed in prospect had already been discounted by the sweeping advances in staples and shares. The improvement in dollar exchange was attributed chiefly to short covering by European speculators.

Rails budged up at the opening, then reacted. An extreme gain of 5½ in Delaware & Hudson was largely lost, as were gains of 2 points or more in Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, and Pennsylvania. New York Central and Northern Pacific finished about a point higher. Utilities turned decidedly weak, with Consolidated Gas virtually losing yesterday's 6-point gain. Declines of 1 to more than 3 points appeared in American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Corn Products, American Smelting, American Can, North American, Allied Chemical, United Fruit and U. S. Smelting. Metal issues generally reacted.

Commodities were highly mixed Wheat fell back 1¼ to 1¾ cents a bushel, but most other grains were steady. Silver reacted, while spot copper gained another ¼ of a cent to 6¼ cents. The dry goods markets were firm. Wool tops reacted, while cotton closed unchanged to 25 cents a bale higher.

After an early advance of about 7 cents, the pound sterling reacted to $3.78, where it was off 5 cents, net. French francs pushed up to 4.38, then slid back to 4.20 cents, where they were off 12 points net. Most other currencies were lower in terms of dollars.

News of Day.

The bulge in the rails looked like a run in of shorts, although brokers said there was some long buying. Weakness was shown by utilities. There has been recent passage by the House of a measure to shift the electricity tax from the consumer to the producer. Silver issues reacted in sympathy with a setback in silver futures. Profit taking took place in coppers. It is said that even at 6¼ cents a pound, the metal is still well under average production costs.

Dun & Bradstreet said the post-Easter letdown in retail trade had failed to develop, and "the wave of public buying appeared to be far from having reached its crest." Reports from the steel trade indicated that production may have gained even further.

Earnings reports were received. Allis Chalmers had a first quarter net loss of $869,986, which was a little less than the $936,395 reported for the like period of last year. Two quarterly motor reports appeared. Hupp showed a loss for the period of $522,997, against $596,176 last year, but Chrysler's first quarter loss was $3,038,082, or somewhat larger than the $2,066,485 in the same period of 1932.

Reserve Statement.

Wall street was keenly interested in the weekly report of the Federal Reserve system which showed gold holdings at $3,365,000,000, the highest since September, 1931, when an all-time record was established. That the present figure should be attained just at the time of our departure from the gold standard was considered an unusual coincidence. The net advance in gold since the bank holiday low on March 8 now amounts to $682,000,000, reflecting almost entirely the return of hoarded gold. The reserve ratio this week advanced to 61.5 per cent from 60.6 per cent a week ago.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 21.—Prices on the Stock Exchange closed with a better tone after registering slight recoveries from the lowest levels of the session. Trans-Atlantic issues, which were near their morning levels, recorded good gains, while gold-mining shares were weak exceptions, finishing easy on the lower gold price and higher franc exchange.

PARIS, April 21.—Stimulated by favorable Wall street advices, quotations on the Bourse advanced further, especially international issues and raw material shares. Rio Tintos gained 70 points, but closed irregular after some profit taking. Buying activity permitted rentes to regain part of their recent losses.

BERLIN, April 21.—After opening firm, with prices from 4 to 6 points higher, the Boerse developed irregularity and closed weak.

WHEAT MARKET TURNS LOWER IN LOCAL TRADE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 21.—The wheat market turned lower today and after recording a maximum decline of 1½@2c, closed 1½@1⅞c net off. There was less enthusiasm to buy. Declines in British exchange and silver futures and moisture in par of grain belt were cited among factors.

Profit-taking followed the recent spurt.

Winnipeg wheat was ⅝c net lower at the close.

Liverpool came ½@⅝d lower in one cable after opening ⅛@⅜c off. The close was ⅛ to ¼d net lower.

July wheat opened at 69, up ¼ and September wheat 70, off ½c.

Local wheat receipts which were 45,000 bu. compared with holiday a week ago and 65,800 a year ago included 23 cars local and seven through. Corn receipts which were 132,000 bu., compared with holiday a week ago and 21,000 a year ago included 80 cars local and 8 through. HIGHER PRICES ARE PAID IN THE HOG MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Sharp curtailment of the enthusiastic buying which has recently hoisted wheat more than 20 cents led to lower prices today, especially during late transactions.

Rains in drouth districts, stock market hesitancy and downturns of silver and British exchange had an unsettling effect on confidence of purchasers of grain. Delays to spring wheat seeding failed to act as an offset.

Wheat closed unsteady, 1¼@1¾c under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛@ down; oats, unchanged to ¼c up, provisions varying from 17c decline to rise of 20c.

Despite announcement of administration latest plans, grain prices took an downward swing today.

Selling orders predominated in all and new buying was in smaller volume than recently. Opening unchanged to lower, wheat soon showed losses of cents a bushel all around. Corn started ¾c off to ⅛c up, and subsequently underwent a general setback.

Rains over arid sections of the domestic winter wheat belt also tended to discourage buying.

Increased buying of wheat developed price breaks, and at times rallied the market rapidly to well above yesterday's finish. A large part of the buying of backs was attributed to houses with Eastern connections. Reports of rains in dry areas of the domestic winter wheat region west and southwest acted, however, as a drag on the market.

Friends of higher prices urged nevertheless that these rains now meant only surface relief for wheat crops. A sharp in the price of silver was without apparent influence on the wheat market.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat.

Provisions lacked aggressive buying support.

WHEAT MARKET TURNS LOWER IN LOCAL TRADE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 21.—The wheat market turned lower today and, after recording a maximum decline of 1½@2c, closed 1½@1⅞c net off. There was less enthusiasm to buy. Declines in British exchange and silver futures and moisture in part of grain belt were cited among factors.

Profit-taking followed the recent spurt.

Winnipeg wheat was ⅝c net lower at the close.

Liverpool came ⅛@⅝d lower in one cable after opening ⅛@⅜c off. The close was ⅛ to ¼d net lower.

July wheat opened at 69, up ⅛, and September wheat 70, off ½c.

STRONG TONE SHOWN BY THE BOND LIST

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Bond prices generally exhibited a strong tone today as some of the recently depressed issues rallied and other loans resumed their upswing.

United States Government securities, spurred by reported banking purchases, came back smartly. Most of them recorded gains of 1-32 to more than half a point. Recoveries of a point or more in the corporation classes included some bonds of American Telephone, Duquesne Light, Santa Fe and Union Pacific. There were a number of fractional gains in this group.

Some loans of New York Central ranged up more than 4 points. Pennsylvania, Western Union, United Drug, Erie and North American issues advanced around 3 points. Liens of Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern and Alleghany Corporation were especially active at gains of a point or more. Some of the oils and industrial specialties were a trifle heavy.

The foreign department was irregular. French Government 7½s ranged around 4 points and the 7s were up more than 2. At the same time German obligations were reactionary, most of them showing downward ranges of 1 to about 3 points. British 5½s were firm and active.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES UNCHANGED TO 5 HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21.—An early advance of about 18 to 21 points in cotton today under realizing or Southern selling.

Further buying was reported on the proposed inflationary measures in Washington, but it was much less active than recently. After selling up to 7.68c on the early demand, July broke to 7.35c, with the mid-afternoon market showing net losses of 9 to 15 points.

The market was steady late in the day on mill price fixing against sale of goods.

Futures closing steady, unchanged to 5 higher. May, 7.33-35; July, 7.49-50; October, 7.72-73; December, 7.89-91; January, 7.96; March, 8.10. Spot quiet; middling, 7.50.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21.—After showing some hesitation at the start today sugar futures firmed up on renewed covering and general buying promoted by the advance of 5 points in the spot market.

July contracts after selling at 1.27c sold up to 1.35c, while December advanced from 1.37c to 1.44c, and into new high ground for the movement, with the general market at 2 p. m. holding around the best and from 7 to 8 points above the previous close.

Raw sugar was unchanged early today for spots.

Despite the heavy purchases of late yesterday, estimated at 121,000 bags of Philippines and 71,000 bags of Puerto Rican at 3.20c, refiners were still interested at this level. Holders, however, were again asking 3.25c and no sales were reported.

In futures opening prices were two points lower to one point higher. Selling was moderate and prices steadier on further buying by trade and commission houses. May contracts after selling at 1.25 advanced to 1.26, while December sold up from 1.37 to 1.40. The noon market was around the best and net unchanged to three points higher.

Refined was unchanged at 4:30 for fine granulated, with a little better withdrawal demand reported.

Dollar Strengthens at London.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 21—The dollar strengthened somewhat in dealings after the regular hours today, appreciating from an official close of $3.89½ to the pound to $3.85½.

Last night's close also was $3.85½, and there were indications that the dollar might be finding its present level at about that figure.

Interest in the exchange market centered in the French franc which, from a low point for the day of 89.55 francs to the pound, improved in late transactions to 89.25.

AMERICAN DOLLAR REBOUNDS SHARPLY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The American dollar rebounded rather sharply in the foreign exchange market today after having suffered some of its worst reverses in a year or more.

The recovery was generally attributed to short covering by European speculators and to the transferal of funds here for the purchase of commodities and securities.

The British pound sterling, after another overnight gain of more than 7 cents, dropped back from $3.90 to $3.74¾ for cables. At the latter rate sterling showed a loss of nearly 9 cents from last night's close. French francs yielded about ¼ of a cent at 4.20 cents and Dutch guilders were down more than ½-cent at 43.40 cents. German marks fell back 1 cent to 25 cents.

Time Money Hardens.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 21. — There was a further slight hardening in the time money rates today with all maturities quoted at 1½ per cent compared with 1@1½ per cent yesterday. A further lift in rates on bankers' acceptances was announced by one dealer. The new rates represented an advance of ⅛ of 1 per cent over the previous day. Call money on the stock exchange was unchanged at 1 per cent and in the outside call market the quotation held at ¾ of 1 per cent.

Is the motor of your car sluggish and lazy? Is it slow in responding to the accelerator? Does it knock on hills or heavy pulls? Are you getting fewer miles per gallon of gas?

If the answer to any of these questions is "Yes," it will pay you to try a tankful of Phillips 66 . . . the greater gasoline.

It is the "wake-up" fuel for sleepy engines . . packed with extra power and energy . . . modern . . . money-saving. The gas that has earned its sensational rise in sales, by delivering improved performance at lower cost to more than 7,000,000 car owners!

And here is a statement of fact that deserves capital letters: PHILLIPS 66 IS HIGHER TEST AND HIGHER ANTI-KNOCK WITHOUT HIGHER PRICE. It is THE sensational gasoline value in a year crowded with good values. It does not cost 3¢ extra per gallon. But it does deliver 100% on every promise we make for it . . . added pep and power . . . faster pick-up and get-away . . . greater smoothness and flexibility . . . more miles to every gallon!

It does all this, because right now Phillips 66 gravity ranges from 62° to 68°. We can give motorists this honest and amazing higher test, without a penny of higher price, because Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high gravity gasoline.

Until you try a tankful you will never know how outstanding, how different this motor fuel is! Make the test. See how Phillips 66 helps you balance your gasoline budget. How it brings out the best in your motor, old or new.

For record-breaking economy and improved operation, just Phill-up with Phillips at any Orange and Black 66 shield. And while you're there, why not drain and refill with Phillips 66 Motor Oil! A wonderful lubricant with marvelous lasting qualities. Refined and recommended by the friendly Phillips organization.

Phillips Pioneered CONTROLLED VOLATILITY

No matter where you live or where you drive . . . no matter how high or low the thermometer is, or how sudden its changes . . . Phillips 66 gasoline always delivers the peak of performance. We insure that by CONTROLLING the VOLATILITY. Every gallon you buy, in every locality, is scientifically pre-suited to the weather when you buy it! Another big plus-value given by Phillips 66 gasoline. That's why you notice the difference the very first time you Phill-up with Phillips.

Revolt Against Nanking Officials Thought to Be Imminent Under Direction of Men Who Lost Power When Jehol Was Taken.

SHANGHAI, April 21. — Establishment of an independent state in the coastal area of North China by the Japanese and Manchukuan forces that seized the territory was reported today.

The new domain is the triangular area between the Great Wall of China and the Lwan River with its base extending about 60 miles along the Yellow Sea and its apex at the point where the river and wall meet nearly 100 miles inland.

Japanese and Manchukuan officials are reported to have held a meeting yesterday at Peitaiho, the coast town near Chinwangtao, where a so-called Lwantung provisional government was organized.

American naval authorities here announced today that the United States destroyer Henderson canceled a scheduled call at Chinwangtao on May 15 as a result of the occupation of that city by the Japanese.

The destroyer, taking provisions for the United States Marine guard at Peiping, may call at Tangku, the coast town near Tientsin, about May 10 unless the Chinese-Japanese conflict has enveloped that town by then. In that event the ship will go to Shanghai. The destroyer is coming from the United States via Manila.

The head office of the Japanese legation in China, located here, said the Japanese Government had not advised the legation that it would pay for damage by bombing of American missions. The office said a statement to that effect, attributed to Japanese representatives in Peiping, could only be an expression of personal opinion.

Threat to Peiping.

The separatist action north of the Lwan River caused spread of rumors that Peiping and Tientsin, the two largest international centers of North China, may also be brought under the new government.

There were reports that Gen. Ho Ying-ching, Minister of War in the Chinese Nationalist Government, who went to Peiping to succeed Marshal Chang Hsiao-liang as ruler of North China, was preparing to depart. In the face of propaganda and intrigues to overthrow the Nanking Government's authority in North China, he was said to have despaired of his ability to handle the situation.

Japanese in Tientsin say a rebellion against the Nanking Government is imminent. Indications seem to point to rapid progress of the movement, which might end in Japanese troops being welcomed in Tientsin and Peiping. They are now halted, at least temporarily, along the Lwan River and the Great Wall, 65 miles northeast of Peiping and about 90 miles east of Tientsin.

Leaders in Revolt.

Northern Chinese politicians, who lost power when Marshal Chang resigned after blame was heaped on him for the loss of Jehol Province, are reported to be leaders in the movement.

There also is a large Chinese element that feels a new government would prevent extension of hostilities into the Tientsin-Peiping area and also that it would enable moderates in Tokio to control Japanese desiring drastic solution of the North China problems.

Chinese who participated in the Tientsin disorders of 1931 were reported participating in the establishment of the provisional government at Peitaiho.

With Manchukuans expected to take a leading role in the part, many Chinese believe it may mean the entire North China area is to be brought under domination of Manchukuo.

Officials of Manchukuo have pressed their Japanese advisers to continue the military advance to Peiping in order that Henry Pu-yi, administrator of Manchukuo, may regain his lost throne there. Pu-yi was the last Emperor of the Manchu dynasty at Peiping.

Roosevelt Forced to Declare Gold Embargo, Wanted to Save It As Trump Card in World Parleys

Acted Quickly to Stop Inflation Stampede in Congress, Not to Outmaneuver Foreign Diplomats, Says Official.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 21. — Although President Roosevelt's ban upon gold exports has been hailed in some quarters as a stroke of economic strategy in preparation for the approaching conference with British, French, Italian and German representatives, informed Washington opinion is that the President was forced by domestic conditions to play in advance what had been expected to be his trump card in the international negotiations.

The demand in Congress for inflation, which started soon after the 1929 stock market crash, has grown to overwhelming proportions since the bank holiday. The mere chronology of events leads to the conclusion that the President was forced to act in order to forestall Congress from passing piecemeal and dangerous inflationary measures. It appears to be his strategy to obtain broad, flexible powers which will enable him and his close advisers to cope with both domestic and international conditions. The objective, of course, is to raise commodity prices both here and abroad.

The direct cause of the President's gold export ban was the vote in the Senate Monday on the proposed amendment to the pending farm relief bill to remonetize silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold. The proposal was rejected by a vote of 43 to 33. A change of six votes would have given Senate approval.

Among those who voted against free silver were Borah (Rep.), Idaho, who announced that he opposed the measure only because he wanted to give the President a free hand in international negotiations, and Connally (Dem.) of Texas, who favors the devaluation of the gold dollar. Other Senators who voted against the Wheeler amendment favor some other form of currency or credit inflation. On Jan. 24, the Wheeler proposal obtained only 18 votes.

White House Conference.

Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma, one of the leading inflationists in the Senate, also had a currency amendment which he proposed to attach to the farm bill. Tuesday night Thomas and Senator Byrnes (Dem.) of South Carolina conferred with the President for an hour. Earlier in the day Thomas had announced that he was withdrawing his amendment, but reserved the right to resubmit it.

Wednesday morning at his press conference, President Roosevelt announced his gold embargo. Later in the day, it became known that Thomas would be in charge of the administration's bill to give the President broad, flexible power to deal with currency and credit.

Naturally the swift action took Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and former Premier Herriot of France by surprise. London and Paris newspapers almost immediately raised the cry that the President's action put a different aspect on the approaching economic conferences. There is no doubt that the embargo will strengthen the President's hand.

Forced to Act.

One of the ranking currency experts in the Government, whose duty it is to keep closely informed on domestic and international financial conditions, said today that he was convinced that the President had been forced to act before he could confer with the European envoys.

"President Roosevelt," said this official, "is a gentleman and plays the game according to the rules. It would have been most ungentlemanly for him to impose the embargo merely for a strategic advantage while his guests were still on the Atlantic. Had the international economic situation been the only consideration he could have waited to play his gold embargo trump card after the negotiations had reached an apparent impasse. There is no doubt that the United States was at a disadvantage in international economic discussion as long as we were theoretically on the gold standard. Now, as the result of the overwhelming domestic demand for inflation, the United States and the remainder of the world can discuss international economic affairs on the same plane."

This official refused to try to predict in detail what effect inflation would have on American financial and economic affairs. He pointed out that the United States has a favorable balance of trade with the remainder of the world and that it is a heavily creditor nation, both as to war debts and foreign investments. He said it was conceivable that the dollar would not sell at a large discount for a long period.

Advises Investing Caution.

Another view on inflation was made public last night by Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution, who advised American investors to be cautious.

"British experience following the abandonment of the gold standard in September, 1931," said Dr. Moulton, "reveals that expectations of rapidly advancing commodity and stock prices were not fulfilled, and indicates that restraint in expectations is the part of wisdom in the United States at this time.

"Great Britain departed from the gold standard on Sept. 21, 1931. Between that date and the end of 1932 the pound fell by approximately 30 per cent. During the first few months commodity prices rose about 6 per cent. But in March, 1932, prices began to decline, and they are now below the level existing in September, 1931. It is of particular interest to observe that although the exchange rate of the pound sterling declined between March and December, 1932, from $3.64 to $3.28, the wholesale price index declined in the same period from 105 to 101.

"The most that can be said in support of the theory that the departure from the gold standard caused a rise in British prices is that, since September, 1931, prices have declined less in Great Britain than in the United States. For this period the decline in the United States was about 15 per cent and in Great Britain about 1 per cent. Since March, 1932, however, the price movements in the two countries have been almost identical, notwithstanding the fall in the value of the pound.

"The export trade of Great Britain was not stimulated by abandonment of the gold standard in the way that had been anticipated. For the year 1931 exports and reexports aggregated 518,400,000 pounds sterling. In 1932 the total was only 467,000,000 pounds. The first two months of 1933 show a further decline."

"Of even greater interest is the movement of the prices of British stocks and bonds. Contrary to the prevalent expectations, bond prices rose substantially after September, 1931, whereas the price of common stocks declined."

Mussolini Dedicates Statues and Inaugurates Public Works.

ROME, April 21.—Premier Mussolini officiated at Rome's birthday celebration today. He rushed from one part of the 2686-year-old city to another, unveiling statues and inaugurating public works.

He dedicated the statues of five Emperors erected on Via del Impero, street of the empire. The public works inaugurated included new streets and Government buildings. Stores, schools and public offices were closed for the day.

ROOSEVELT RATES INFLATION BILL AS VITAL TO PROGRAM

Considers It Essential to Give Authority for Control Over Surplus Production.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Roosevelt regards the Thomas currency expansion bill as essential to his reconstruction program and is hopeful of prompt action by Congress.

While the increase in commodity prices resulting from the gold embargo accomplishes in part one of the purposes of the farm bill, the President regards this legislation as vital to give authority for control over surplus production.

This control is provided in the farm measure and it is the view of the President that unless production is regulated the benefits of the increased prices will be thwarted by new surpluses that will result in lowered prices.

Moreover he does not regard the present rise in commodity and stock prices as correcting what he believes to be a disparity between agricultural and industrial prices.

So far as the currency expansion legislation is concerned he regards it as giving him discretionary power which does not necessarily have to be used unless needed.

In the face of the Republican announcement of determined opposition to the inflation amendment and their intention to fight it to the last ditch, Democratic leaders abandoned hope of a farm bill ballot this week.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, warned that "the condition we face is serious beyond description," in urging enactment of the mortgage plan intended to cut interest to 4½ per cent and otherwise ease farm debt troubles.

Then to be settled will be the Republican substitute for the whole farm program, stripping away the powers sought for Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, while Senator Frazier (Rep.), North Dakota, will offer as a mortgage plan substitute a proposal to refinance agricultural debts at 1½ per cent interest through a currency and bond issue.

Apparently unsure of their strength, Democratic stalwarts delayed efforts to remove sugar cane and sugar beets from the list of basic commodities in the measure, which they want limited to wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, rice, tobacco and dairy products.

House leaders are understood to have informed Senate chieftains they will demand that sugar cane and beets come out when the bill goes to conference with spokesmen for the other branch of Congress.

This attitude was expected to persuade Senate representatives to let the two remain in the bill for the present. Senator Long (Dem.), Louisiana, planned to try to add flaxseed, oats and peanuts. Peanuts were taken out Wednesday after having been voted in the day before.

In taking up the mortgage sections, the Senate approved an amendment by King (Dem.), Utah, for a $5,000,000 advance from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the reclamation fund. It also adopted several clarifying amendments by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, one of them authorizing under certain conditions payment of loans by debtors with Land Bank bonds at par value.

The conditions were that the loans must have been made after the bill becomes law, and have been in force five years. Another amendment by Robinson, making the bond issue eligible for 15-day loans under the Federal Reserve banking system, was approved over objections from Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia.

Other amendments limited salaries to $8500 and provided authority for the Farm Loan Commissioner to set up agencies and personnel, and one provided for the Reconstruction Corporation to advance $25,000,000 to the Farm Loan Commissioner for loans to joint stock land banks.

JAPANESE DELEGATE TO U. S. PARLEY DISCUSSES MISSION

Says He Will Press for Effort to Solve Problems in "Chaotic" China.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 21.—Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, Japan's representative at President Roosevelt's economic discussions in Washington, said today that a vital portion of his mission would be to convince United States and Chinese leaders alike of the absolute necessity of an early joint effort by Japan and China to solve their mutual problems. Ishii sails for the United States May 4. He discussed his mission in an interview.

From the viewpoint of Japan the outstanding world problem, economically as well as politically, is the chaotic condition of China and the means of assisting China to emerge from it, he asserted. He declared it was necessary to arrange co-operation among Japan, Manchukuo and China to achieve that end

"While in Washington I shall strive to drive home this truth and especially to make the Chinese realize it," Ishii said. "If the present chaos and civil war continue, China will fall into a hopeless condition, thus confronting the world with a problem far more serious than the Manchurian question."

U. S. AND FRANCE WANT PARLEY TO STUDY BRITISH ARMS PLAN

Norman Davis and Deladier Have "Satisfactory" Talk on New Discussions.

PARIS, April 21.—Norman H. Davis, special United States Ambassador in Europe, and Premier Daladier agreed today to reopen the Geneva disarmament discussions on the basis of the British plan for disarmament. Davis said the talk was "very satisfactory."

Prime Minister MacDonald of England presented a detailed plan, setting forth definite limits for armies and navies of European countries, when the disarmament conference recently adjourned until late this month.

ASSISTANT STATE SECRETARY TO BE NEW ENVOY TO CUBA

Roosevelt Nominates Sumner Welles, Who Had High Office Under Wilson.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Roosevelt today named Sumner Welles, now Assistant Secretary of State, as Ambassador to Cuba.

Welles was in charge of Latin-American relations in the State Department under President Wilson and was just named Assistant Secretary of State by Mr. Roosevelt.

In sending Welles to Havana, the President shows the importance he attaches to the Embassy in the Island Republic. He has been closely watching the situation in Cuba and the selection of Welles came somewhat as a surprise.

BRECKINRIDGE LONG NAMED ENVOY TO ITALY

Appointment of Former St. Louisan as Ambassador Announced by Roosevelt.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Roosevelt yesterday named Breckinridge Long of Missouri to be United States Ambassador to Italy. Long, formerly a St. Louis attorney, was Assistant Secretary of State under President Woodrow Wilson, and was unsuccessful Democratic candidate for United States Senator from Missouri in 1920.

A native St. Louisan, Long was educated at Princeton, where Woodrow Wilson was one of his teachers. He later entered Washington University and began the practice of law in St. Louis in 1906. Six years later he married Miss Christine Graham.

In 1920 Long was defeated for United States Senator by the late Selden P. Spencer. Two years later he entered the Democratic lists again as an opponent of Senator Reed, unswerving opponent of the foreign policies of President Wilson. After a bitter political fight in which Long stood by the Wilson policies, including the League of Nations, Reed was nominated and later elected.

Long is the author of a book, "The Genesis of the Constitution." He, Mrs. Long and their daughter, Miss Christine Blair Long, lived in St. Louis at 5145 Lindell boulevard. The home was sold, along with its private art gallery, when the Longs moved to Washington.

Dr. William H. Holmes Dies.

DETROIT, April 21.—Dr. William H. Holmes, former director of the art gallery of Smithsonian Institute, Washington, died yesterday at the home of his son in suburban Royal Oak. He was 86 years old. Burial will be in Washington.

HOUSE TRANSFERS ELECTRIC TAX TO POWER COMPANIES

Amends Postage Revision Bill to Relieve Users of 3 Pct. Levy on Current Voted Year Ago.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 21. — The House of Representatives yesterday amended the law taxing electricity, by transferring the tax from consumers to the producing companies. Friends of the power interests, taken completely by surprise, waged a desperate battle to keep the tax as it is, but proponents of the amendment, led by Representatives Whittington of Mississippi and Cochran of Missouri, literally swept them off their feet.

When the revenue law was originally passed by the House, it may be recalled, the electricity tax was placed on the producing companies. Later, by what was often described as a trick, the bill was changed in conference to place the tax on the consumers. Senator Smoot of Utah and Representative Crisp of Georgia, who engineered the change, were beaten for re-election, the issue figuring in both their campaigns.

Yesterday's action by the House came on an amendment to the bill renewing the Federal gasoline tax and making changes in the postal laws. Under this bill the postage on local letters would be lowered to 2 cents, and the President would be empowered to reduce other 3-cent rates to 2 cents, and to increase the rates on second, third and fourth class mail. The gasoline tax is 1 cent a gallon, and is expected to yield $135,000,000 a year in revenue.

Fought by Committee.

When the bill came from the Ways and Means Committee it did not contain the provisoin transferring the electricity tax from consumers to producers, and members of the committee objected vigorously when it was offered. However, Whittington and Cochran succeeded in carrying the House with them

Conditions in Franklin County, Ill.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THINGS are happening in Franklin County, Ill., that would make Harlan County, Ky., and Mingo County, W. Va., take a back seat. Franklin County is filled with thugs, acting as Deputy Sheriffs, intimidating coal miners, their wives and children, trying to force the men back to work under the U. M. W. of A.

Progressive Miners of Illinois have been appealing to Gov. Horner to step in and remove the thugs, and restore to the miners their civil rights, but can get no action from him. If something is not done soon, there is going to be more bloodshed.

Another Virden riot will take place. The miners of Franklin County who have the nerve to stand up for their rights are told by these thugs to leave town and county at once, or be put on the spot. Words cannot describe the rottenness in Franklin County. All this is going on with the officials of the State knowing of it, also the State's Attorneys and Sheriffs of Franklin and Perry Counties.

The Post-Dispatch has done wonderful service for Illinois and especially St. Clair County by exposing corrupt officials. The Progressive Miners of Illinois need you in Franklin, Perry and Christian counties immediately. Put the truth to the public before it is too late. Do not wait until another riot takes place.

All that the miners of Ilinois ask is the right to belong to the union of their choosing, not the union of the coal companies or of John L. Lewis.

Against Mr. Kiel's Appointment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IS Henry Kiel the only man in St. Louis capable of performing the duties of receiver for the Public Service Co.? This is a man's-size job, that will require the full time of any man, while Kiel is already the head of a large private business, and in addition is now acting as receiver for two of our largest hotels.

His past record does not indicate that he knows anything about the operation of an electric railway, and his appointment, in addition to his other multifarious duties, would seem a tragic mistake.

J. J. PAUL.

Decline of Spain.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

APROPOS the letter signed "Mogon Dovid" (Hebrew for shield of David) of April 11, concerning the Jewish persecutions of the Hitler Government in Germany, allusion was made to the decline of the power and influence of Spain and Portugal following the expulsion of the Jews and Moors from those countries in the year 1492.

The Moors had been living in Spain for about 700 years, and had developed a very high state of civilization and culture. In fact, along with the Jews, they were a very large part of the brains of the country. They were the physicians, philosophers, musicians, astronomers, poets, writers, architects—in fact, the culture of the country.

Both the Moors and the Jews were monotheistic races, and each claimed descent from Abraham—the Moors, who were Mohammedans, through Ishmael, the son of Hagar, and the Jews through Isaac, the son of Sarah. When these two peoples were exiled, the decline of Spain quickly followed—and has never halted. From being the greatest and most powerful country of that age, she fell to a very mediocre position in the scale of nations. And she still holds that position among modern nations.

Too Much Government.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

EIGHTY-TWO years ago Henry David Thoreau said: "That government is best which govern least." How true does that motto hold today! With our Government in a complicated, snarled mess, with thousands of faithful "public servants" employed in multifarious useless bureaus that overlap and crowd one another, our great nation is bleeding from a thousand vital points.

Only a miracle can prevent a complete upheaval of government. Perhaps it would be best if everything not absolutely essential and necessary for sound, sane, sensible government were abolished, and we started over again from scratch.

THE WAR UPON LOW PRICES.

With abandonment of the gold standard, the United States has definitely undertaken a war upon low prices. Deflation, which had been running for three years and a half, has become intolerable. So the Government has moved to stop it, as governments all over the world have been compelled to do. The President is asking Congress for special powers to direct a "controlled inflation."

John Maynard Keynes, who distinguished himself by foreseeing what the consequences of the Versailles Treaty would be, has been saying for more than a year that the United States would go off the gold standard. He thought it would be better if we did, both for ourselves and the rest of the world. There was no difference at bottom between the post-war situation here and that in other countries. Like all the rest, we were caught in what Mr. Keynes calls that "state of financial tension" which affected every nation, a condition accelerated in our own case by what he calls "a frenzy of speculation." All nations were in debt, and they were all fast sinking under the burden of debt.

Mr. Keynes has said that the causes of this condition "are to be found in a catastrophic fall in the money value, a condition which feeds on itself. . . . The risk of carrying assets with borrowed money is so great that there is a competitive panic to get liquid. Since each individual who succeeds in getting more liquid forces down the price of assets in the course of getting more liquid, the result is that the margins of other individuals are impaired and their courage undermined. So the process continues."

The United States could not believe that there was not a better way out than the other countries have employed. That is, France had inflated her currency 80 per cent and paid her domestic debts. Says Gilbert Seldes in "The Years of the Locust": "France enjoyed all the benefits of both inflation and deflation. She rose from the process as the financial giant of Europe, a rival of America." Italy inflated 66 2-3 per cent, Austria 44 per cent, Belgium 40 per cent. In England the inflation has been about 30 per cent.

A "Committee for the Nation" headed by Frank A. Vanderlip, and including in its membership 18 industrialists, recommended last month that gold be embargoed and specie payments suspended. The report said:

> If the standard of value is to be devalued, that can be done much better through a compensated dollar, scientifically calculated to bring us back to a general price level of, say, 1926, than to attempt arbitrarily to fix merely some other number of grains than the present content of the dollar.

The United States stood pat for a long time. An impression that inflation is, as it is sometimes called, "the debtors' revenge," made adamant the American resistance to relief in this conventional fashion. We tried to bolster up credit. Clinging doggedly to the gold standard, we set up the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and began to ladle out the people's money to beleaguered banks and railroads. We subsequently extended this relief to the unemployed, as we are now extending it to farm and home mortgages. We have seemingly felt that there is a bottom to deflation. The Hoover administration was continually buoyed up by the belief that when deflation hit this bottom we would rebound from it. It did not realize that deflation has no bottom. Meanwhile, the situation became steadily worse. Unemployment reached a total in excess of 15,000,000. The deficit of the Federal Treasury for the end of the fiscal year approximates two billion dollars. Wage cutting, economy, work sharing, moratoria, tax reductions, Federal relief—all failed in the absence of the golden specific.

The Roosevelt administration had not been in power more than a month before it realized the necessity of doing what other countries have done. It was no longer practicable to sustain the impossible. We do not like inflation, but we like even less the steady downward progress of deflation. There is nothing to fear from a managed inflation upon which the President and the Secretary of the Treasury have a firm control. The French have proved this. Upon the contrary, it is the only way in which prices can be brought back to a level at which business may resume and distress can cease. We must recall that it affects all commodities. City or country, the fortunes of all rise by manipulation of the value of money. The experience of Europe has been that if allowed to go too far, as it did in Germany, it destroys the middle classes. That is, wages and salaries do not keep pace with an uncontrolled inflation.

Mr. Keynes thinks the deflationary pressure exerted upon the rest of the world by the unbalanced creditor position of France and the United States may cause them to lose their creditor position. He adds: "When these things are clearly the case, we shall enter the cheap money stage. This is the point at which, on the precedent of other slumps, we may hope for the beginning of recovery." He thinks we must first relieve the financial tension and then "start the ball rolling by deliberately organizing expenditure." All other remedies are, in his judgment, spurious.

The United States is therefore moving in the way prescribed by the most far-seeing of all the international economists. It is both relieving the tension and starting the ball rolling. The confidence of the people must rest with the Government. It is, we believe, well and soundly advised. The time has passed when we can afford to make a fetish of anything, even the gold standard.

It is a condition that confronts us. We must deal with this condition, and there is a way to do it. It is far from being either untried or unsafe.

THE BOY ON THE BURNING DECK.

Poor little Casabianca got an awful razzing from a professor of philosophy the other night. This professor, one of those smart, dapper worldlings from the College of the City of New York, told some people in Baltimore that the boy who stood on the burning deck was a moron, without the intelligence to adapt himself to a changing situation, who stupidly obeyed his father's instruction, when, if he had had ordinary gumption, he would have quit the boat, plunged gracefully into the raging sea and swum safely to shore.

Doubtless he would have done just that, had he been the kind of tyke that grows—let us say—into a professor of New York philosophy. And he may have been tempted to do it. Linking arms with Dr. Freud, and stepping gingerly over the lee scuppers of that sizzling schooner, let us swiftly, of course, explore Casabianca's mind on the frying occasion. "If I stick it out," he is mumbling to himself, "it is all over with me, but I am pretty sure that Felicia Hemans will hear about it and will proceed to tell the world." The moment of weakness passed, the great decision was made, the reasoning, as it turned out, was correct, and here he is, dying splendidly in all the textbooks of long ago and living forever in the vivid strokes of the fair Felicia.

That youthful hero and that heroic poet are bracketed unforgettably in the memory of an aging generation. Casabianca was a grand kid and Felicia Hemans a grand girl, and we snap a disdainful finger under the nose of that college professor and say, "Pouf!" and leave him flat.

A VALUABLE PRECEDENT.

Mayor Dickmann's generally high level of appointments was maintained in the selection of Dr. Ralph L. Thompson as Hospital Commissioner and Dr. Joseph F. Bredeck as Health Commissioner. Dr. Thompson, emeritus professor of pathology at St. Louis University, has long enjoyed high reputation as a medical scientist and as an administrator. Dr. Bredeck, former City Tuberculosis Controller, has had a rich experience in public health work.

More significant than the appointments themselves is the method employed by the new Mayor. Instead of filling these important posts from political or personal considerations, he accepted the recommendations of a committee of representative medical men, formed by Dr. R. Emmett Kane. The committee included Dr. Malvern B. Clopton, Dr. W. T. Coughlin, Dr. W. McKim Marriott, Dr. Edward P. Buddy and other leading physicians and surgeons.

Recently, in discussing the proposal to place control of the St. Louis County Hospital in the hands of a bipartisan board, we suggested the alternative that such a board should be chosen from nominations made by the county medical society. At present, the hospital is controlled by the County Court, which displayed its unfitness some time ago by summarily removing the superintendent and other workers and filling their places with political appointees. The county might well take a leaf from Mr. Dickmann's policy toward medical appointments.

That policy sets a valuable precedent. The professional committee was obviously better equipped to make selections for professional posts than Mr. Dickmann, and his willingness to accept its nominees is highly commendable. It is by taking counsel with experts in various fields that Mr. Roosevelt has already compiled so brilliant a record. Mr. Dickmann, likewise, can add luster to his administration by continuing to seek expert advice, which is always at his beck and call. No public official can know everything, and the best one is he who solicits and follows the best advice.

FOOTNOTE ON SPAIN'S HISTORY.

The comment of our letter column contributor today on Spain's decline is a reminder of how time's whirligig has completed another circle. Many of the Jews exiled from Spain in 1492 found shelter in Germany, where they were welcomed. And now that Germany has turned against them, Prof. Einstein, one of their most distinguished representatives, has been invited to Spain and has accepted a position as lecturer there. In addition, Spain has offered him citizenship, a privilege denied to Jews from 1492 until two years ago, when the Republic came into power. The Government should go even further, however, says the newspaper El Sol, a quasi-official publication; it should officially revoke the expulsion order of 1492, which is called "one of history's great injustices." How long will it be before another cycle of history is completed and Germany, too, confesses its error?

MISSOURI AND THE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Another step in the tortuous legal fight between the State and the stock fire insurance companies has been taken in the assumption by the Supreme Court of jurisdiction of the suit. The suit, filed by the Attorney-General, seeks to prevent 74 of the companies in Missouri from collecting a 16 2-3 per cent increase in rates, pending determination of their reasonableness.

It will be recalled the companies fought the 10 per cent reduction order of former Superintendent Hyde, made in 1922, through all the courts. They lost. Meanwhile, however, they had been collecting the old premium, thus accumulating many millions of dollars which were not theirs. Since the State has been denied access to the figures, it is not known how much of the money has been refunded to the policyholders. However, because of the length of time elapsed, and the difficulties of refunding, it is probable that in the end the insurance companies will have in their coffers large sums to which they have no title.

Evidently, the Supreme Court does not intend there shall be a repetition of that in the present litigation. What is happening, of course, is that the companies are challenging the authority of the State to exercise authority over them. Ex-Gov. Caulfield, in his farewell message, described the issue plainly and forcefully. He said: "The situation calls for serious consideration as to whether the companies should be permitted to continue to have the benefits of joint rate-making (which the law permits in return for regulation) while steadfastly refusing to submit to regulation."

We trust Attorney-General McKittrick will prosecute his case with all possible vigor. It is an excellent cause, one which in the last analysis resolves itself into the question: Which is the bigger, the State of Missouri or the insurance companies?

UNNECESSARY DELAY.

Turning down a bill for a convention to pass on the prohibition repeal amendment this summer, the Illinois Senate has approved a plan under which the State will not elect delegates until April, 1934. So doing, that body not only goes directly counter to the wishes of Gov. Horner, who urges "immediate ratification," but also ignores the repeatedly expressed will of the people of the State. The original plan was to choose delegates June 5, the date of the judicial election, at no extra expense. Such a proposal could hardly be improved upon. It provides prompt and economical ratification. There is no question about the sentiment of the people of Illinois on prohibition. They have registered it time and again—in referendum votes and by electing candidates pledged to work for repeal. Illinois should be among the first states to ratify. There is no justification whatever for a year's delay. The Senate should uphold Gov. Horner's hands in his efforts to keep faith with the voters. Reconsideration is in order.

A Washington correspondent says that former Senator Reed of Missouri, since his retirement from the Senate, has become a millionaire. That's a lot of money in these times even to be suspected of making.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

Off the Gold Standard

ALTHOUGH it is being suggested in many quarters that the abandonment of the gold standard is a tactful maneuver in the American negotiations with Great Britain, this interpretation is fundamentally misleading. The action is the logical and inevitable consequence of the deflationary crisis which closed the banks. It is true that the United States could have "supported" the dollar for a while, since it possesses a considerable amount of "free gold." But it is equally true that when Great Britain abandoned the gold standard, the discount rate of the Bank of England was only 4½ per cent.

Both countries could undoubtedly have stayed on the gold standard a little longer than they actually did, had they thought it wise to do so and if their peoples had been willing to endure the misery of the additional deflation required. The Germans have been the true martyrs to the gold standard. When their crisis broke in July, 1931, they raised the bank rate to 15 per cent and clamped down on their people the most rigorous deflationary measures to which a modern nation has been subjected. The British were intelligent enough not to do that and, fortunately, we have also been intelligent enough not to do it.

To say that the United States is lowering the gold value of the dollar in order to get the better of the British is to misunderstand the whole matter. The United States is not interested in the gold value of the pound sterling. It is interested in the value of the American dollar in terms of commodities. When the pound sterling has reached a point in terms of the British price level which seems satisfactory to the British in view of their manufacturing costs, their debts and other fixed charges, and when the dollar has reached a point satisfactory to us in view of our wage levels, debt levels and fixed charges, then the new parity will have been found, and, with such limits as may be necessary to keep the domestic purchasing power of the currencies steady, international stabilization by means of gold and other devices will be feasible and desirable.

Our interest is not to take advantage of the British or in any important sense to offset their temporary advantage over us. Our interest is to end the American disequilibrium by raising prices to a level where our people are re-employed and our credit structure is safe.

Bitter experience has taught us, as it taught the British, that the crisis is insoluble on the post-war gold standard. What has it meant to be on the gold standard? Under post-war conditions it has meant that the supply of means of payment, that is, of currency and credit, had to be managed so that a dollar, or a franc, or a pound sterling would always have the same purchasing power as a certain number of grains of gold.

The idea that a modern gold standard currency is not a "managed currency" is a fallacy. It is managed every day by the central bank through the discount rate, through purchases and sales of securities and of gold. But on the gold standard, the paramount duty of the managers of the currency is to keep the currency exactly as valuable as gold. Since gold is a commodity which has to be mined and carried about and is bought and sold, being on the gold standard means that the prices of all commodities and all services are made to vary with the value of gold.

Now gold is a commodity which has proved to be highly erratic in its value. In the past 13 years, its value has varied, as compared with its average value between 1880 and 1914, by more than 100 per cent, so that any pretense that being on the gold standard provides an "objective" or a "stable" measure of values must be abandoned. Though we have resolutely maintained a currency under which $20.67 will buy an ounce of gold, this currency has gone through fantastic fluctuations, measured by what it will buy in terms of goods. We have, in other words, managed our currency to maintain the price of gold, and the result has been a currency under which the price of everything else has been so variable as to upset the calculations of every man who uses money.

By going off the gold standard, we do not pass from an unmanaged to a managed currency. We pass from a currency managed to preserve a fixed price for gold to one managed to produce and maintain a higher stable average of all prices.

That it requires wisdom and courage and technical competence to perform this task is plain. But there is no reason to think that it is impossibly difficult. The attempt to manage the post-war gold standard has proved to be impossibly difficult and is a complete failure. To manage a currency with a view to the price level rather than to the world price of gold has at least this advantage: That if it succeeds, we shall have made the one indispensable reform by which a relatively free economic system can be maintained. A social system based on individual judgments of the future, on contracts which have to be fulfilled in the future, or the interdependence of myriad separate transactions, is unworkable without a reasonably stable medium of payment. If we cannot achieve that, we shall be driven inexorably to an increasing regimentation of our life under centralized dictation.

Some persons have expressed doubt as to whether the administration can actually raise the American price level and then maintain it. As to raising the price level, there can really be no doubt at all, if the purpose is resolutely carried out. The French price level today is four times the pre-war level. The Italian is nearly three times the pre-war level. The British is just about at the pre-war level. Ours has recently been about 13 per cent below the pre-war level. How do the French, Italians and British manage to have this position? The answer is that they have at certain critical times managed their currencies with a view to their price levels rather than to the value of gold.

What they have done, or are doing, we can do. The fact that we are a creditor nation does not affect the matter. France is a creditor nation. As a matter of fact, precisely because we are a creditor nation with a large gold supply, we are in a peculiarly favorable position to produce and then control a rise in prices. Our action, because of our economic weight in the world, is almost certain to be followed by other countries. For it is difficult to see how Great Britain and France can fail to move with us to expand credit and put it to use with a view to raising their own price levels. If the policies of the three countries are concerted, as they should be, to obtain the best and most lasting results, there is every reason to feel confident that world prices will rise.

That is on the side of our capacity to produce a rise in prices. As for our power to control it, the very fact that we have a creditor position and a great stock of gold gives us necessary power to stop inflation when a reasonable equilibrium is reached. We undertake our task better equipped to succeed than any nation has ever been.

Rush Repeal

From the Pittsburgh Press.

RATIFICATION of the prohibition repeal amendment this month by Michigan and Wisconsin conventions, following the overwhelming election of repeal delegates in those states, has encouraged the wet forces. But they should not mistake victory in two easy salients for eventual success. There is much yet to be done before the fight is won.

In fact, there is a disturbing slowing down in the preparations for repeal. Only 24 states have set up machinery for the election of delegates to conventions. In nine additional states, only one house of the Legislature has acted. The remaining 15 states have done nothing.

Time is an important element here. For one reason, the state Legislatures are adjourning; some already have done so. In such states, action may be postponed for a year or two years. Obviously, it is desirable to act now, while the public is ready.

This does not mean that those who press for speed will be forcing action without thought. The general voting public already has made up its mind. After years of observation of the prohibition experiment, the voters expressed themselves in November. That was a popular referendum in favor of repeal.

If democratic government is to operate efficiently, that popular mandate of last November should be translated into legal repeal through ratification by the necessary three-fourths of the states without long months and years intervening. The usual custom of long-drawn-out ratification of constitutional amendments offers no precedent in this case precisely because of the unusual November mandate.

An added reason for prompt calling of state conventions is that the entire liquor control situation is becoming increasingly chaotic pending ratification. Legally the old system still exists; actually the temper of the people, anticipating repeal, has scrapped prohibition.

So the country hangs between the wreck of the old and the promise of the new. It is essential that the new system be legalized quickly.

KEEPING PROFITS AT HOME.

From the Malden (Mo.) Merit.

WHILE many towns are haggling and fighting with utility companies for reduced rates on electric current, the Mayor and City Council of Malden have expressed a desire to place in effect soon a reduced schedule on light rates in this city. Any profit made on the muny light plant is passed on to the citizens of the community, while communities being served by utility companies have to sit back and watch the profits from the electricity they use go off to some other community, further to enrich the owners of the private utility companies.

FAY AND STANWYCK IN ENJOYABLE REVUE

Excellent Cast, Pretty Girls and Catchy Music Make "Tattle Tales" Snappy Show.

TATTLE TALES, a revue in two acts and twenty-six scenes; presented at the American Theater with Barbara Stanwyck and Frank Fay as the stars and with Mona Ray, William Hargrave, Betty Doree, The Theodores, Charles Callahan, Don Cumming, Dorothy Douglas, James Mack, Nick Copeland and Charlotte Neste.

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

FRANK FAY, who ruined several thousand good saxophone players—if any—when they threw aside their instruments and attempted to follow in his footsteps as a Master of Ceremonies, and Barbara Stanwyck, star of the cinemas—and, incidentally, Mrs. Fay—came to the American Theater last night to begin a four nights engagement at the head of their own musical revue, "Tattle Tales." Accompanied by a chorus of Hollywood beauties, a cast of pleasing vaudeville entertainers and a stage full of pretty scenery, the show proved to be smart and fine entertainment. There is some attractive music, too, one number in particular, sung by Mr. Fay and Betty Doree, or rather, sung by Mr. Fay to Miss Doree, and called "I'll Take an Option on You," sent the audience home whistling.

Fay, through his long stay here some years ago as Master of Ceremonies at the Missouri Theater, and Miss Stanwyck, who established herself firmly in the theatrical world as the star of the drama "Burlesque" before she turned to the movies, are favorites with St. Louis audiences and in what was almost a homecoming event for them last night both put their best efforts forward and delighted their admirers.

"Tattle Tales" begins in an unconventional manner with Fay as a most unconventional King Louis XIV, and during the two and a half hours of its musi-comedy way it seldom gets upon any other plane. Miss Stanwyck herself sounds the only serious note when, in a novel manner, she re-acts a scene from two of the motion pictures which made her famous. The high spot in this part of the show is the pulpit scene from her "Miracle Woman" film. Miss Stanwyck also takes part in several other bits with her husband as the foil for his flow of ready wit. At these times she was only called upon to look very charming and delightful, a task which required no acting on her part.

Prominent among the other performers is Mona Ray, probably the tiniest singer and dancer in captivity; the Theodores, excellent ballroom dancers; Dom Cumming, who does stunts with a rope; William Hargrave, a singer; Betty Doree, Charlotte Neste and Nick Copeland, James Mack and Johnny Haley, "stooge" comedians.

But the show is almost all Fay. His own acts and his impromptu introductions of the others are in his best vein, and last night he kept the audience in convulsions of laughter a large part of the time. The "black out" sketches, in which he takes part, are sophisticated and funny, and he keeps the performance moving at a fast rate. A great deal of the music was written by Edward Ward, a St. Louisan, who conducts the orchestra.

"Tattle Tales," which was first produced by Fay in Los Angeles and then played its way across the Western part of the country, is headed for Chicago for a summer's run during the World's Fair period. Miss Stanwyck, in the meantime, is taking time out from her picture work. It is to continue at the American tonight, tomorrow night and Sunday evening, with the only matinee performance on Saturday.

FOR MAKING DIVORCE JUDGE A CONCILIATOR

Judge John W. Calhoun Urges Extension of Scope of Domestic Relations Courts.

The extension of the scope of the Courts of Domestic Relations so as to give them administrative and conciliatory powers in divorce cases was advocated last night by Circuit Judge John W. Calhoun in a speech before the Missouri Society for Mental Hygiene at its annual meeting at Hotel Kings-Way.

Speaking with three others in a symposium on the question, "Is the Modern Family Breaking Up?" Judge Calhoun said that "we have now very inadequate machinery to deal with the problem of divorce." The good which the juvenile courts had accomplished made him believe, he said, that such a court with broader powers "would be the best way to deal with the problem."

"I don't believe that the problem can be solved by a regression to the golden past," he said. "We must treat it in a scientific way. Great progress could be made if the courts could function as a conciliatory and administrative body and not only as a judicial bar, if we could allow it to adjust the differences between the family.

How Plan Would Work.

"If you are a party to a business contract or heir under a will, you can go to court and get the contract construed ahead of time, before the breach occurs. We should be able to use the law to do the same thing for the marriage contract.

"How much better it would be if, when a dispute came up, one party could go to the judge, and the judge, by some summary process, bring the other party into court and then try to iron the difficulty out. I do not know whether we have such a court anywhere in the country. It is, however, something to look forward to.

"The basic cause of divorce comes from economic instability. If we had trained social workers attached to such a court they could go out and help the young wife, who knows nothing about housekeeping to buy economically and also give her other advice."

Judge Calhoun said that the figures kept by the Circuit Court show increase in divorce and decrease in marriage since 1926. "The attitude of those who seek a divorce is distressing," he said. "It is no longer a disgrace, it is something to boast about.

Different Viewpoint in Law.

"With the increase in divorce has come a different viewpoint in the law. The lawyers no longer want a strict interpretation of the law and they don't like a judge who insists on proof. Their attitude is that they have tried but failed to patch up the differences between the parties and therefore a divorce is necessary. One of the saddest things is for a woman to come back to a judge, who has granted her a divorce, when the alimony is no longer coming in. 'My lawyer told me I didn't have to put up with that man,' she says. 'But now I'm worse off.'"

Dr. L. L. Bernard, assistant professor of psychology at Washington University, outlined factors of the machine age which he said were leading to disintegration of the family. He said the machine age does its harm in that it "sends the family out of the home."

Peter Kasius, general manager of the Provident Association, said his first impulse was to answer the question of whether the family was breaking up with a categorical "no." All of the disintegrating forces," he said, "are subject to social control. What we need is a freer interplay between the family and the agencies in the community which take the family out of the home.

"Parents Still Responsible."

"We have got to recognize that fundamental changes have taken place, that many former family functions have been taken over by other organizations. Parents must get out in the world and find out what is going on and under whose care their children are. The responsibility is still with the parents."

Dr. James F. McFadden, psychiatrist, outlined several cases where family instability had caused a tragic ending for both children and parents later on.

Dr. R. C. Fagley, superintendent of the City Sanitarium, was re-elected president of the association. Other officers are Dr. Paul J. Zentay and Miss Janet Beckmann, both of St. Louis, and Fred Naeter of Cape Girardeau, vice-presidents; and A. W. Jones, St. Louis, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MISS ELIZABETH ALLEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard B. Allen, Maryland avenue, was married at noon today to J. P. Erwin Niedringhaus of Milwaukee, Wis., son of Mrs. George W. Niedringhaus, 10 Westmoreland place. The engagement was announced several months ago, and a large wedding was originally planned. A change in arrangements was made when Mr. Niedringhaus arrived a few days ago to visit his mother.

The ceremony took place quietly in the Bofinger Memorial Chapel of Christ Church Cathedral in the presence of the two families and close friends who were invited informally by telephone. The altar was simply decorated with Easter lilies in vases. Dean Sidney Sweet officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore her traveling costume, an ensemble of navy blue wool combining a gown and coat to match, with harmonizing blue accessories and a small blue hat. She wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias. George W. Niedringhaus Jr., twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man and the only attendant.

Following the ceremony breakfast was served for the wedding party and about 25 additional members of the families at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen. The wedding cake was placed on the dining room table which was decorated with flowers and candles. The guests were seated in groups of four at small tables. The bride's sister, Mrs. Arthur Lambert Hobson Jr., of Beverly, Mass., formerly Miss Geraldine Allen, arrived yesterday to attend the marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Niedringhaus will depart immediately for Chicago, and will live in Milwaukee, where they have taken an apartment. The bride is a graduate of Mary Institute and the French School in New York. She made her debut in St. Louis a few years ago, and is a member of the Junior League.

She is also a sister of Mrs. Pierre Poisel Papin, and is a granddaughter of Mrs. George L. Allen, 26 Westmoreland place. Her uncles and aunts include George L., Samuel H. and Wayman McCreery Allen, Miss Mary Allen, Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer and Mrs. Robert Blackwell Whittemore, all of St. Louis; Sidney T. Allen of Paris and Mrs. Tyson Dines of Denver.

Mr. Niedringhaus was educated at the St. Louis Country Day School and Princeton University. He is a member of the St. Louis Country and Stack Clubs. His other brothers are George Hayward and Marion W. Niedringhaus of St. Louis, and William Francis Niedringhaus of Chicago.

Of interest in St. Louis is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker Wear of Stonymeadows, Penllyn, a suburb of Philadelphia, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Janet Holliday Wear and William Farnam Sanford, New York, son of Dr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Sanford, New Haven, Conn.

Miss Wear is a granddaughter of Mrs. James H. Wear of the Chesterfield apartments, a member of an old and prominent St. Louis family. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wear, 40 Westmoreland place. Miss Wear attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn., and is a member of the Junior League. She made her debut in Philadelphia in the season 1929-30. She is a sister of William Potter Wear, who married Miss Doris L. Stewart, daughter of W. Plunket Stewart of Unionville, Pa. Mr. Sanford attended St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., and is a graduate of Yale, class of 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Knight, 6377 Pershing avenue, will give a dinner party tomorrow night in honor of Mrs. Leonard Tilley, St. John, N. B., who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer, 7330 Maryland avenue. Yesterday Mrs. William P. Burnet, Clevens avenue, was hostess at a luncheon for the visitor, and tonight Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Pangman, 4653 Pershing avenue will have a dinner. A party of friends will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. A. Vesper of the Park Plaza at a picnic at their country place, Fredmar Farms, Sunday. Monday Mrs. Kent Koerner will entertain at a luncheon. Mrs. Tilley will depart next week for her home.

Miss Adelaide Moloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Forshaw, 1234 Bellevue avenue, has chosen Saturday, May 6 as the date of her marriage to Roland H. Stocke of Jacksonville, Fla., son of Mr. and Mrs. August E. Stocke of Carmi, Ill. There will be a candlelight service at the Forshaw home, the Rev. Joseph A. McMahon of St. Luke's Church officiating. The guests will be limited to the members of the immediate families and a few close friends.

Miss Julia Moloney will be her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Natalie Forshaw will be bridesmaid. Dr. A. Edwin Stocke, brother of the bridegroom, will be best man and Dean F. Sauer of Pittsburgh, groomsman.

Several pre-wedding parties have been given in honor of the prospective bride. Miss Loris Jones, 630 West Lockwood avenue, gave a luncheon Thursday, and tomorrow Miss Ruth Pape, Ballas and Clayton roads, will give a similar party. Miss Betty McMahon, 4 North Kingshighway, and other friends will give parties.

THE annual Mary Institute May day fete will be held on the lawn of Chancellor and Mrs. George R. Throop's home, 6510 Ellenwood avenue, at 4:30 o'clock the afternoon of Wednesday, May 17. In case of inclement weather, the event will be postponed to the next clear day.

As usual the features of the entertainment will be the May pole dance by the graduating class, followed by the crowning of the May queen to succeed Miss Betty Flournoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Flournoy, who was chosen from last year's class. The sophomores, "sister" class to the seniors, will carry the daisy chain.

At a class meeting held a day or two ago, the seniors chose six maids of honor, and from this list the queen will be selected, her identity to remain secret until the coronation.

The maids of honor will be Miss Mary Ellen Chivvis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Chivvis, 1437 McCausland avenue; Miss Juliabelle Forgey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tebbs P. Forgey, 7112 Wydown boulevard; Miss Mary Marshall Metcalfe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David D. Metcalfe, 5433 Vernon avenue; Miss Betty Noland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Noland, 21 Washington terrace; Miss Marilyn Tankersley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Tankersley, 636 Sherwood drive, and Miss Jane Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Wells, 53 Kingsbury place.

The annual luncheon, given by members of the domestic science division of the senior class for their parents, will be held at 1 o'clock Saturday, April 29, in the dining room of the school. The awards in the annual bread baking contest recently conducted by that division, will be awarded by Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd and Mrs. Henry Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Russe, 4380 McPherson avenue, will have as her guest for the week-end Mrs. Richard Hayes Hawkins, Pittsburgh and Rye Beach, N. H. Mrs. Hawkins will arrive here tomorrow morning from Fort Sam Houston, Tex., where she attended the marriage of her son, Klemm Boyd, and will be entertained informally during her short visit. She formerly lived in St. Louis.

8000 SCOUTS TO TAKE PART IN CIRCUS AT ARENA TONIGHT

Deputy Chief in City Says Shows Are Best Organized of Any in Country.

The eleventh annual Boy Scout Circus, with most of the 8000 scouts of the city participating in a series of pageants and demonstrations of boy activity, will be held tonight and tomorrow night at the Arena, starting each night at 7:30 o'clock.

Dr. George J. Fisher, deputy chief scout executive of the national scout organization, arrived yesterday to be the guest of honor and conduct the investiture ceremony of new scouts tonight, when more than 1500 will be enrolled as tenderfoot scouts.

"St. Louis is the forerunner in the field of Boy Scout shows," Dr. Fisher said. "I would say that they are the best organized of any in the country." He will watch the circus with the idea of incorporating some of the events in the Kansas City circus, to be given there on June 2 and 3 at the meeting of the national council.

The circus, which begins with a grand entry of all scouts and closes with a large "Winning of the West" pageant, lasts for about three hours. Admission is 25 cents, reserved seats, 50 cents.

Lawyers' Day at Washington U.

The annual Washington University lawyers' day celebration for the senior students in the law school is in progress on the campus today. The celebration will be concluded with a dinner tonight in the Woman's Building followed by a dance at 9 o'clock in the Mart Building.

'TIME' BARRED FROM MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, April 21.—The magazine Time was barred from the Mexican mails yesterday by Postmaster-General Arturo Elias, who said the magazine had carried "defamatory articles about Mexico and Mexicans" and had attacked former President Calles and President Rodriguez.

Any copies of the magazine found in Mexico will be confiscated, the Postmaster-General said.

NO TRACE OF PUBLISHER

Missing for Five Days With Pilot of Plane.

By the Associated Press.

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 21.—Despite an intensive search by air and on the ground, no trace has been found of Carmel Giragi, Winslow publisher, and Jack Irish, pilot, missing since they left Winslow by airplane for this city five days ago.

Thirteen planes are conducting the search and are being aided by national guardsmen on the ground. The missing plane was sought in the Pine-Payson district, where a low-flying plane was reported having been seen a few hours after Giragi and Irish took off from Winslow.

CHICAGO MAYORALTY SUIT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 21.—The Illinois Supreme Court today refused to hear a mandamus action that would have questioned the legality of the election of Edward J. Kelly as Mayor of Chicago under an emergency law.

HOUSE TRANSFERS ELECTRIC TAX TO POWER COMPANIES

after a vigorous rough-and-tumble scrap on the floor.

"Here is an opportunity to correct a serious injustice," Cochran told the House. "The conferees who changed the last revenue bill so as to place this tax on the consumers of electricity, violated every rule of the House. They deliberately wrote the change into the bill after the House had voted to place the tax on the producing companies. Here is the opportunity to put it back where it belongs."

Chairman Doughton of the Ways and Means Committee protested. The last Senate, he said, had insisted upon placing the tax on consumers, and to change it now might result in the Senate's killing the whole bill, including the gasoline tax. He suggested that the electricity tax be taken up later in a separate bill or in a general revenue bill.

"Never mind about later," Cochran retorted. "If it is the right thing to do, now is the time to do it. What the last Senate did is of no concern to us. We have a new Senate now, and I am confident that it will do the right thing about this measure. At any rate, our job is to right the wrong which was done at the last session, and pass the issue on to the Senate."

Doughton and Representative Ragon (Dem.), Arkansas, objected to the amendment because it would tax municipally-owned power plants on the same basis as privately-owned companies. They argued that the measure might be declared unconstitutional, on the ground that the Federal Government cannot tax a municipality. To this Cochran and Whittington replied that if such a change were necessary, it could be made in the Senate or in conference.

"Everyone realizes the significance of this amendment," Whittington declared. "When the last House levied certain excise taxes on manufacturer, and those of electrical energy were included. The House passed the bill in that form. It was charged in conference—by methods which some of us have not forgotten—and this particular tax was transferred from manufacturers to consumers. It is time for us to do the right thing in this matter."

For months it has been an open secret that agents of the power interests have been hovering around the House and Senate, watching for the first indication of a movement to transfer the tax. Yesterday's action caught them off their guard, but there is no doubt that every possible effort will be made to defeat the amendment in the Senate. The tax amounts to three per cent of the monthly bills.

Going Down—Our Dollar
Going Up—Our Prices
Hitler's Birthday
The Dictator Crop

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1933.)

ANOTHER "bull market" in Wall street. Stocks that climbed high on Wednesday, when Uncle Sam and his family slid off the gold basis, climbed still higher yesterday.

And again, as stock prices went up, the price of our dollar went down in foreign countries.

That need not worry us. What our dollar can buy here, not what foreigners think of it, is important to Americans.

If our money gets nearer to the value of other nation's money, that will help us to sell goods abroad. Our dollar, in the language of the day, has been too "high hat" for good business.

Some genius calculated, after the stock exchange closed yesterday, that the dollar is now worth 84 cents. In any case the dollar has been worth a great deal more than one hundred cents for a long time.

Many foreigners say our departure from the gold standard will hold back "world recovery."

It has not held back recovery of stock prices, or farm and other products. Wheat, cotton, hay, silver, everything is going up. Americans can stand the dollar dropping in value, if everything goes up in price. A majority of us haven't many dollars anyhow.

On Wednesday, brokers sold 5,000,000 shares of stock. Yesterday they sold 6,600,000 shares. Old times come back again. The wise will say what the Frenchman said, as he passed the sixth floor, having fallen from the tenth story: "C'est tres bien, pourvu que cela dure." "It is fine, if it only lasts."

Adolph Hitler, Germany's new Chancellor, celebrated his forty-fourth birthday yesterday, and a large part of Germany celebrated with him. The national celebration, that went beyond any honor ever paid to Bismarck, Hindenburg or the Kaiser, was close to adoration.

The Prussian Minister of Justice, Haus Kerri, told the Prussian Diet: "Hitler is the Holy Ghost." And all over Germany, Hitler's political organizations erected shrines with his pictures in public halls, held services before them, thanking God for His gift to Germany of the great Hitler. Thus Russians, in old days, before Lenin and Stalin, worshiped their ikons.

With very great interest, future history will study the early twentieth century crop of dictators, the millions of human beings suddenly abandoning their efforts at self-government, and following the servile obedience of a political Messiah. How many survivals will there be among the organizations thus built on one man's personality? Will Mussolini, Hitler, Kemal Pasha or Stalin remain in history as the man whose plan worked out?

The English King's embargo, shutting 80 per cent of all Russian imports out of England, dumfounds Russia, which needs to sell and get money for its various "plans." Russia calls back her commercial diplomats from London to talk things over.

Conditions have changed since Ivan the Terrible. Angry because Queen Elizabeth wouldn't marry him, he drove out English merchants, to whom he had given all sorts of concessions and monopolies. Now England drives out Russian trade.

Russia cannot understand that England should make such a fuss about two ordinary Englishmen sentenced to jail. To take small individuals so seriously is not the Russian custom. When Peter the Great, traveling in Western Europe, saw strange instruments of torture, he asked the King, entertaining him, to put some live men in the machinery and work it. When the King said that could be done only to criminals, Peter replied: "Well, then, take anybody on my staff. I want to see those machines work."

While some have gone back to Wall Street, forgetting all about 1929, you will be interested to hear that many others have gone to farms, safer place in times of depression. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics shows that since 1930 more than 2,000,000 Americans have left the cities for the farm. At least you can raise food there, and rent isn't high.

Even so, only 32,076,960 people are on the farms. More than two-thirds still in cities and towns.

Fifty million Americans, young and old, that have learned by heart, "the boy stood on the burning deck," now learn with a shock

Letters to Martha Carr

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:

MAY I request both your indulgence and advice in order that I might also understand the woman's viewpoint which, together with my own, might help me to solve my problem?

I am in my early thirties and at present unemployed. About a year ago I married a girl, nearly 10 years my junior, from another town. I met her about three years before, had seen her perhaps half a dozen times but had corresponded regularly. After about a month together she went back to her job out of town—to help. (I have neither asked nor permitted her to share her money with me.) Since then, with time to meditate, I find I have made a grave mistake. I do not love her. Absence only tends to increase this feeling. I fear to continue will mean only unhappiness for all concerned. Try as I may both my actions and my conscience reflect my indifference.

I am in a quandary. What to do is a problem. As yet I have not told her of my feeling further than this feeling has been obviously apparent in my few letters. In May she will return for an extended vacation. I can only bring her to my parents' home where there is stilted feeling although they all are congenial enough.

Now, Mrs. Carr, I am reluctant to hurt anyone, yet I feel that silence and indifference will do greater harm and injustice than open confession. What would you do were you in my place? I am sure that association will not bridge the gap, and I wonder whether it would be better to write or to wait until she returns. Your advice will be highly appreciated. QUANDARY.

I believe it would be much better to speak honestly to your wife of the state of your feeling. This would show that you were willing to face the issue squarely. If it is possible, go to see her instead of allowing her to make the trip, only to find unhappiness, perhaps, awaiting her. This would be especially hard for her in the sort of atmosphere you speak of.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IF DISTRACTED mother would give me a chance a few days in the week, I might be able to help her out. I am a great favorite among children, both white and colored. I would accept a very small amount as I love children and have a way with them when they are hard to manage. W. K.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a girl 16 years old. My mother lets the boys come to the house to see me, but she won't let me go out with them. She wants me to go steady with one boy, but she won't let me go to a show or any place with him. I am invited to a lot of parties, but mother won't let me go to any. All my girl friends go places and enjoy themselves, and I don't see why I shouldn't.

I have gotten tired of this, because I am not a baby. I am not getting anything for Easter and it hurts me very bad. I will just have to stay home all day.

Mrs. Carr, please tell me what to do. I wish you lots of success in your column. WORRIED.

We know that these things are not the weight of the world on your shoulders, but it is none the less serious to a young girl, even though she knows that the world has so much more staggering troubles, that hers are merely featherweight.

I should think you might go to shows and little parties with a group of boys and girls if they are the right kind and the places are the right kind. Perhaps there is something in that, although you haven't mentioned it.

I will have to say that I think your mother is making a mistake in wanting you to go with only one boy. Sometimes the choice is not in keeping with a girl's more mature tastes, and unhappy marriage is the result. And no girl or woman ever is satisfied until she has a chance to know varied types of men. It gives her a better understanding of them.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

LETTERS occasionally appear in your column from people asking what to do with leisure time. Your suggestions are always wise and helpful, and perhaps you would be interested in the idea of memorizing poetry, which I have found a very profitable and helpful investment of time. Short verses or even quite long poems can be memorized when one is riding on a street car, washing dishes or walking along the street. And if one doesn't sleep well at night, it's much better to lie awake repeating to one's self the stately lines of a beautiful sonnet than to indulge in worry about the problems of the world or one's own life.

An invalid friend of mine has this for her hobby and can repeat "by the yard" from Chaucer to Edna St. Vincent Millay. Blank verse is her favorite and she says that iambic pentameters have in fact done more for her than doctors' potions.

Some of your readers may not care for so-called high-brow poetry, but the concentration required to memorize even light verse is valuable, and the cultivation of a mental hobby often affords emotional relief. S. M.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

I am so glad to have these constructive suggestions, and hope more of them may be sent in. All human experience in the line of solving our mental problems is especially needed to be known just now.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WOULD like to meet girls who play the mandolin; or join a mandolin club. Can you help me out? MADGE.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IN reading your column last evening, I noted in particular the question asked by "Blondie" as to the meaning of the word "Abyssinia." I wonder if you would mind my adding a comment to your answer? It may be what Blondie had in mind when asking the question.

A number of people have the habit of saying at parting, "Abyssinia," meaning "I'll be seeing you." It is a slang expression, of course, and no doubt has its origin in the fact that when the above phrase is said hurriedly, it resembles to a certain degree the word "Abyssinia."

While I have the opportunity, I must commend you for the capable way in which you conduct your column. It never fails to interest me. A READER.

All of which shows that I am poorly versed in some of the vernacular of the day. I think it has its uses, though, and this particular expression is quite catchy.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

ALTHOUGH my problem may seem trivial, at this time it is most important.

The boy with whom I have been going steady for two years does not own a car. Last year, however, his younger brother bought one and my friend helped pay for it. This brother and his wife went on a trip and the car broke down, they did not even have enough money for repairs, so they came home without it and never did get it.

Meantime, whenever we wanted to go some special place, the older brother would lend us his car. In return my friend bought gasoline and oil.

Recently the younger brother purchased another car, which he allowed us to use occasionally, but with a very disagreeable manner, often disappointing us and both he and his wife becoming sarcastic about it. My friend has been paying them $5 a week. The truth of the matter is, I am not dependent upon a car, and would rather stay at home or go on the street car than use it, and I think he should put that money in the bank and buy himself some clothes rather than give it to his selfish brother and sister-in-law. Some day we intend getting married and he is so easy going he doesn't think about the money. Don't you think he might do that much for me? I feel that if he doesn't begin to save now, he never will, though I don't want to discourage him.

This letter may make me seem just selfish, but I really am JUST BLUE.

You have the right idea, and since the boy may have observed that a few other people get along without a car, and that many of those who cannot possibly get along without one, have nothing else. Of course, you are right about saving the money. And the family mixup should be ended if you want to have any peace or any plans. If you want to rent a car, do it in a businesslike way.

ARE VERY BRILLIANT CHILDREN LIKELY TO BE NERVOUS, UNSTABLE IN THEIR EMOTIONS, GENERALLY UNHEALTHY, AND EVEN TO DIE YOUNG?
YES OR NO
3. IS IT TRUE, AS TENNYSON SAID, "BETTER TO HAVE LOVED AND LOST THAN NEVER TO HAVE LOVED AT ALL"?
YES OR NO

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1. —Yes. Some scientists of Iowa University had a large group of people write down their convictions on numerous questions, ranging from marriage to politics and religion. There was not the slightest relationship between the amount of their information and the strength of their convictions. People trained in scientific analysis are much less likely to be this way than other people, although sometimes they forget their training when they step outside their own specialties. As a rule, the more ignorant a man is the more positive he is in his opinions.

2. —Just the opposite. Prof. Lewis M. Terman of Stanford, has studied more than one thousand exceptionally gifted children some of them genuine prodigies. They proved to be stronger, more vital, less nervous, better adjusted to others and had better health than average children, not to mention dull ones. They were even slightly larger, and weighed a little above average when born. They slept on the average nearly an hour more per day than other children. Of course there were exceptions, but this was the general rule.

3. —Certainly, because both love and disappointment expand the human soul and personality as nothing else in the world does. Love vitalizes one's entire psychology, gives one new insights into himself, and extends the whole area of one's life. If the particular object of one's affections be lost, this brings new tests of the strength of one's nature, the steadiness of his faith, the soundness of his whole philosophy of life.

EVERYDAY RELIGION

By THE REV. JOSEPH FORT NEWTON

OUR HIDDEN LIFE.

TWO boys were going up the stairs of a Cincinnati factory. There was a pail of naphtha on the landing, into which one boy threw a lighted cigarette, thinking it water. There was a flash of upleaping flame. One boy darted downstairs into the street; the other ran up the stairs to warn the girls working above that they might escape. Neither boy had time to ponder. Each acted instantly, instinctively. One was a coward in his deepest nature, the other a hero, and neither of them knew it. Nor do we know what is in us.

Most of us are like those two boys rolled into one. In every human heart a coward and a hero try to live together, and a fight is always going on. It is no sham battle, either, but terribly real, and our happiness and usefulness depend on how it ends. None of us is so brave but that he knows the cold grip of fear. None of us is so yellow but he wants to face life and his own soul unshamed. There are no perfect heroes and no absolute cowards.

No one knows what he will do until he is tried. The disciples of Jesus vowed to stand by Him to the end boldly promising to be brave in face of danger. But when the time came they "forsook Him and fled," the record tells us; and Simon Peter denied that he knew his Master—denied with curses. He did not know himself when he promised loudly to stand by his Master. He found out what was in him when he failed, and went out and wept his eyes sore.

So long as we have to stop and think in order to be brave, or to do right, we are not safe. That man is safe who faces fact without having to debate with himself; who crushes evil and fear instantly, on the spur of the moment. Fear has no chance to parley or delay. The decision is made and the thing done, or set for the doing, at once.

Yet how often we fail in the crisis. The longer one lives the more one sees the wisdom of the words: "From man to man nothing matters but charity." And what we need ourselves we must give to others.

from Prof. Overstreet, who teaches philosophy in the College of the City of New York, that the Casabianca hero was a moron type, lacking "the intelligence to adapt himself to a changing situation."

In defense of that unfortunate boy, who obeyed his father's orders, defying the flames, Prof. Overstreet might be reminded that all heroes that have stuck to their posts in defiance of danger and death failed to adapt themselves to changing situations.

A Schedule.

It is sometimes a simpler matter to write out the weekly schedule of the house and hand it to the new maid than to have to go into all that detail and then have some slipups anyway. It is a help to her as well as to you and will make her less nervous than when trying to remember everything at one time.

LISTEN, WORLD!

by Elsie Robinson

Does It Pay to Be Big-Hearted?

SEZ you: "Does it pay to be big-hearted?"

"Does it pay to consider the other fellow's side of the question when things are in a jam?"

ELSIE ROBINSON

Sez I: "Yes, I think it does."

Sez you: "But if he won't think of your side of the question, what then?"

Sez I: "That's exasperating—but I still think it pays to be big-hearted."

Sez you: "But suppose you know he's being unfair?"

Sez I: "That's his bad luck."

Sez you: "But maybe he won't stop with just being unfair. Maybe he'll misrepresent you—say you're big-hearted because you're in the wrong and are, secretly, trying to buy him off. What then? Have you ever had anything like that happen to you?"

Sez I: "Yes, I have, many times. Most times, in fact. Rarely have I ever tried being big-hearted without getting it in the neck, pronto and plenty."

Sez you: "And yet you still insist that big-heartedness pays?"

Sez I: "Yes, I still insist."

Sez you: "Then, you're cuckoo."

Sez I: "No, I'm not. I'm smart. And if you'll listen a moment, you'll see I'm smart. But let's get things clear first.

"I don't, for a second, believe that big-heartedness 'pays' in the same sense you mean.

"I don't believe it will make me popular; win friends for me. To the contrary, by being big-hearted I've lost far more friends than I've ever gained. My most bitter enemies are those whom I've tried hardest to help; and those who didn't actually hate me for it, despised me—said I was a fool.

"Nor has being big-hearted made life easier for me. Instead, it has made life much harder. I've wasted money; missed out on a lot of fun, and been 'put on the spot' many and many a time.

"Yet, I still maintain, it pays to be big-hearted!

"For this is the way I look at it. Life's a queer mess, and I've never been very successful in handling it. I'm not very shrewd. I'm not beautiful, nor 'the life of the party,' nor very young any more.

"And, to make things worse, I've done some mighty mean things and pulled some awful boners. I've lied. I've hurt and failed people I loved. And I've been downright lazy and cussed.

"Not a very pretty record? You bet it isn't! Yet that's how my record stands after 50 years of the gorgeous opportunity of life. I certainly feel low when I think about it. I certainly would have liked to make good in a big way. It would have been grand to have been a genius. I would even have liked to have been a saint, though, I must admit, most saints give me the jitters. But still—it would have been nice to look back on life and think of the swell things I'd done.

"But I can't. It's too late now. It's a cinch they'll have to plant me minus medals. But there's just one thing I can do that will make me feel they didn't waste all the dog biscuits—

"I CAN BE BIG-HEARTED.

"Not that I often am. Usually I'm as ornery as they come; but once in a blue moon I do manage to act civilized. And then, for a few minutes, I remember what a flop and a meanie I am myself—and forgive the other fellow accordingly.

"Goofy? Maybe. We all have our queer streaks. Some people like white rats. Others eat snails. My idea of a swell time is playing that I'm bigger than I am, and if it wastes my money—why, that's my bad luck.

"But, whatever you may think about it, I think it pays to be big-hearted. I may lose friends by it—and get a general reputation for being a nut. But—

"IT'S THE ONE THING I CAN DO THAT RATES."

Truism

If it is fate that I should know defeat,
That all my glowing dreams must fade to dust,
Then I will wander down your little street
And pour my heart out as a lover must.
It would be sacrilege for me to go
Along the trail that fools and wastrels take,
Until, in my poor way, I let you know
That all these dreams have blossomed for your sake.
Yes, I must thank you for a score of things—
A verse you wrote—a shy kiss in the dark—
And when the fitful rain of April stings
You must be gay again nor stop to mark
That those we love are ever on their way
And only heartbreak has a lengthy stay!

By Way of Report

When Shaw arrived in San Francisco, reports Edward Fitzgerald of there, Mayor Rossi, who is handsome and a fast-thinker, noticed that G. B. S. was getting chesty about the newspapermen present. The Mayor tactfully tried to compliment him. He said, so all could hear: "Mr. Shaw is right! Every time he opens his mouth he clicks."

Shaw misunderstood the Americanese version of "click," which means to "register"—to "get over"—to score or triumph.

The Irishman from England turned pink and acidly retorted, "I'm sorry you mentioned that, Mayor. It's my upper plate, and I'm very sensitive about it!"

Classic in Journalism

The ace of the newspaper tales, we think, is the one about the reporter, who, passing a dock one dark night, noticed a man drowning. He jerked off his coat and started to leap in for the rescue—when he discovered that the drowning gent was his own managing editor. The reporter thought fast. He was next in line for the editor's job. So he let him sink.

Of course this is fiction. Had it been a true story the reporter probably would have tossed his editor an anchor.

At any rate, the scribe rushed breathlessly to the desk of his publisher and related what had happened. "I guess," said the reporter between smiles, "that I'm next in line for the job, now, ain't I?"

The publisher shook his head slowly. "I'm sorry," he said, "I've already promised it—to the guy who pushed him in."

The Retort Proper

It happened in a Broadway restaurant during the first day of repeal. A customer, who had ordered a beer, began to complain about the slow service.

"Say, listen," replied the waiter, "you waited 13 years—what's another five minutes!"

Okay! Montreal!!!

The Montreal Daily Star's Robert Newcomb reports in part for that paper: ". . . Winchell rose to prominence chiefly because of his 'gossip' column. He was thus first of the so-called gossip columnists, taking the brunt of the abuse heaped upon that group. He is ridiculed by his imitators, who prattle endlessly of their newspaper scoops that are unimportant, and who continue to damn the man to whose ingenuity they owe their own jobs."

And not only that, Mr. Montreal—they carry pocket combs! They seldom send home money, and two of them are sissies!

Making the Child's Cereal Palatable

COOKED cereal has a way of becoming an unwelcome sight to the child who faces a bowl of it every morning of his life between October and June.

Here are a few ways of making it appetizing and attractive: Keep four or five different kinds and serve a different one nearly every day.

Let the child sweeten it himself with either honey or brown sugar instead of common granulated sugar. Serve it sometimes with butter instead of milk.

If the doctor permits nuts in the child's diet, a few chopped peanuts or almonds will make it a treat. Mix in either raisins or dates just before serving. Sprinkle it with dry cocoanut or some well liked dry cereal.

If the child has become very bored with his cereal, omit it for a few days or serve it now and then for supper instead of breakfast. Be careful not to give him over-large servings.

Be sure that it is well cooked, neither too stiff nor too thin and—above all things—not lumpy.

Look up recipes for simple cookies, breads and puddings, which can be made with cereal. Served to him in these forms he will be sure to eat them eagerly.

Don't show your child that you are especially anxious for him to eat his cereal. This makes it more amusing for him to refuse it, no matter how good it tastes. Don't hover over the cereal bowl waiting for him to finish the last spoonful.

If it is difficult for him to finish it one day, give him a smaller serving on the next. When you introduce a new kind of cereal give him only a small amount. If he asks for more tell him that tomorrow he may have a bigger dish.

GOOD TASTE

By EMILY POST

Again—

Dear Mrs. Post:

I HEARD you speak recently of the rudeness of the hostess who serves herself first. I have been following the advice of a current magazine. Without a maid, I naturally serve others first, but when I give a dinner and engage a waitress for the evening, I have her serve me first. I can hardly express my chagrin after hearing you talk against this practice. First, will you tell me why should be served first by my husband carving at the table or by a waitress serving from the kitchen?

EMILY POST

Answer: Please don't feel chagrined because you are one of many who have believed in misinforming advice on this particular detail. In the past, there were occasions when this behavior was necessary, but in a well appointed house in a civilized community there is absolutely no excuse for the rudeness of a hostess who helps herself before a woman guest—unless she has reason to believe her food poisoned. In this case, it would be courteous to take the risk herself, but not otherwise.

My Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine said you disapprove of what you call "zigzag" eating, meaning the transferring of all food to the right hand before lifting it to the mouth. Will you write about it again?

Answer: Zigzag eating is a colloquial American custom, in which the left hand is apparently assumed to be paralyzed. There is no objection to it excepting that of a stuttering effect of awkwardness. The fact that it is not practiced in what might be called the Great World, makes it even more important that from a common sense point of efficiency children should be trained to use both hands as proficiently as possible. Holding fork tines up, it has become customary to eat with the right hand chiefly because the left is not sufficiently expert. Holding a piece of bread in the left hand and buttering it with knife in the right, one obviously eats the bread with the left hand—or a young child may change over if the left hand is inexpert. But there is a disturbing impression of manual injury in seeing a grown person constantly transferring food or implements from a useless hand to a useful one.

P. Hal Sims on Bridge

BRIDGE
» by «
P. HAL SIMS

The first fourteen articles in this series by P. Hal Sims have been reprinted in an attractive booklet. This booklet will be sent without cost to anyone requesting it. Address P. Hal Sims, St. Louis Post Dispatch.

P. Hal Sims is acclaimed the greatest contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won 24 national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

The Sims No-Trump Theory

AT THE conclusion of yesterday's article, I said that I deliberately eliminate the possibility of unnecessary approach bids after the bidding has been opened with a no-trump declaration. By "unnecessary" I mean unnecessary for game purposes. I do not rule out safety-escape bidding; I facilitate it; but unless opener has concealed a long suit, I confine it to the responding hand, and that (in connection with extreme weakness) only by means of suits of not less than five cards. That is where safety lies in 26 cards with which game hopes in no trumps must be abandoned. It is then far safer to play for three-odd in responder's five-card suit than to two no trumps.

HAL SIMS'

How the Responsibility Passes Back and Forth.

That is why I give the original no-trump bidder grave responsibility with regard to his opening bid, and advise no more than a very slight shading, and that only third and fourth hand. After the opening bid, the responding hand takes at least an equal responsibility when determining the nature of his first response: If he says "two no trumps," the hand is irrevocably consigned to a game contract. If he bids two in a suit, he is temporizing, leaving a safety outlet. He hopes that opener is strong enough to "take the strain off the responder" by bidding three no trumps; in which case the opener alone will be to blame if anything goes wrong; if, however, the opening bidder merely says two no trumps over the suit take-out, the responding hand is saddled with the whole responsibility if he bids three no trumps. If he rebids to three in his suit, he is emphatically warning the opener, and after that warning the opener alone is to blame if he bids three no trumps and fails to make it.

Bringing Out the Full Responsibilities of Weak Hands.

I feel that this method of bidding is the most successful of any in current use today with respect to the two extreme requirements of weak to fair hands with which slam prospects are not in view.

(1). It provides safety against large penalties not only through the soundness of the opening bid, but also through the response requirements which are flexible in the most logical manner; (a) If supplying only high cards, game will be bid, but the responding requirements are comparatively high; (b) if supplying suit length, requirements are low, but game need not be bid if extreme weakness in the responding hand is not balanced by reserve strength in that of the opening bidder.

(2) By virtue of the procedure just mentioned, which is available when the responding hand can bid a five-card suit, we enable game to be bid and made on many hands where the responding hand is miserably weak in high cards or in suit solidity—hands which would have to pass if their partners had opened the bidding with a no-trump under most of the current systems, for fear that the no trump could not stand the burden of a response leading to a rebid.

What to Do to Doubles.

It is good contract to bid and make these games. Most systems can handle the strong hands, but under what other theory of no-trump bidding do you find this situation created; though able to bid with very little strength, the responding hand's second bid, his rebid, creates generally a safer situation than he would have created originally by passing the opening no trump when he is very weak; while when he is weak but not extremely so, he can lead the partnership to game declarations which, though sometimes unsuccessful, are extremely profitable on balance and, when they fail, are seldom doubled; if doubled, may be redoubled at least half the times; when redoubled, will be made not less than twice out of three times. Two fine card players who reach a doubled three-no-trump contract using the Sims system, by constructive bidding on the lines laid down in these articles, without having cut any corners, make it an almost automatic habit to redouble. Declarer can usually give the "big wink" about the fifth trick.

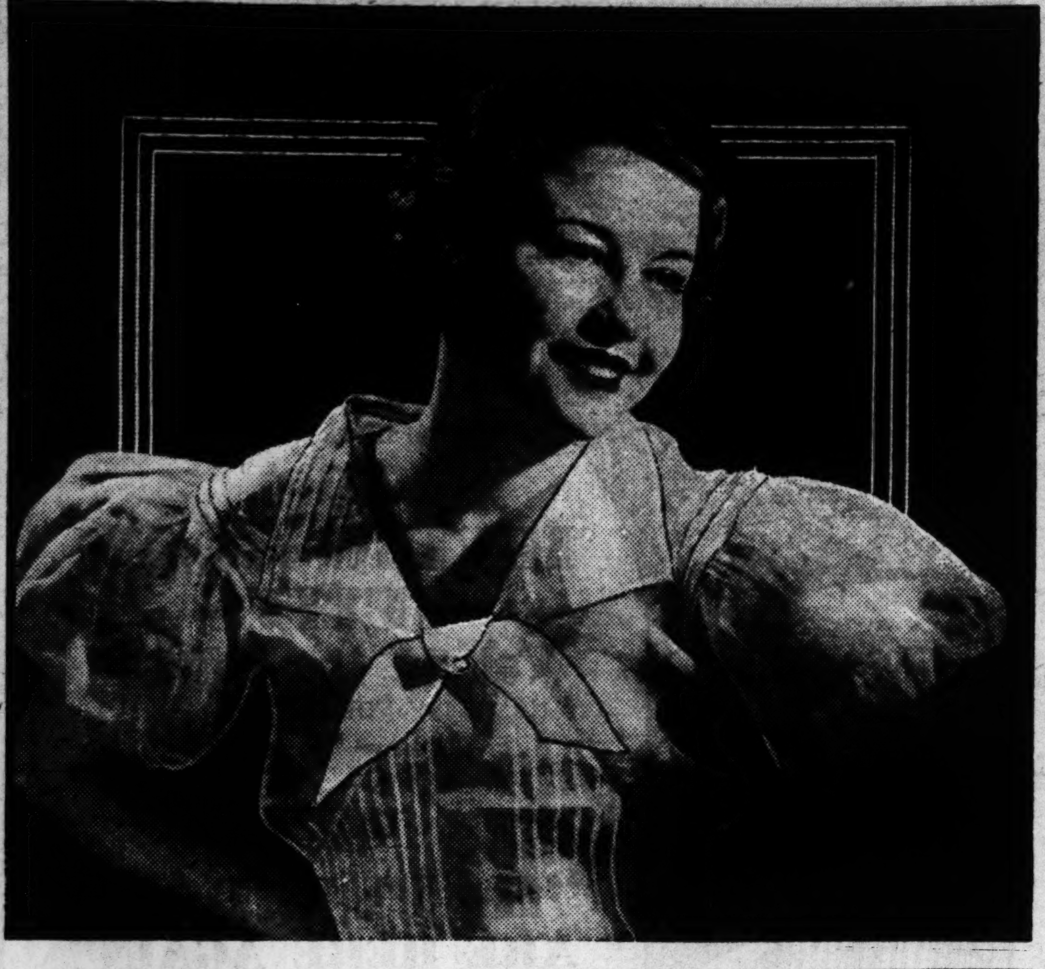
HOW to MAKE a NEW BLOUSE



YOU need two yards of white or the new tinted organdies to make this dainty blouse with unique vest pattern. The diagram-pattern shown at the right is for size 36 and allows for ¼ inch or ⅛ inch French seams.

Arm yourself with the right-sized needles and good quality thread, and begin this experiment in dressing yourself smartly.

Cut back and front pieces the same except for front V-neck. Half the sleeve is shown, folded along upper edge. Also half the vest, with fold at center front. Cut as one piece along outside lines, then cut curve along upper sides as shown by curving arrow.

The tucks narrow each side down from 15 to 8 inches as shown. Cut two back bow strips to attach to narrow ends of vest. Cut two collar points from a rectangle 9x8 inches, cutting this in half diagonally.

Cut back of collar 15x8 inches for vertical tucks shown, or 9x9 inches for a narrow collar tucked horizontally. Cut two pieces for front bow on the curve shown to make ends point in same direction. Cut 1 inch bias strips for all raw edges.

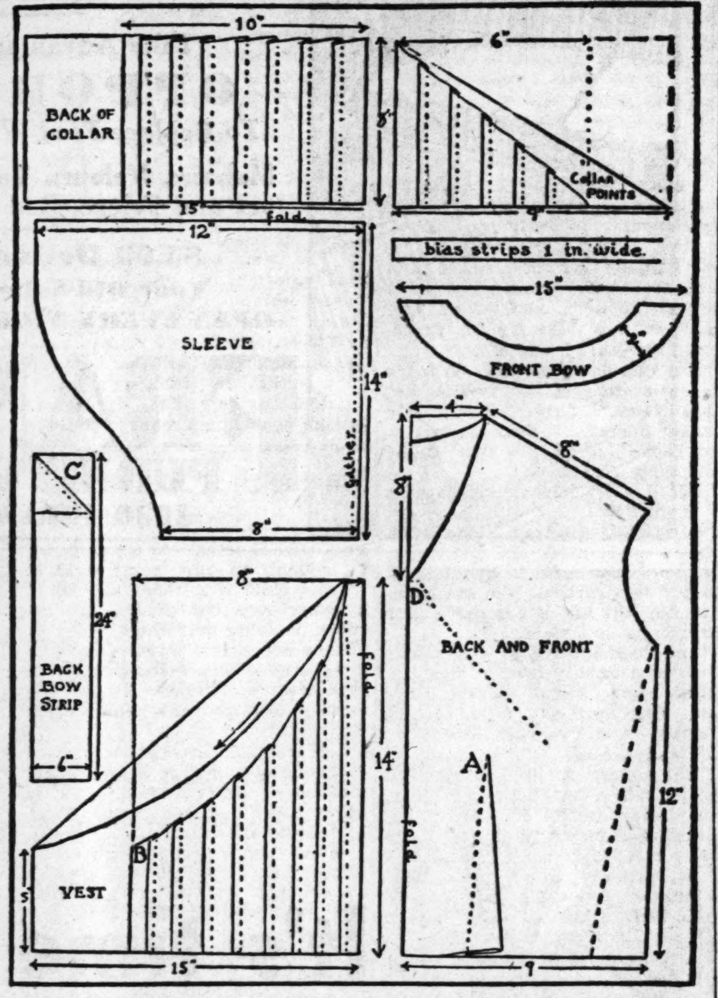
SEWING together: French-seam side edges and shoulder seams of back and front together. Take darts, A, at each side of center front and back to make blouse fit form. Hem bottom of blouse. Sew edges of sleeves together, shirr upper edge to fit armhole, adjust in armhole; hem base of sleeve and run a strip of elastic ribbon through.

Vest: Mark off front vest piece into tucks ½ inch apart and ⅛ inch wide each, and hand sew. Hem two long sides and one end of back bow strips and attach the unhemmed end to narrow end of vest under last tuck, B. Turn hemmed end of bow strip over in a point, as at C. Finish edges of vest with bias strips.

Collar: Put tucks vertically in collar points, finish edges with bias strips and attach points at right and left of neck V from shoulder seams downward. Make back of collar with tucks horizontal or vertical as preferred, finish edges with bias strips, and attach to back of neck on inside. Cover raw edges on inside of neck with bias strips.

Bow: Seam two bow pieces together, turn, and tie in simple knot. Attach top of vest to neck V at D; blind-stitch bottom of vest to bottom of blouse. Tie the completed bow strips around the waist.



Between-Meal Food For Small Children

THE practice of giving a child food between meals because he does not eat enough at the table to keep him properly nourished is an extremely bad one.

Until a child has established good eating habits, until he has learned to eat promptly the meals that are set before him, it is best that he should not be allowed to eat between meals at all.

Once good habits are established, however, it is a good plan to experiment with a mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunch.

A glass of milk and a cookie, a piece of fruit or a slice of bread and butter and jam are quite in order at these times.

Such sweets as candy, cake and ice cream are best given as dessert at the end of a regular meal.

Served between meals, their concentrated sweetness and richness tend to diminish the child's regular meal time appetite.

Between-meal lunches should never be urged upon the child. His own appetite is the best indicator of whether or not he needs and can benefit by them.

The moment that the child's meal-time appetite shows a tendency to lessen all between-meal eating should be stopped.

Occasionally, a child convalescing from a severe illness is unable to take a large amount of food at one time.

He will not get the nourishment he needs unless he eats between meals.

Building up the child who has been ill by means of between-meal lunches should be undertaken, however, only with the advice of a physician.

Usually it is best to stimulate the child's appetite and develop his capacity for managing proper meals by plenty of exercise and play in the sunshine.

AT THE MARKET

EVEN before the first excitement over the return of beer had subsided, many a thoughtful house manager was reflecting what its place was to be in the household. How can it best be served? What has the market to offer to go along with it, aside from the usual run of meals? Are the sausage makers, for example, still producing their delightful combinations — pickled, smoked or otherwise prepared? And can they still be used gracefully for the occasional meal, after the evening bridge session, or for a cold dinner at the end of a hot summer day? Let's take a look—in any market.

Landjaeger, a most unappetizing looking sausage with a fragrant flavor that makes up for its flat and squatty appearance, is a good starter. Buy it at almost any market, serve it for consumption along with beer, or let your guests take it with bread or crackers if they prefer. On the same platter with it include, for example, a braunschweiger, either of the imported or domestic variety, a few slices of boiled ham, a half dozen segments of cervelat spiced with fragrant pepper-pods, a selection of the variety of cuts that still goes by its German name, kalter aufschnitt. Garnish the plate with lettuce, throw in an assortment of pickles, radishes and olives, get out the bottle opener and summon the guests.

If you like to serve the more unusual productions of the sausage manufacturer, draw them from a treasure house of a hundred varieties. Take salami for example. Either the Italian, Russian or German are excellent for luncheon purposes, and it's a fair bet your guest, unless he is an astute judge of wurst will not know what country has produced the delightful concoction he is eating—but he will know that it is made for him by sausage artisans who have drawn on a background of many years at the art. They're all highly flavored, with more than a faint hint of garlic.

Other excellent choices: Milwaukee lach-schinken, which is a smoked pork tenderloin and may be eaten raw or cooked without fear of dire results in either case; Paprika Speck, a Hungarian bacon and a real special for the sausage connoisseur, eaten as it comes from the market; Milwaukee schmierwurst, produced in links but designed for those who like to spread their sausage on bread; pig-foot souse, fragrantly pickled; scores of others.

Beside the sausage platter you will need a pot of good mustards—there are dozens of varieties, some of them skillfully compounded with horse-radish; bread, either white or rye, or some of the black varieties such as pumpernickel.

After you have gathered your hasty but delightful meal together, better ask your guests if any of them want coffee. One or two of them may—there's no accounting for tastes.

Creamed Potatoes

One and one-half cups diced cooked potatoes, or four cooked new potatoes.
Three tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One and one-half cups milk.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon paprika.

Melt butter and add flour. Mix well, add milk and seasonings. Cook slowly, stir constantly until mixture thickens. Add potatoes, cook slowly two minutes.

The Tracks

RIP wandered here and he wandered there. He looked back of clumps of bushes and he looked in marshy places where he thought Jelly Bear might have fallen.

The little lantern was lighted and hanging around Rip's neck so he would be ready for darkness.

"Bow-wow, oh, dear Dog me," he said to himself, "I cannot stand it if anything has happened to Jelly Bear. He is so dear and friendly and just the sight of that big black devoted Bear is enough to make a creature feel better!

"He was always so ready to help, too. And he saved the life of our dear Willy Nilly that cold winter night when Willy Nilly was ready to drop down with cold and weariness. Oh, Jelly Bear, Jelly Bear, you have no idea how much we love you."

Tears began to fall from Rip's eyes. He blinked them away and continued his search, barking as he ran along.

And then he thought how dear and funny Jelly Bear had looked when they had the circus, and of the tricks he had performed.

Suddenly he noticed some tracks in the muddy ground. Rip barked for joy. He had discovered a clew for the tracks were the tracks of a bear.

"Jelly Bear, Jelly Bear!" shouted Rip. "Where are you?" He listened for an answer, but all he heard was the sound of the wind whistling through the trees.

"I'll just rush home and tell them so they can all have a little comfort," Rip thought, and immediately acted upon this thought.

Corn Omelet

One cup canned corn, two eggs, a pinch of salt, one-fourth cup cream, two tablespoons butter. Add well-beaten egg yolks to the corn, then add salt and cream. Whip the egg whites until stiff and fold into the mixture. Melt butter in an omelet pan, pour in omelet and cook until set on top and brown on the bottom. Fold over on a heated platter and serve immediately.

Meat Skewers

Keep the wooden skewers that come in the roast from the butcher. They are almost certain to come in handy; if not for actual cooking, they are useful to get into niches and corners when housecleaning paint.

A meal that is served in an attractive and tempting manner is bound to taste good.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE
» by WYNN «

For Saturday, April 22.

FIRST of two days with stress on occupation, relations with superiors and reputation; fairly good if you sidestep nickel traps. Today: Active mentally and generally favorable for new business. Study wisely all novel schemes.

"Soteria."

We have two words in the English language that are derived from the Greek "soteria," and both of them mean much to anyone who would become bigger and better, happier, healthier and wiser. These words are "soterial," and "soteriology;" and they refer to both the religious aspect of becoming whole through work (sacrifice), and to the science of hygiene and the laws of health. Health itself is a word that comes to us from the old Anglo-Saxon "hal," meaning "whole." Healthy means "wholethy." Compare with our word "hale," which is usually associated with hearty, another word that means practically the same on the emotional plane that health means on the physical plane. Study these relations and act on what you find out.

Your Year Ahead.

Make the most of your emotional and inspirational opportunities during the next 12 months, if you are a native of this date. You can become worth more by becoming worthy of more; get started in the right direction by taking up some line of study, travel or expansion. Watch finances during first week of February. SEA OF GLORY

By

MARY C. McCALL

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN.

HE NEVER looked around until dinner was almost over. Then he felt her hand on his sleeve.

"Commander, before you and your bride run away from us, won't you just autograph a menu or two for me to take home? Gladys will just be crazy to have your signature in your very own writing."

"I'm sorry," said Scott. "I haven't a pen."

But the captain offered him a pencil, and Janet was looking at him as if she wanted to ask him not to be rude to the woman, so he scrawled his name on the menu.

"And the little bride, too?"

"No," said Janet, "I don't think that my signature would interest Gladys very much."

Oh, how mad she was! "The little bride!" Scotty chuckled to himself. He wouldn't say anything to her, but it was funny. A minute before he knew very well she'd been thinking that he was treating the woman boorishly, and now she could cheerfully have killed the old fool for calling her that sappy name.

Scotty and Janet went into the smoking room. Janet looked at him over the top of her glass. All at once the look in her eyes changed. He knew that she was laughing even before she put the glass down and reached for his hand.

"Oh, Scotty, I was so darn mad at that woman, and here I've been nagging you for taking this business seriously! You poor dear, how have you stood it? She was so much worse about you, Gladys and all."

"I knew you were furious," he said.

"Of course I was, and you were gentleman enough not to rub it in."

WHAT other girl would have said that? What incredible good luck to have found Janet. "Come on, darling, we're going to dance."

They danced well together. He looked down at her. "I'm apt to walk on your feet," he said. "I'm drunk."

"On one drink?"

"No. On being married to you."

"Darling!"

He looked at her as they passed a mirror. How lovely fer figure was and the poise of her head! He liked the tune they were playing.

Suddenly the music stopped. Not as if the dance were finished. Abruptly, as if something had happened. Scotty looked over at the orchestra. A man was talking to the leader. Kinky hair, padded shouders, and pinched-in waist, slave bracelet on one wrist.

"Scotty, it's Larry Richards," said Janet.

"Who?"

"The night-club man—you know."

"No," said Scott, "but I don't need him."

The man had faced the room. He was clapping his hands for silence.

"Folks, I don't know whether most of us realize it, but we have a very, very celebrated couple with us, and since we're all just one big happy family here on this ship, as you might say, I took it on myself to suggest to the boys here that they play a very, very sweet little song that has been written to America's hero and his very, very lovely little wife—Commander and Mrs. Scott McClanahan. Come on, let's give these two famous newlyweds a real welcome, and then I'll try to sing this song. Come on, make it a big hand!"

Scott and Janet stood in the center of the room staring at the man. Suddenly applause broke out all over the room, louder, louder. They were hemmed in by people, gaping, crowding closer, beating their hands together. Janet looked up at Scotty. She looked as if she were caught in a trap, surprised, frightened. Then the orchestra began to blare out the song, and Larry Richards's voice threw every sickening word into the farthest corner:

There's a brand-new name!
Known to history's fame—
It's our Scott McClenahan.
There's a real true Yankee man!

"Come on, Janet," said Scott. He caught her hand and started toward the door. People blocked their way, and he pushed them aside. His head and throat felt tight with fury. An attack of apoplexy must feel like this. They reached a doorway at last just as that voice whined out, "Scotty boy!"

* * *

BLINDLY they ran downstairs, through the corridors. Scotty still held Janet's hand, crushing it. He fumbled for the key in his pocket.

"Let go my hand, will you, Scott? You're hurting me."

"Sorry!" said Scott. He flung the door open, banged it shut behind them, and locked it. He walked over to a port, opened it, and stood with his back to the room. He couldn't look at Janet. Suddenly he turned and started for the door.

"Where are you going?"

He unlatched the door without speaking.

"Scott, I asked where you were going?" Her voice was sharp.

"I'll be back."

"Stop, Scotty! What are you going to do?"

"I'm going back and crack that idiot's jaw. What do you suppose I'm going to do?"

"No, you're not, Scotty."

He turned around. "Who says I'm not?"

"I say you're not, because I ask it."

"I know what I'm doing." His hand reached for the door.

"No, you don't, Scotty." She came over to him, put her arms around his neck. "Darling, fighting doesn't do any good. Don't you see, the only thing to do is just to get away from it when you can? We'll just stay here until we land. We won't have to see any of them again."

He stared over her shoulder.

"Dearest, don't let that spoil our beautiful night."

He buried his face in her neck, straining her against him. "You're right, but I do get so darn mad. It's you. I can't let them make a cheap spectacle of you."

"Darling, I don't mind."

"Yes, you do. I could see the way you looked when that kinky-haired ass began.'

"Oh, of course I hate it, but it doesn't matter. It can't hurt us. Let's forget it, darling."

"All right, it's forgotten." But he couldn't forget it. That sort of thing was going to happen again and again. Ever since that day in New York it had been like this. That man by the gate outside Janet's and on the road that night. The clothes in Chapin's window. The jewelry store. Cars following them, chasing them like dogs after rabbits, and that braying donkey inside.

One minute he'd been dancing with Janet, happy, feeling her in his arms and thinking about the joy that was so near. The next minute they were being stared at, clapped at, sung at. Ever since that business in the submarine it seemed to him that he had been in a state of anger. Sometimes just petty irritation; sometimes, like tonight, choking fury.

This should be the happiest time of his life, and here he was, putting all his force into resentment at the idiocy of people. They had got under his skin, right enough. Well, they wouldn't spoil his happiness. They could harry him and annoy him, but there was something too big for them to hurt, something so beautiful that nothing could harm it. That was his love for Janet, Janet's love for him.

THE house at Sandy Cove was long and low. Against the bright blue of the sky its roof was sharply white. From Scotty's and Janet's room steps led to the green lawn which ran down to the water. This was the very tip of the island, a narrow peninsula thrusting out into the sea.

"Look, Scotty," Janet said, "the water's so close. We'll go swimming every morning before breakfast."

But they didn't. Instead they stayed in bed late, lying half awake, watching the clear sunlight spilling over their threshold. "I like to think about getting up and then not doing it," said Scotty. "They're the finest hours of the day, just before you go to sleep and before you're really awake."

Scotty and Janet hired bicycles in Hamilton—high English bicycles with brakes on the handlebars. They fell off them now and then, skinning knees and wrists and elbows on the hard white coral roads.

"Bet you can't ride no-handed," said Scotty.

"Bet I can," said Janet, "and put my feet upon the front wheel at the same time."

Sometimes they took their bathing suits and rode over to the South Shore to swim where the surf was high. Sometimes they'd lie on the beach outside the house, drenching themselves in sunshine, or take a canoe out into the little harbor. They spent one whole afternoon diving for sea fans and brain corals. The sea fans broke, and the corals were firmly attached to the reefs, but it was fun diving for them. They played croquet with intense concentration.

He felt he must remember all this—the sunny days, the rides and swims and walks with Janet, and people who left him alone, didn't stare at him as if he were a freak. Then, no matter what happened, he'd have this safe in his mind, a kind of armor against the gaping crowds.

But all of it was just a background for Janet. He liked the swimming and the bicycling and the walking because Janet was with him. Once, lying on the sand, he tried to tell her how he felt. "You know, they say that if a tree falls in a forest and no one's there it doesn't make any noise."

"H'mm," said Janet. She was lying on her face, her brown arms under her head. The sun made her hair shine.

"That's the way I feel about you."

She raised her head and looked at him. "How do you mean?"

"That if you weren't here this wouldn't exist—the island and the sun and being so doggone happy. That doesn't make much sense, does it? And I thought it was quite smart before I said it."

"No," said Janet. "It doesn't make much sense, but it's awfully sweet."

On the South Shore was a ruined house which had only one wall standing, a fireplace with powder closets on either side, and a breathtaking view of the sea. Scotty and Janet decided to buy the house and rebuild it. It all seemed easy and practical, leaning against the one wall and smoking and looking down at the sea.

"But, Scotty," said Janet, "the main reason why we'd want a house in the country is for children, and this is so far from a school."

"No, it's not," said Scotty. "Not really. They'd take the ferry every day." They laughed and kissed each other.

SEEN IN THE STORES

By SYLVIA

GINGHAM has started on an upward course, finally reaching to the crown of the head. And it couldn't be placed better for style or becomingness. A little brown rough straw skull-cap uses it for a tassel, introducing that Pierrot angle all young girls covet. Brown and white plaid gingham tinged at the edges forms this pompom, bobbing gaily with each step the wearer takes.

We've been hearing a lot of talk about linen for summer. Suits come first but look out for the avalanche of linen skirts. White may be the leader but there's plenty of style in the skirts that are gray or black. And pique, too. A girl can't be more clever than when she appears in a black pique skirt and sheer wool sweater.

Point d'sprit is the latest thing for negligees. You wear it over a slip of bright colored silk crepe. Puffed sleeves are an added bit of femininity, and there is always a ribbon sash in a tone that contrasts with the crepe. The idea is, it seems, for the wearers to look quite quaint and youthful in these negligees, instead of adopting the air of languid ladies.

The first cotton handbags are in town, and judging from the variety it will be possible to purchase one to harmonize with every summer costume. Roman striped pique catches the eye as one of the brightest newcomers but there are many others including plain colored piques, linens, matelasses and calico.

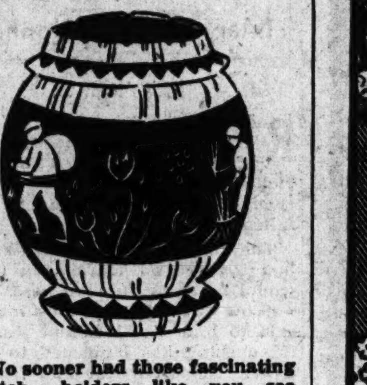
Organdie blouses in the dark shades that Dame Fashion says are right for light colored suits are seen in the stores. And not all of them have puffed sleeves, either. Some have the shirt-waist look with tucks, mannish buttons and high turnover collars. Navy, red and brown are presented at their darkest.



No sooner had those fascinating match holders like you see sketched been placed on a certain counter until customers were swarming around them. The holders are of wood, made and painted by Polish natives (so the story goes). The figures which decorate the black band are diligently making hats or gathering flowers, and they're very gay about it.

In selecting new rugs for your porch don't overlook the trends in those of fiber. The new designs are quite elaborate; the new colors very strong. And instead of plain centers with colorful borders, 90 per cent of this season's rugs have the design running through them.

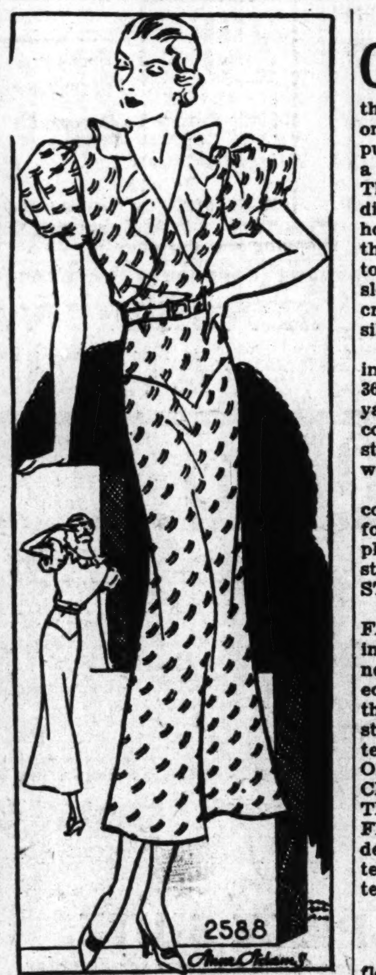
One-piece cotton pajamas that look so much like dresses that they could be worn in public without provoking many stares may be had in checked gingham or powder puff prints. The sleeves either are puffed or have double organdie frills. They're right for indoors now and will be seen on the beaches next summer.

* * *

If you haven't seen the evening dress that suits you perfectly this may be it. Eyelet embroidered starched chiffon is cut up in a bodice and circled into an apron for the skirt. Attached to this apron is a billowy flounce of the plain chiffon which does a bit of cascading for the back. There's no color anywhere—fabric and decorations all being pure white.

TODAY'S PATTERN



Select a Print for This

GAY, spring-like, feminine and young . . . is it any wonder so many smart women are making this lovely model? Fashioned of one of those dainty prints . . . purchased by the yard for almost a song . . . it would be charming. The ruffled collar of white organdie—perhaps you've a remnant at home—joins the pointed seaming of the bodice and lends a soft touch to the face. Very perky puffed sleeves and slender skirt seaming creat the popular wide-at-the-top silhouette.

Pattern 2588 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards 39-inch fabric and ⅝ yard contrasting. Illustrated step by step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Cauliflower Pickle.

Cut one large cauliflower into flowerets, chop four green peppers and slice three onions. Cover all with a weak salt brine and simmer until cauliflower is tender. Drain. Add two pints vinegar, one ounce mustard seed, five whole small red peppers and bring to boiling point. Mix a scant one-half dry mustard with one cup sugar, two teaspoons celery seed and one-fourth ounce turmeric powder. Mix to a paste with a little cold water, then add to the pickle and cook all together for five minutes. Bottle and seal while hot.

An attractive scarf will give a festive air to the plain dress.

When molasses is included in a recipe for a cake or pudding, be sure to grease the pan well in which the article is baked, as molasses scorches much more readily than sugar.

Veal Kidneys on Toast.

Boil three veal kidneys for 10 minutes in one cup water. Cool. Slice in thin slices, discarding fat and gristle. Return to water in which they were boiled and season with salt and pepper. Melt one tablespoon butter and add one teaspoon chopped parsley, one tablespoon lemon juice and one-fourth teaspoon thyme. Add kidneys and simmer until well heated. Serve on slices of toast, garnished with parsley or watercress.

Before attempting to remove the paper label from the new sheets, pillow cases, etc., pull the material on the bias around the label, several times. The label will lift right off.

It's time to change to crispness

THIS is the season when everybody is tired of heavy foods. You welcome the return of the birds, the grass and the early flowers of summer. Just the thought of something crisp and fresh makes you hungry.

So change to crispness. Let Kellogg's Corn Flakes—crisp and tempting—bring a refreshing touch to breakfast.

It has long been one of our greatest sources of satisfaction that Kellogg's Corn Flakes help so many thousands of women brighten the menu—at the same time, saving them work, trouble and cooking. Kellogg's are the modern food.

Thoroughly cooked for you in modern plants at Battle Creek. Rich in energy. Very easy to digest. Delicious with hot or cold milk. Extra good with canned fruits or berries.

For breakfast, lunch or for the children's evening meal, Kellogg's bring a refreshing flavor change. Oven-fresh in the red-and-green package at your grocer's.

Rubber Gloves.

To insure long wear, rubber gloves should be bought one or two sizes larger than your ordinary glove measurements, and it is not time wasted to powder the hands before donning rubber gloves. Plain corn starch powder will answer the same purpose as talcum, you know, and is always right at hand in the kitchen.

The fireplace bricks can be cleaned nicely if they are covered with a paste of powdered pumice stone and ammonia. Leave it on for an hour, then scrub with warm soap suds.

A Shoe Bag.

For the apartment dweller who has a limited amount of closet space there is no nicer gift than a shoe bag. It is made of denim with compartments for a dozen pairs of shoes and pocket up top for galoshes and the short umbrellas we use nowadays. Little brass rings across the top make it hang evenly, taking up a minimum space on the door of a closet.

DAYS PASSED AS GUS LAY ON A BED OF PAIN FIGHTING FOR LIFE AS HIS DEVOTED MOTHER WAS DRIVEN FROM BOSKY DELL DAILY BY BOBBY THATCHER
THIS IS AWFULLY SWEET OF YOU, BOBBY... DON'T KNOW HOW I COULD GO THROUGH THESE TERRIBLE DAYS WITHOUT YOU!
YES'M BUT I DON'T MIND; MISSUS WIGGINS
DIDN'T YOU THINK HE SEEMED A LITTLE MITE BETTER TODAY?
YES'M, ...YES'M, HE DID
WHEN SHE SAID DID HE LOOK BETTER I SAID YES.... BUT HE DON'T.... HE LOOKS WEAKER AND PALER EVERY DAY!!

SURE— I TELEPHONED HIM—SAY, IF PATIENCE WAS PERFUME, YOU'D SMELL LIKE A HERRING!
BUT I DID WRITE HIM THAT YOU AND NED REALLY WANT A JOB
JOB? I HOPE YOU'RE NOT LEAVING CARTERVILLE AGAIN THIS SUMMER, NED!
NOTHING TO DO HERE, MOM—RIMS' FATHER CAN GET US JOBS ON AN OCEAN FREIGHTER PROMISE ME YOU'LL TRY TO GET SOMETHING ELSE BEFORE YOU GO SO FAR AWAY, NED YOU'D BETTER FORGET THIS SUMMER, AND CONCENTRATE ON THE HARVER GAME THIS WEEK—WE'RE GOING TO HAVE OUR HANDS FULL WITH THAT OUTFIT!

SLICE OF LIFE
(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

A story told with much circumstance of detail came to Sheriff Jim Bassett, Sunday afternoon, directed against H. R. Arbuckle, who was registered at the Commercial Hotel. The story recited that Mr. Arbuckle was a high-powered liquor runner and that he had already made arrangements to supply a number of local "dealers."

The sheriff and nightwatch, Dick Staatz, took the stranger into custody, gave him and his car and even his room a careful once over, but there was no evidence of any liquor. Arbuckle said he was selling a preparation for cleaning windshields.

HIDDEN BEHIND A PICTURE, JANE FOUND A MAP OF LOST MINE—APPARENTLY THIS IS THE SOLUTION OF THE MESSAGE GIVEN HER BY WADE'S FATHER
BY GEORGE, THIS ALL FITS—DAD WAS GOING ON A MYSTERIOUS TRIP—HE EXPECTED TO MAKE A LOT OF MONEY—AND JUST BEFORE HE DIED HE SENT ME WORD WHERE TO FIND THIS MAP!
YES AND THESE PAPERS MENTION SOMEONE HE DIDN'T TRUST—A BARNEY RAND—THIS IS A CLUE TO THE MURDER—
THE MAN WHO KILLED YOUR FATHER MUST HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR THIS—HE ASKED ME OVER AND OVER WHAT YOUR FATHER TOLD ME—
THEN THIS BARNEY RAND MUST BE THE GUILTY MAN
PERHAPS—I THINK WE SHOULD TELL THE POLICE!

WHY PEGGY, YOU SEEM SO CHEERFUL THIS EVENING. SO HAPPY.
OH I AM. YOU REMEMBER THOSE TWO MEN WHO CAME TO YOUR OFFICE? WELL THEY WERE HERE AND WANTED ME TO GO INTO THE MOVIES. THINK OF IT!
OH YES, I REMEMBER THOSE FELLOWS. I WONDER HOW THEY GOT YOUR NAME? AS YOU KNOW, OF COURSE, I GAVE THEM VERY LITTLE SATISFACTION WHEN THEY ASKED ME.
I WAS SO THRILLED. STILL AM. THE MOVIES! ME A STAR! IMAGINE!
AHEM! WELL OF COURSE I SUPPOSE IT IS A DISTINCTION OF SOME SORT TO HAVE SUCH CHAPS GO TO SO MUCH TROUBLE IN FINDING YOU PEGGY, BUT.....
AND ONE OF THEM WAS MR. LE ROI HIMSELF. THINK OF IT....MR. LE ROI!
LE ROI! OH YES. RATHER AN IMPORTANT FELLOW, I TAKE IT. UNFORTUNATELY I DIDN'T GET THAT IMPRESSION OF HIM WHEN HE BLUSTERED INTO MY OFFICE. I THOUGHT HE WAS JUST ANOTHER RATHER COARSE.....
MR. LE ROI! MONTGOMERY EL DORADO. WHAT ARE YOU SAYING? HAVE YOU NEVER HEARD OF MR. LE ROI OF THE MAELSTROM FILMS? REALLY?

I COULD LISTEN TO THIS OPERA FOREVER—
IT SEEMS TO ME THAT IT'S BEEN GOIN' ON RIGHT NOW FER TWENTY YEARS—
NOW WHEN YOU GET TO THE EXCLUSIVE CLUB. YOU WILL BE ABLE TO CONVERSE ABOUT THE OPERA TO THEM—MEN OF THEIR MENTALITY ARE MUSICALLY INCLINED—FROM THE LOOK OF 'EM THEY ARE DECLININ'—
I LISTENED TO THE OPERA ON THE RADIO THIS EVENIN'—
THEN YOU MISSED HEARING THE JASSBO TRIO—THEY WERE GREAT—
AND THE SOAPLESS SOAP MINSTRELS WERE IN RARE FORM—
I LIKE MISS SWITZ, THE YODELER BEST—
AH—YOU SHOULD HAVE HEARD "THE ASH BARRELL MYSTERY"—

Sharing the Good Things

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW ENGLAND floods arrived on schedule and Maine farmers are now in the navy.

Down South the Mississippi River had a run on its banks. Up North, the Merrimac staged an overflow meeting.

* * *

Our Southwestern states could use that water. If they can pipe oil from California to New Jersey they can surely pipe water in the other direction.

Some day we will have everything systematized and all states will have their shares of local blessings. Arizona will irrigate with water from the Great Lakes, Utah will turn a spigot for St. Louis beer and California will send its glorious climate all over the country in paper bags.
